MEDITATION AMONG THE TOMBS.

ON THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.
Here lies John, Duke of Marlborough,
Who ran the French through and through
He married Sarah Jennings, spinster, Died at Windsor, and was buried at Westminster.

FROM BROOK CHURCHYARD, ENGLAND.

God praised!
Here lies Mr. Dudley, senior,
And Jane, his wife, also,
Who, while living, was his superior;

But see what death can do!

Two of his sons still lie here,

Oss Water, Father Joe;

They all of them went in the year 1610 below.

In St. Michael's Churchyard, Aberystwyth, is another, to the memory of David-

Davies, blacksmith:

My hedge and Hammer lay reclined,

My Bellows, too, have lost their wind,

My forge is extinct, my forge decayed,

And in the dust my Vice is laid;

My Coal is spent, my Iron gone,

My Nails are driven—my work is done.

In St. Germain's, in the Isle of Nan, the following very singular epitaph is yet to be seen, in Latin, over the tomb of Dr.

Samuel Rutter, formerly prebendary of Litchfield, and afterwards Bishop of Sodor

and Man:

In this house,

Which I have borrowed from

My brother the worm,

In I.

SAMUEL, by Divine permission,

Bishop of this Island,

Stop, reader;

Behold and smile at

THE PALACE OF A BISHOP!

who died May 30,

In the year

1653.

An Hibernian epitaph reads as follows—it is taken from the old churchyard at Belurbo, Ireland:

Here lies John Highly, whose father and mother were drowned in their passage to America.

Had they both lived, they would have been buried here!

The following admulatory voice from a tomb in Thetford churchyard, Norfolk, will at least be pursued with interest by the advocates of the Temperance cause.—

My grandfather lies buried here,

My father died, and I am dear;

My sister slept down dead in the Minories;

But the reason why I'm here interred, according to my thinking.

In owing to my good living and hard drinking!

Therefore, good people, if you wish to live long,

Don't drink too much wine, brandy, gin, or anything strong.

A young lady has written it down in her albion that kissing is a capital offence.

The man who made a shoe for the foot of a mountain, is now engaged on a hat for the head of a discourse—after which he will manufacture a plume for Gen. Intelligence.

Dentist (looking wise and speaking with careful accent.) "Well, navigator of the seas, which is the tooth you've extracted?

Is it a molar or an incisor?" Jeak (throwing overboard his quid and speaking tartly.)

"It is in the second tier, starboard side, near the hatches. Bear a hand, you land lubber, and heave away, for it is nipping my jaw like a sea turtle!"

John Bunyan, while in Bedford jail, was called upon by a Quaker desirous of making a convert of him. "Friend John,

I have come to thee with a message from the Lord, and after having searched for thee in all the prisons in England I am glad to have found thee out at last."

"If the Lord had sent you," returned Bunyan, "you need not have taken so much pains to find me out, for the Lord knows I have been here twelve years."

VALUE OF NEWSPAPERS.—Dr. Johnson,

when in the fulness of years and knowledge said:—I never took up a newspaper without finding something I would have deemed it a loss not to have seen; never without deriving from it instruction or amusement."

Revenge is a common passion; it is the sin of the un instructed. The savage deems it noble; but Christ's religion, which is the sublime civilizer, emphatically condemns it.

Why? Because religion ever seeks to enable man, and nothing so debases him as revenge.

A disappointed author, indulging in a vein of abuse against a successful rival exclaimed; "he is without exception, the most superficial, self sufficient, ignorant, shallow creature that ever made any precision to literature." Gently, my dear sir," interrupted a gentleman, "we quite interrupt you."

The Cherokee marriage ceremony is very expressive—man and woman joining hands over running water, indicating that their lives are to flow on in one stream.

At a recent lecture, Dr. Boynton related that wishing to explain to a little girl the manner in which the lobster casts its shell, when it has outgrown it, he said, "What do you do when you've outgrown your cloths?

You throw them aside, don't you?"

"Oh, no!" replied the little one, "we let out the tucks!"—The Doctor confessed she had the advantage of him there.

CURIOS ADVERTISEMENT.—The following advertisement is copied from a recent number of the Connecticut Courant published at Hartford, in America:—

"Julie, my wife, has grown quite rude,

She has left me in a lonesome mood;

She has left my heart,

She has left me in a lonesome mood;

She has left me in spite of friends and church,

She has carried with her all my shirts,

Now ye who read this paper,

Since she cut off this reckless caper,

I will not pay one single fraction

For any debts of her contraction."
