ome Points from a Man Who Believ That the Pleasures of Anticipation Are Greater Than Those of Participation —Joys of the Mental Tourist.

I wonder if any body but myself ever took a time-table vacation, asks Luke Sharp in the Detroit Free Fress. It is such a cheap and delightful way of getting round about this little world of ours, that those who have never indulged in one have missed a great deal of inexpensive pleasure.

I have knocked about quite a bit in my time and have seen several places besides Detroit, yet those actual journeys are nothing to my time-table trips.

Detroit, yet those actual journeys are nothing to my time-table trips.

For instance, the first part of this winter I thought I would like to go down to the City of Mexico. I at once went to a passenger tacket office in Detroit and began to make inquiries and load up with time-tables. One of the great advantages of living in America is that you get your time-values for nothing. Now, in England they make you pay a penny for even the smallest time-table of a railway. It is true that some of the larger railways give you quite

The railroads of America, on the other hand, flood the country with time-tables as free as the waters of the Detroit riverthat is, unless you get the water through the pipes of the Water Board.

The men in the Detroit ticket offices are beginning to know me pretty well by this time, and they do not rush away from a cash customer in order to attend to my wonts. They know that I am a person who asks a great many questions, but who seldom buys a ticket. I think they believe that I am something of a fraud, but my intentions are honorable. For the time being I really believe that I am going to all those places that I inquire about. Take the brief course of the City of Mexico and the Mexican Central railroad through to the City of Mexico. After that I found that I could go on to San Antonio by rail and down that way to the Nationai road. I then set to work to compare the different advantages of the different routes. I had great difficulty in making up my mind which I would take or whether I the New Mexican National road to the capital. Or I could go on to San Antonio by rail and down that way to the National road I then set to work to compare the different advantages of the different routes. I had great difficulty in making up my mind which I would take or whether I would go one way and come back the other. There were the delights of visiting the ancient and historical city of New Orieans Galveston had many attractions, and at San Antonio I could see the ruins of the Alamothol I could see the ruins of the Alamothol I could as my hands on rogarding Mexico and what was to be seen there. I found out how much it would cost to go up the big mountain and licerned that the guides expected five dilars a day and thought they would be disappointed in their expectations when they struck the understyped. I got many points on what the cost of living would be and figured up how much time I could spend on the trip.

After that I did what most people of a sensible nature would have done at the first. I fligured up the cost.

Then I gave up the trip.

I don't expect that the aforementioned sensible persons will enter into my enthusiasm on the time-table trip business, but then thoroughly sensible people mines a lot of fun in this world. Anyhow, they don't amass as many time-table is a I do.

Although, as I said before, they charge for their time-tables in Europe, there are many advantages there in the way of taking a time-table trip that are not to be had in America. For a shilling or two a man can get a book containing every time-table in Europe. Then by a further expenditure of cash the gets, one by one, the valuable guide books of every country there, neat and compact and with a red cover. All this makes a time-table vacation easier and more metractive in Europe than in America. For a shilling or two a man can get a book containing every time-table in Europe. Then by a further expenditure of cash the guide books of every country there, neat and compact and with a red cover. All this makes a time-table vacation in America. For a shilling or two a man can get a book containing every time-table in Europe. Then by a further expenditure of cash he gets, one by one, the valuable guide books of every country there, neat and compact and with a red cover. All this makes a time-table vacation easier and more instructive in Europe than in America. There is another great advantage there for the mythical tourist. The rail-way time books and guide books in Europe are made for the railroad companies. For instance, you can't get the rates of fare in an American time-table or railroad guide. I never could understand why it is that the railroads of America are so anxious to conceal their fares from the people; and shaw's very complete book gives every railroad fare in Britain, and costs only 6d. Appleton's railroad guide gives no fare at all, and I imagine does not give a map unless the railroad pays for it. I wanted to find out about the steamers of a large steamship line on my trip to Mexico. There was no mention of the line in Appleton's, so I suppose that line refuses to adventuse and was no mention of the line in Appleton's, so I suppose that line refuses to advertise and so the traveler gets left. Baedecker's guide book gives the names of almost every hotel in Europe and tells honestly whether it is cept no advertisement of any kind at any price. It is a book made for the people and it can be depended on.

There is nothing of that kind in America.

However, to the mental tourist all this makes no difference. It is as cheap to stop, "in your mind," at a first-class hotel as at a poor one.

The philosopher says that the pleasures of anticipation are greater than those of participation. If that is the case I commend my plan of traveling. A time-table tourist has all the fun and has no bills to pay.

Original Forest in New Jersey.

There is not much really original or primeval forest left standing in New Jersey. That is, there are few, if any, large tracts of forest that have not been cut off at some time since the settlement of the State by white men. There is a small piece of white oak woods on the farm of Mr. Thomas Lawrence, near Hamburg, in Suassex County, which has never been cut. These trees cover a remarkable hill, or long, narrow ridge, which rises eighty or one hundred feet above the fertile valley of the Wallfall river, and one would have to travel far to find a more interesting or attractive grove. Though they stand very near to the busy haunts of men, the great trees are populous with gray squirrels, who appear to have learned to feet entirely comfortable and secure among them.

Spiders are the most curious and interesting of the small animals, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Its ingenuity, industry, patience, avariciousness and cunning have furnished texts for scores of essays and bomilies, while naturalists have written volumes descriptive of its habits and peuliarities. Its body has been used for medicine, and even for food, and numerous unsuccessful attempts have been made to turn its industry to account in the manufacture of silk fabrics from its web. It is a very knowing creature and not particularly friendly towards man. Yet cases are on record of ugiy spiders that were trained and domesticated until they would come at their master's call and take food from his hands.

living in America is that you get your time values for nothing. Now, in England they make you pay a penny for even the smallest time-table of a railway. It is true that some of the larger railways give you quite a book for the money. You get all particulars of how much it will cost to ship a horse from one part of the country to nother; what the tariff on dogs is; what the rules and regulations of the company happen to be: what the law is if you assa a station-master, and what various things you will be fined forty shillings for, but all this knowledge is useless to the ordinary man. He prefers to have his penny.

Logic Among Friends.

If people wish to live well together, they must not hold too much logic, and suppose that every thing is to be settled by sufficient reason. Dr. Johnson saw this clearly with regard to married people, when he said: "Wretched would be the pair above all names of wretchedness who should be doomed to adjust by reason, every morning, all the minute details of a domestin day." But the application should be much more general than he made it. There is no ditume for such reasonings, and nothing that is worth them. And when we reconlect how two lawyers, or two pellicians, can go on contending, and that there is no end of it one-sided reasoning on any subject, we shall not be sure that such contention is the best mode for arriving at truth. But it is not the way to arrive at good temper.

An figenious Contrivance.

It is stated that a Hamburg blacksmith named Wolf has constructed an apparatus whereby all the doors in a theater may be opened simultaneously. The other day experiments were made at the Concordia Theater, and on somebody shouting "Fire" the invertor turned the handle of the apparatus fixed in the refreshment bar of the theater, of which eyery exit in the whole building opened at once.
