Romance of Old Inverness.

RECALLS GALLANT PRETENDER.

It is surely a more than remarkable fact that a town which, a matter of two centuries ago, was a stronghold of enemies of the King should now-day be the scene of perhaps the most faithful Cabinet meetings in the history of Great Britain.

The story of this town—Inverness—is inextricably bound up with that of Bonnie Prince Charlie, the Young Pretender to the Crown of Scotland, and the most romantic figure in Scottish history.

It was in the old town on the shores of the Moray Firth that Charles spent many of the happiest moments of his life. And it was near the Highland capital that the last spark of the flames of the rebellion he led died out.

Inverness has been the scene of many great incidents in history, but somehow it seems to breathe, this old town, more of the spirit of the "draft days" of 1745, when Charles led his army against "Butcher" Cumberland, the English general. It is a wonderful romance, this story of the Jacobite rising.

With a magnificent boldness, the Young Pretender, as handsome and dashing as ever, landed on the west coast of Scotland, and, rallying the Highland men around him, swooped down on Edinburgh and the south.

Success followed success, and soon the handsome young rebel had reached Derby. London was in a panic; King George II. sent his jewels abroad; Bank of England officials started paying out demands in sixpences.

But the Highland army was exhausted. It fortunes changed. It suffered a grave reverse and started to retreat. Beaten but not disheartened, Charles, with great strategy, managed to lead his now greatly diminished army to Culloden, near Inverness, which seemed to have some magnetic attraction for him.

The clansmen charged the English again and again. But all in vain. The rebels were defeated, and Charles had to fly. Assisted by brave Flora MacDonald, the heroic Jacobite woman, Bonnie Prince Charlie disguised himself as a servant-girl, and hiding among the rocks and valleys succeeded in escaping to France.

The earlier rising of 1715—which met with a similar fate—started at Braemar, the scene of the thrilling Highland gatherings. But the penalties of the 1715 defeat were small indeed compared with those of 1745, when the clansmen were forbidden to wear the tartan, the feudal authority of the nobles was abolished, and the carrying of arms prohibited.

Bitter as was the defeat, the suppression of the kilt was the greatest blow of all. The pride of the Highlanders never would submit to this, and although many of them allowed themselves to be formed into regiments to fight for England, the spirit of lawlessness remained so long as the tartan was banned.

With the revival of the kilt—the initiative of the Prince Consort—the Braemar gathering came to life once more in all its glory. Since then year after year the same inspiring scene takes place. It is hard to imagine anything more thrilling than the march past of the clansmen, kilts swinging, bagpipes playing, and claymores flashing. Anyone who had seen those mighty kilted men and listened to the heart-catching wall of the pipes, can never forget them. It is the romance of Scotland come to life.

But even apart from history, there is something about the grandeur of Highland scenery that stamps it as apart from and more beautiful than any other. Like some jewel clasping the folds of the Grampian mountains to the blue zone of the sea, Inverness has inspired more than one poet, and even Shakespeare saw fit to write about it in "Macbeth."

Even more romantic and beautiful is Moy Hall. The Young Pretender was nearly captured at Moy, but Lady Macintosh, sometimes known as "Colonel Anne," because of the spirit with which she adhered to the Jacobite cause, saved him.

C. C. C. Grand Carnival.

The C.C.C. Final Grand Carnival takes place in the Prince's Rink on Friday next, November 25th, at 8.30 and no doubt there will be a record attendance. The receipts go towards paying off the debt on their Hall, and as the admission fee is only 20c. it is earnestly requested that the public will turn up in large numbers to help the band in their effort to wipe off their entire indebtedness by the end of the year. The last Carnival was a wonderful success, being attended by 2,000 people, and those who attended have the satisfaction of knowing that their 20c. contributed on that occasion helped to make a big hole in the debt and trust that they will again turn up, together with those who have not yet attended either the first or the second Carnival.

This is positively the last Carnival for the season, as the Band are booked up with engagements for the next few weeks, and we again repeat that it is to be hoped that the public will turn up in their thousands and by their attendance they will show that they appreciate the work of the Brigade Bands who, during the twelve months in the year are at the beck and call of all. It is expected the attendance will be about 2,500 and a big increase in Masqueraders, and regardless of the weather the Carnival must go on, and the large attendance will make the Rink comfortable for the spectators, as was amply proven at the Dominion Sports last night.

General admission and Masqueraders tickets 20c. are on sale at Hutton's Music Store, and the Numbered Reserved Seats 30c., at the Royal Stationery Store. Don't miss this big final event. See Trapnell's window with prizes to pick from.

"Ruth"—A Sacred Cantata.

