The Republique Française says the manifesto of the Count of Paris has broken the Consorvative coalition, which is a piece of good fortune for the Republic. The Cabinet will not fail to do its duty if the conspirators pass from words to acts. The Journal des Debats, referring to the manifesto, says the Conservatives understood the Republic is henceforth the sole Government under which they can fight their cause without a sacrifice of their principles and dignity. The Conservative papers refer to the manifesto as a prelude to yigorous action for the constant of the sacration of the sacration of the spikes for the I. U.
