We say the times are grievious hard, And hard they are tis true ! But drankards, to your wives and babes, They're harder made by you.

The drunkard's tax is self-impo Like every other sin ; The taxes altogether cost Not half so much as Gin.

The state compels no man to drink . He only is to blame;
'Tis Gia and gambling sinks him down To rage, and want, and shame.

The kindest husband changed by Gin, Is for a tyrant known, The tenderest heart that Nature made Becomes a heart of stone.

Mr. mid not ack had let-tful rith lun int,

nt, ive en-on, ok an ed ly, itel

In many a house the harmless babes Are poorly clothed and fed, Because the craving Gin-shop takes The children's daily bread.

Come, neighbour, take a walk with me, Through many a bustling street, And see the cause of poverty

Behold the shivering female there, Who plies her woful trade ! 'Tis ten to one you'll find that Gin That helpless wretch has made. Look down those steps, and view below

You cellar under ground; There every want and every woe, And every ain are found Those little children trembling there,

With hunger and with cold, Were by their parent's love of Gin, To sin and misery sold. Look through the prison's iron bars

Look through that dismal grate, And learn what dire misfortunes brought So terrible a fate !

The debtor, and the felon, too, Though differing much in sin, Too oft you'll find were thither brough By all-destroying Gin.

See the pale maufacturer there, How lank and lean he lies ! How haggard is his sickly check ! How dim his hollow eyes!

How amply had his gains sufficed, On wife and children spent, But ail must for his pleasure go,

See that apprentice-young in years-But hackeneyed long in sin ! What made him rob his master's till ? Alas ! 'twas love of Gin.

That serving man-I knew him once, So jaunty, spruce, and smart ! Why did he steal, then pawn the plate? Twas Gin ensnared his heart !

But hark ! what swful sound was that ? 'Tis Newgate's awful bell ! It tolls, alas, for human guilt ! Some malefactor's knell!

Oh, woful sound ! Oh, what could cause Such punishment and sin ? Hark ! hear his words, he owns the cause ! " Bad company and Gin."

And when the future lot is fixed. Of darkness, fire, and chains ; How can the drunkard hope to 'scape Those everlasting pains.

THE WATER! THE WATER! BY WILLIAM MOTHERWELL.

The Water ; the Water ! The joyous brook for me, That tuneth through the quiet night Its ever-living glee. The Water ! the Water !

That sleepless merry heart, Which gurgles on unstintedly, To all around it some small measure Of its own most perfect pleasure.

The Water ! the Water ! The gentle stream for me, That gushes from the old gray stone, Beside the alder tree. That ever-bubbling spring
I loved and looked on while a child, In deepest wondering,—
And asked it whence it came and went, And when its treasures would be spent. The Water ! the Water !

The merry, wanton brook, That bent itself to pleasure me. Like mine own shepherd crook. The Water ! the Water ! That sang so sweet at noon. And sweeter still all night, to win Smiles from the pale proud moon, And from the little fairy faces That gleam in heaven's remotest places The Water ! the Water !

The dear and blessed thing, That all day fed the little flowers On its banks blossoming. The Water ! the Water ! That murmured in my ear. Hymns of a suint-like purity, That angels well might hear ; And whisper in the gates of heaven. flow meek a pilgrim had been shriven

The Water ! the Water ! Where I have shed salt tears. La loneliness and friendliness, A thing of tender years. The Water ! the Water ! Where I have happy been, And showered upon its bosom flowers Culled from each meadow green, And idly hoped my life would be lo grow ned by love's idolatry.

The Water ! the Water ! . My heart yet burns to think How cool thy fountain sparkled forth, For parched lip to drink. The Water ! the Water !

Of mine own native glen;
The gladsome tongue I oft have hear
But no'er shall hear again;
Though fancy fills my ear for aye
With sounds that hwe so far away?

The Water! the Water! The mild and glassy wave, Upon whose broomy banks I've longed To find my silent grave. The Water ! the Water ! O blessed to me thou art ;

Thus sounding in life's solitude, The music of my heart, And filling it, despite of radness, With dreamings of departed gladness The Water ! the Water !

That whispered to my heart how-soon This weary life was done. The Water ! the Water ! That rolled so bright and free, And bade me mark how beautiful Was its soul's purity ;
