Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Ada Osborne Burt, daughter of Principal A. W. and Mrs. Burt, Park avenue, to Mr. Wm. Gourlay Webster, C.E., of Hamilton, which takes place in Grace Church, Brantford, Thursday afternoon, March 27. And that reminds me, I hear Hamilton is to claim another of our popular Brantford girls as a bride in the near future—the engagement to be made public very soon now, and the wedding following very quickly.

The Courier is in receipt of the London (Eng.) Daily Telegraph of recent date. The following in reference to Peggy Webling's production of "Westward Ho!" will prove interesting to many of our readers: "Westward Ho!" Aladdin's password never had more potency. The very words throw open for us the brave, hearty, "spacious" time of good Queen Bess and the sea-knights who served her; a world of doublet, and hose, and naked swords; of brave words and braver deeds; a time when men "swore" they loved nothing better than a good ship, a good weapon, a long drink, and, as often as not, a fair maid.

It is of this stuff that the new romantic drama founded upon Kingsley's famous story is made, in which Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Hutin Britton elected to make their bow at the Palladium yesterday on their welcome return to England. Of no better material can romance and romantic drama be made, and the very cordial reception which was given to the popular actor and his wife, and also to the authoress, Miss Peggy Webling, at the fall of the curtain on the last tableau—there were three—must have been extremely gratifying to all three. To many people the plot of Kingsley's "Westward Ho!" may be but a faded, youthful memory. One dimly recalls that it deals with one Amyas Leigh and a band of young adventurers who take themselves off to the Spanish Main in quest of a kidnapped heroine, and that there were many thrilling adventures, in which some of the party suffered at the hands of the Inquisition. Despite the obliteration of detail, however, there remains the recollection of the noble framework—the sense of strenuous romance, changeful scenes, and the fearless deportment, outspoken speech, and high ideals of men who were the compeers of Raleigh, Drake, Hawkins, and Grenville.

It is in this preservation of something of the national ideal of Englishmen of all ages since the dawn of Empire that the fame of "Westward Ho!" lies, and it is because much of the same inspiring effect produced by the novel is found in Mr. Matheson Lang's new dramatic venture that it may not be rash to predict a big success for it. No one will deny the playwrighting wisdom of the authoress in making the ending happy, but the three tableaux with which the result is brought about, showing, first, the fight between the Return and the Madre Dolorosa, then the scene at night on deck after battle, and, finally the morning after, with Amyas Leigh in the arms of his Ayacanora, and Frankie's sigh comfortably recovered with the Rose of Torridge at his side, struck one as poor dramatic construction. The sea-fight was, nevertheless, a most stirring episode. Delightful, too, was the maypole scene at the end of Act I. As a contrast that of the Inquisition was even too effective in its realism.

Of the acting it is sufficient to say that Mr. Matheson Lang as Amyas was seen and heard at his best. Miss Britton has played stronger parts, but is giving her house to-day for a pathetic. There is a large cast, all the individual members of which it is impossible to single out for praise. But Miss Marjorie Dane, the delightful child-actress (who will be remembered in "Where Children Rule" and "Alas Jimmy Valentine"), who plays Oxenham's daughter, Mr. Lewis Gilbert as Oxenham, Mr. Harry Ashford as Salvation Yeo, Mr. Halliwell Hobbes as Don Guzman, and Mr. Edward O'Neill as Fra Gerundio, deserve special mention for the able support they offered the principals. A piece will be played for the present at matinees only.

The Charge of the Bargain Brigade.
Half a league half a league,
Half a league onward;
Quick to the bargain sale
Rushed the Six Hundred.
Forward, female brigade;
"Charge the dress goods," she said.
To the department store
Surged the Six Hundred.
"Forward, female brigade."
Was there a soul dismayed?
Hopeful, but yet afraid,
Counters were plundered,
Theirs not to make reply,
Theirs but to dress and fly,
Theirs only but to try
To get that bargain sale
Tore the Six Hundred.

Silks to the right of them,
Gloves to the left of them,
Linen before them,
Floor walkers wondered;
Quizzing the tired clerks,
(You know just how it works)
Pawing with frantic jerks,
Remnants all plundered,
Bravely they rushed and well,
Fither and von, well well,
Without a breathing spell
Crazy Six Hundred.
Flashed fingers here and there,
Snapping up bargains rare,
Each seeming not to care
That the clerks wondered.
Right down the line they broke,
Grabbed remnants—holy smoke!
Bargain sales are a joke.
Every one plundered,
Fought for the choicest goods,
Frantic Six Hundred.
What a cleanup they made,
At that wild bargain raid;
"Will the goods wash or fade?"
Each woman wondered,
Honor the nerve displayed,
Over each nine-cent trade,
Whether 'twas charged or paid,
Tired Six Hundred.

GIRLS! GIRLS! SURELY TRY THIS!
DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

All you need is a 25 cent bottle of "Danderine"—Hair gets lustrous, fluffy and abundant at once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.
A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and fading hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

7% SAFE INVESTMENT

The National Securities Corporation, Limited, now offer to the public their 7% Profit Sharing Bonds, which mature in five years, with interest payable half-yearly on the 1st of June and the 1st of December.

The National Securities Corporation Limited, acts as a holding company for several large and profitable manufacturing plants that have been built up by members of the Corporation in the past quarter of a century. The proceeds of these bonds are to be used in still further developing these plants—in acquiring another long established manufacturing plant which has shown large profits for years—and in purchasing well located timber lands. This latter should largely increase in value in the next few years.

All profits beyond bond interest and stock dividends are to be divided equally between the Bondholders and the Shareholders, and whatever profits are thus divided will be in excess of the 7% annual interest of the Bond.

These Bonds are amply secured by investments of the Corporation in these manufacturing plants, and in the value of lands, timber and mills which it controls, and will be further secured by the acquisition of other plants and timber limits.

The Bonds are offered to the public in denominations of $100 $500 and $1,000, and may be purchased either outright or by means of the periodical payment plan. In the latter case, an initial payment of 10% of the face value of the Bond will be required. Bondholders may withdraw all or part of their investments, with interest at any time after one year on sixty days notice.

Payments should be made to the National Securities Corporation, Limited, either by cheque or money-order.