Everything is now in readiness for the Recital of the Sacred Cantata "Ruth" by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Choir in the Kirk to-morrow (Thursday) evening. A splendid programme has been arranged and is divided into two parts; the first will consist of miscellaneous selections while the Cantata will form the second part entirely. The items in the first part of the programme will prove as interesting as they are varied, the choir opening with an anthem "Hail, Gladdening Light," composed by Dr. George E. Martin. Then follows his organ solo by the organist and director, Mr. Mawer, Lemmens grand fantasia "The Storm." A double quartet consisting of male members of the choir, in "The Lord is my Strength," by Thielson; Hon. A. W. Mews contributes a violoncello solo with organ accompaniment. The next number consists of the well-known soprano and chorus from Rossini's "Stabat Mater" "Inflammatus." Mrs. Harvey Small taking the solo part. Two short organ pieces complete the first part. The Recital will commence at 8.15 prompt, and it is requested that the audience will be in their seats by that time as no one will be admitted during the performance of any item.

The Big Lesson Wrigley Learned in Dull Times.

"The result of my investigation was that I signed up in the midst of the depression of 1907 for $1,500,000 worth of advertising—our first national contract and a very large one indeed for us at that time. It was, as you see, another restraint in the face of an opportunity for immediate profit.

"But for once the policy did not involve the sacrifice of immediate profits even. We really had expected it would. We were after the vivid impression we thought we could make on dealers and consumers at a time when so few people were trying to sell them, and we were willing to pay something for that. We were willing to wait for our returns. But we did not have to wait. They came generously enough even the first month to meet what had seemed an enormous first payment on the advertising, due at the end of the month, and the payments every month thereafter were entirely met out of the increase in our profits, with a continuously widening margin to spare."

—Wm. Wrigley, Jr. in "System."

Christian Brothers' Annual Collection.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—As the ex-pupils and all other friends of the Christian Brothers are reminded again of the annual collection next Sunday, will you kindly permit me to express the hope that this year will establish another splendid record in the total contributions. We need not fear, I am sure, that the collection will be a good one, for the ex-pupils and all other kind friends of the noble teachers have never yet failed to respond generously to this annual appeal, but as conditions this year with some former generous contributors may not be so favorable as before, let us hope then that those who are not so affected may counterbalance the result by the increased weight of their generosity. I know, Sir, my old fellow school-mates and all the ex-pupils who during the past 45 years have passed out of the schools, will never forget the gratitude they owe to those who gave them their early training and that remembering this, as they have always done before, the collection will again be swelled next Sunday so as to make it even better than the best that we ever had before.

Yours truly,
OLD BOY.

Enjoyable Card Tourney.

Last night a very successful and enjoyable "forty-five" tournament was held in the Club Rooms of the Society of United Fishermen, St. John's Lodge, No. 5. The Club Committee made the most ample and complete arrangements, and soon the maximum number of players were busy thumping the tables. The first prize—a fine fat goose—was won by Mr. George Buchanan, his son Hubert carrying off the second one, which was a $2 bank note. Other similar events will be held during the winter, such reunions assisting in developing a spirit of true enjoyment and innocent pleasure.

Shipwrecked Mariners Arrive.

Captain Dalton and crew of S.S. Fern, wrecked last Saturday at Western Head, St. John's, arrived in the city by train yesterday afternoon. From members of the crew it is learned that the ship struck the rocks at 11.30 p.m. during a dense fog. Those who were sleeping forward were thrown from their berths. All hands were immediately on deck and preparations were made to leave. The ship began to go down by the bow and shortly after midnight she was abandoned. The crew in open boats had some difficulty in getting their bearings, but fortunately sighted Cape Pine Light, St. John's, and the 24 men landed safely. Only part of their belongings were saved.

RECOGNITION.

The care of the teeth is now recognized as a necessity. In fact the large hospitals all over the world examine the patients' teeth and where it is possible put them in good condition before attempting a surgical operation. Experience has shown that the patient has a better chance for recovery with a clean healthy mouth than without it. This ought to convince the most skeptical that care of the teeth is requisite to health.

THE HOOVER!

IT BEATS—AS IT SWEEPS—AS IT CLEANS.

It is no longer considered good housekeeping to overlook, between semi-annual housecleanings, the continual accumulation of germ-breeding dirt in the depths of one's rugs. For a new standard of cleanliness, that of rugs kept totally free of dirt the year around, has been introduced by The Hoover. This efficient cleaner thereby minimizes the danger of sickness and repeatedly saves its moderate cost by preserving all rugs from wear. In one easy, rapid, dustless operation, guaranteed to prolong rug life, it gently beats out all germ-laden, nap-wearing grit, from beneath rug surfaces, electrically sweeps up stubbornest litter, erases trodden nap, revives colours and suction cleans. Only The Hoover does all this. Get a Hoover and live in an ever-clean home.
