Carpentier Picked By French Fans To Win Big Fight.

New York—Georges Carpentier, the French people, is the man of Destiny. No more do they doubt the ability of this man, decorated for bravery during the world war to defeat Jack Dempsey on July 2, than they doubted the ability of the Allied armies finally to overcome Germany. They have followed the steady rise of the young pugilist from the days when as a bantamweight, he first gained national note. They have studied accounts of his history before that time. In their minds, Dempsey will be unable to fall this national hero, just as German machine guns which are said to have riddled his plane repeatedly were unable to bring him down.

Carpentier's official war record investigated recently, revealed that the boxer spent 18 months at the front, flying a two-seater observation plane. He received the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire.

The record shows that Carpentier enlisting as a chauffeur in August, 1914, received a license to pilot a Farman airplane in May, 1915. He was sent with a squadron to the front, remaining three months and then was assigned to general reserve aviation as a spare pilot.

On August 28, 1915, Carpentier suffered a leg injury but recovered rapidly and was sent to the front with the Farman Escadrille for reconnaissance work in preparation for the Champagne offensive which began Sept. 25, 1915.

Carpentier's citation, which resulted in the award of the Croix de Guerre, reads: Sept. 25, he did not hesitate to fly during misty weather and rain less than 200 yards above enemy lines. He has given proof in many circumstances of sang froid, never returning until his mission was accomplished, often with his machine riddled with bullets and shell splinters.

On Nov. 5, 1916, Carpentier received the Medaille Militaire for heroic action. In December, 1916 he was forced to quit the front because of illness and never returned in May, 1917, being declared physically unfit to continue as a pilot. He was detached from aviation and detailed as army physical instructor near Paris. Six months after the armistice, he was transferred back to the aviation and demobilized.

Carpentier's courteous demeanor and evident culture, unusual in a boxer, have created the impression in America that he is the son of wealthy parents. This is not so.

The son of a miner, Carpentier was born in Lens the coal-mining centre of France on Jan. 12, 1894. He started work as an office boy in a brewery. The ring called at an early age, however, and when only 14, he took up boxing, then being popularized in France by the visits of "Kid" McCoy and other American fighters. At the same time, he was dancing and singing in the cafes and restaurants of his native Lens, with Francois Desamps who had ever since been his companion, guardian and manager. It was Desamps who discovered in Carpentier the requisites of a potential boxer. He attempted, one day, to punish him, using boxing gloves rather than the American "switch" in the midst of the scheduled "punishment". Desamps relates that "Georges slipped stepped with agility and poise—the lights suddenly went out on me."

From that moment, Georges was a boxer. Desamps, somewhat of a fighter himself, took the youth into the gymnasium to train him. He fought three four round battles in that first year and his total ring earnings amounted to $184. He will receive that much for each two seconds of his bout with Jack Dempsey, provided the match goes the scheduled 12 rounds.

Climbed Steadily.
Since that time, Carpentier has climbed steadily and slowly. Sometimes, he has slipped but the progress has been consistently forward and upward. He gained his first knockout in 1908 when, as a bantamweight, he stopped Molanessa in three rounds. The same year, he defeated Salmon, one of England's cleverest little men in 18 rounds. A short time later, he knocked out in one round Wetnick, a lad who had almost held him over two years before.

It was in 1909 that Carpentier defeated Charlie Ledoux, famous French bantamweight and the craftiest boxer that the lad had met up to that time. More fame followed when he defeated Paul Tib in 10 rounds, but soon after Georges was knocked out by Gloria in six rounds.

Carpentier met his first American opponent, Frank Loughrey, in May, 1911, winning a decision Meeting the best of American boxers, including Harry Lewis, a well known middleweight, and Dixie Kid, by whom he was knocked out in five rounds, he nevertheless developed steadily, gaining in weight, strength and cleverness until he defeated Jim Sullivan for the middleweight championship of Europe.

Two defeats at the hands of the Americans Billy Papke and Frank Klaus, marked his 1912 record rounds and Frank Klaus beat him on a foul when the nimble-brained Desamps clambered into the ring to save his portage from a knockout.

