I trust, therefore, that you will be good enough to advise the public through the columns of your paper as to where we stand in baking the new standard government flour.-(Ald.) J. P. BALHARRIE.

BAKERS GET THE SHORT END. HELPING THE FRANKFORD WAY (The Retail Druggist of Canada)

The food situation is a most critical one and there is good reason for the strong call for greater production that is going out this year. One of the handicaps to production is the lack of help. Farmers are not going to be able to get sufficient assistance to put in and harvest maximum crops.

Merchants who really have the welfare of the country at heart, may well adopt, during the seeding and harvesting seasons the plan of assitance to farmers of their district followed by the merchants of Frankford, Ont., during a critical period in the harvest last year.

A Wednesday half-holiday is in vogue in Frankford during the summer, but instead of spending it in the usual form of recreation on this occasion, an entirely new form of outing was inaugurated, containing every needed feature of delightful novelty, exercise and usefulness.

The business men of Frankford got together and decided to give production a boost, so a general invitation was issued to spend a Wednesday afternoon in the harvest fields helping the hard-pressed farmers. The response was hearty and generous, and a fleet of motor cars conveyed the willing workers to the fields where their services were gladly utilized by the farmers.

The benefit conferred just from this sporadic attempt at helpfulness was surprising, and it is said that the result of the afternoon's frolic by one squad of Frankford volunteers alone was to place fifty loads of hay and grain in the barns.

Most village and town people know a little bit about farming, Guild in Ontario earnestly asks the and could render quite valuable serpeople of this Province to contribute vices in this way, especially in these to a shower of Soldiers' Comforts, times when many farmers are "up
