Gossip and Comment

Rockefeller has given another million to Chicago University, and now we expect the greatest football team ever from the Windy City.

Lindsay has won the Ontario Tankard five times, while the Toronto Granites also have five banners in their clubhouse. But the difference is that Lindsay's wins have all come in the last twelve years, while only one of Granites' figures inside that limit, Hamilton Thistles, the only other club in Canada to win the silver can five times, also figure in this year's finals.

But the Thistles' wins mostly figure away. However, one of their rinks this year is of the "kid" variety, and since their victory over Dundas in the primary, the folks around home think pretty well of them.

Of the others, Orillic look the best. They took the Tankara north once, and have been serious contenders on other occasions. Ingersoll, too, are thought to occasions. Ingersoil, too, are thought to have an outside chance, while Sarnia, Hariston, Scarboro' Maple Leafs, Guelph Royals cach have an epportunity to figure as the Lark horse of the year.—Toronto Telegram.

Speaking of the Canada-Mid-Lothian curring match, which the tourists wonby 27 to 143, The Scotsman says: The flost still holding off, play in the province was impossible, and the match was decided on the Scottish ice rink, Crossnyloof, Glasgow. Though scarcely so keen as on Monday, the lee was in splendid condition. Admittedly it suited the visitors' style of play, while, on the other hand, some of the home rinks have had no experience on artificial rinks, and on that account labored under a disadvantage. Fresh from their decisive day, and now thoroughly at home on the rink, the Canadians played with a confidence there was no shaking. rinks, particularly in the forenoon.

HAYES NOT BARRED.

Swedish Runner Ready to Come to America to Race.

New York, Feb. 10 .- Harry Pollok, ne of the promoters of Marathon races in the Garden, issued the following statement last night: "There have been several published statements recently to the effect that Johnny Hayes had been barred from taking part in Mara-thon races in the Garden, and that Dor-ando will not give him another race. If Hayes were barred, so far as we are concerned, he would have no one to blame but himself, and no one knows blame but himself, and no one knows this better than Hayes. The truth of the matter, however, is very far from the impression that Hayes has evidently conveyed to his friends. Dorando has twice, since his match with Hayes in the Garden last Thanksgiving eve, of fered to give him a return race, once in a match promoted by Tim Hurst in St. Louis, and again in Chicago, when the proposition for Dorando to race there was first broached. In each instance Hayes claimed he was not in condition to run. If Hayes is so anxious for a match and is confident he can defeat Dorando, as he seems to be from his public statements, he can sign up any time he wants to race the Italian, winner take all. Maybe Hayes will not be so anxious for a return match along these lines."

John Svanberg, of Sweden, is said to be ready to come to America to meet any or all of the Marathon cracks. He is reported to have run twelve miles in 3 3-5 seconds slower than Shrubb's record for this distance. Before the Olym-

Sherring does not need the money, and moreover, he is counting upon running in the Olympic Marathon, to be held in Greece in 1910. The professional Marathon is all right in its place and Longboat deserves all the credit that he is receiving, but it is to be hoped that Sherring will remain a good amaleur and that the Canadian flag will fly for him when the winner of the next Olympic Marathon is announced.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—Arthur Farrell, who played hockey in Berlin some years ago and was so well known as the whirtwind right wing of the Shamrocks, died on Sunday at Ste. Agathe.

He was a member of that famous Shamrock septette, which for so long met all comers and always came out of the struggle victorious—Triney, Farrell, Brannan, Scanlan, Wall, Tansey, McKenna. It was a great bunch.

Arthur Farrell was credited by his comrades on the ice and by followers of the green with knowing more about the game of hockey than anyone on skates. He had it down to a science, and the book he published on how to play the game was eagerly sought.

"SULLY" NOW GENIUS.

Foul Tips Glance Off This Pad.

Chicago, Feb. 5 .- The name of William Sullivan, better known to baseball fans as "Sully," was enrolled last week in the particular hall of fame represent ed by the official records of the United States patent office at Washington, tak-

do. Three leading faults in the old inflating its place under the same roof, if not on the same page, with Robert Fulton, Thomas Edison, and the remaining host of inventive geniuses.

The patent by which the crack White sox catcher sought to protect his invention of an ingenious new backstop's protector has been granted by the Government, and already plans have been made by Sullivan for the manufacture and sale of the device, with which the majority of south side rooters were made familiar last season. In future years, while Fielder-Jones is hewing a fortune out of Oregon timber, while Dougherty is watching his oil wells spout, and John Kling is coining quarters and faives out of the clicks of ivory balls, Sullivan expects to be provided with superfine eigars by the demands of future great catchers for his foul tip deflector.

2011 Sullivan is one athlete who is not going to quit the national game. He was heard from by a local sporting goods firm, from which he ordered one of his new protectors. He didn't ask to have the pad sent to Ireland, where he is spending the winter, so it is presumed he intends to be back on the south side when the season opens. "Sully" is at present in Cork, and is so well pleased with Erin's isle that he is delaying his return to this country until the last moment.

Patent officials always define invent-ve applicants into two classes, and call hem "freaks" and "naturals." In the irst class they include the dreamers and impracticable geniuses to whom the per-petual motion machine is the uttermost unbition. The "naturals" include men whose inventions are the natural prointimate knowledge of the de fects of devices already in use and de-signed through experience to remedy

Instead he enacted the role of dog himself and blossomed out one day in the new protector in the presence of a multitude of south side fans.

The debut was a success, but Sullivan did not bank on a single performance. He tried the thing out for a whole season in all kinds of weather—hot, cold, wet and dry—kindly loaned it to some of his esteemed contemporaries and rivals, so that it could face all kinds of pitching, and finally decided it would do.

The lower portion of the protector is composed of a series of vertical, instead of horizontal padded ribs, so arranged that they deflect the foul tip downward and thus offer greater protection than the old pad even when perfectly inflated. The shoulders of the catcher also are protected by padded extensions, which act as buffers even when a catcher is stooping down or leaning forward for a low pitched ball.

To obviate the handicap to a catcher of the catcher also make the catcher also provided the catcher also provided ball.

To obviate the handicap to a catcher's throwing, the whole protector is supported on the body by a flexible har-ness much after the fashion of the average suspenders. This harness is readily adjustable to the wearer, and, even when fitted tightly to the body, does not interfere with the catcher's freedom

Sullivan made all arrangements for the manufacture of his protector before starting for Ireland last fall, and on his return in advance of the White Sox training trip will lay plans for corner-