The two bouts with Bombardier Wells, both of which the Frenchman won by knockouts, featured his 1913 battles. Carpentier showed great gameness in his first fight with Wells when he was knocked down for the count of nine in the fourth. The second Wells battle was a Carpentier victory in one round. In the same year, he knocked out Cylone Smith, Bandman Rice and George Gunther.

Defeated by Jeannette.
Carpentier lost no ground in the eyes of ring followers when defeated by Joe Jeannette, the American negro heavyweight early in 1914. It was to his credit that he twice sent the negro to the mat for count of nine.

But the war was close at hand and his six-round victory over Gunboat Smith on a foul was his only important battle before the young Frenchman exchanged boxing gloves for an airplane and machine. Exhibitions behind the lines composed his entire boxing activities until 1919 when, shortly after being discharged from the service he knocked out Dick Smith in Paris. Since that time, his battle with Joe Beckett, of England, which he won in a round and that in which he knocked out Battling Levinsky in four rounds at Jersey City, N.J., last summer, have been his only contests of importance. The Levinsky fight is the only one in which Americans have seen Carpentier in formal action on this side of the water. It was a fiasco so far as a championship test is concerned. The Frenchman will climb through ropes on July 2 an unknown quantity, so far as the first hand information of American boxing fans is concerned.

Notice to Subscribers

Owing to the greatly increased cost of news-print the publishers of Daily Newspapers have no option but to increase the subscription price.

Newfoundland is probably the only country in the world where the one cent rate prevalent before this war has been maintained throughout the struggle and during the days of reconstruction. This has been due to the courtesy of the Anglo-Nfld. Development Company, which has supplied news-print to local offices at a minimum rate.

The strike situation in Grand Falls, and the maintenance of the wage schedule in force during the period when the cost of living was at its maximum, make an increase in revenue imperative.

It is with regret that the decision has been arrived at, but no other course is now possible, and the proprietors feel sure that the increased cost will be approved by the public. It is not necessary to remind our readers that the same price for the Daily Newspaper has prevailed hitherto, as existed when four small pages formed the daily issue.

COMMENCING ON JULY 1ST, THE PRICE OF ALL CITY PAPERS WILL BE TWO CENTS A COPY.

In the case of prepaid subscriptions, the new rate will be effective on expiry.

Acknowledgments. Subscriptions Lists, and Reading Notices of an advertising character, will, in future, be charged for at regular advertising rates.

Rates for Births, Deaths and Marriages, fifty cents (50c.) for five lines or under. Extended notices, ten cents (10c.) a line, payable, invariably, in advance.

Wedding Bells.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church, on June 30th, the contracting parties being Mr. Stephen Maddox, of Bay Bulls, and Miss Mary Leonard, of St. Leonard's. The bride looked charming in a dress of white silk with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, and was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret Malone, who was tastefully dressed in cream silk with hat to match. Mr. Michael Williams, of Bay Bulls, ably supported the groom. The wedding party motored to Bay Bulls, their future home, where a happy time was spent. They were the recipients of many costly and useful presents.

Ranger From Labrador.

S.S. Rauger, Capt. Taylor, arrived in port last evening from Labrador. The steamer was as far north as Emily Harbor and on the way down called at practically all the ports north of Cape Charles. After leaving Battle Harbor scattered ice was met, but it did not interfere with the ships progress and all the crews with their gear were landed at the desired points. The Ranger reports that when leaving Emily Harbor, there was a solid jam of ice to the northward. Many schooners were seen in the Straits when the Ranger was crossing. There is a fair sign of fish from Spear Harbor to Cape Charles and prospects for a good voyage are considered favourable.

C. of E. Orphanage Garden Party.

A meeting was held in connection with the above in the C.L.B.C. Armory on Wednesday evening to make arrangements for the event which takes place on August 10th. The election of officers resulted in the appointment of Mr. R. Dowden, Chairman, and Mr. C. E. A. Jeffery, Secretary. Judging from the enthusiasm of the large and representative gathering and from the elaborate programme of athletic contests, and events amusing and entertaining, drawn up, it is safe to predict that the Garden Party this year will be an even greater success than any in the past.
