The Panama Canal.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Daily News will comment thus tomorrow on the prospect that work on the Panama Canal is to be resumed: "The good will of the concern as it stands cannot be worth much, nor are American or French capitalists the sort of people to pay over much for sentiment. If £20,000 can complete the work there seems to be no reason why commercial success should not dawn on the enterprise at some distant day."

A dispatch received by the Standard from Paris this evening says: "The issue of new shares of the Panama Canal Company is fixed for the 18th. The capital is 85,000,000 francs, of which 40,000,000 has already been disposed of. The directors include representatives of the Credit Lyonnais, Credit Industriel and the Societe Generale.

Assassins Arrested.

ROME, Sept. 7.—The seven Anarchist prisoners arrested here will be tried on a charge of conspiring to assassinate Premier Crispi. Documents found in their lodgings showed that they began plotting against him but a few days after Loga's futile attempt to shoot him. The prisoner Monagol, who is hardly more than a boy, is compromised by a letter which he had written to a dangerous Anarchist in Florence, but still carried in his pocket when he was arrested. In the letter he wrote: "Even if hero Loga failed there are other comrades to succeed him. Their arms will not tremble."

Emperor William's Conceit.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—In his speech last night at Koenigsberg Emperor William said that knowing that the people were passing through a hard time his daily thought was how to help them. He asked their support. Instead of joining the professional opposition of politicians they had rather trustfully commune with him. He was always ready to lend them a willing ear. He had shown his solicitude and anxiety to assist the people of the province in his measures for the extension of railways, building dykes, improving the navigation of the Vistula and laying out state funds to assist the local authorities. Coming to the budget he said that measure would give fresh proof of his paternal care. Let the people preserve their minds in quietude, hoping for better times. The statue of the first emperor with sword uplifted was symbolic of law and order. Concluding, he said in the arduous struggle against the designs to destroy the constitution and the life of society, the Prussian nobility, like the ivy around the oak, cling around his house. "May it be so with the whole of German nobility, showing a bright example to the fractions of the populace who are wavering in their loyalty. Forward, under God, and dishonor to him who deserts his king."

The Post, free Conservative, says of the Emperor's speech: "His declaration for religion, morality and order against forces of the revolution will find a loud echo throughout the land."

The Vossische Zeitung says: "The ivy rather lives on the tree than protects it. When the storms come the tree does not require any ivy to protect it if its roots have struck into sound ground."

Borren Zeitung: "It is a sign of the times that the Emperor attributes the duty of protecting the oak to the nobility alone. His Majesty's other faithful subjects would appeal to them to fight for him against Social Democrats and Anarchists."

The motive for the crime consisted in Mrs. Raes possessing a secret which the murderers feared she would reveal. SOMETHING NEW. Essex & Co. Extend the Facilities of Their Works—Their Trade is on the Increase.

Surprises never cease. They come from all quarters. Inventors do their share, and so do manufacturers, and one of the most pleasing to Londoners is the announcement that the Essex Brass and Iron Company has hunched into a new departure in their business. This company has been known for fifteen years. It has been to the front during its whole existence. The goods turned out by the firm are first-class in every respect, which is acknowledged by dealers from one end of Canada to the other. But, of course, with an enterprising firm trade always is on the increase, and extension of facilities is only a matter of time. The Essex company now have a very complete outfit for all kinds of plating and polishing. Work of all kinds can be done and given prompt attention. You can get your bicycle (if you have one) polished and plated so that it will look equal to new, or you can have skates and stove trimmings replated in any style, or oxidized to match any shade. The firm has recently commenced the manufacture of a large number of fancy brass goods for house furnishing purposes. This is a new industry for London, and is in addition to the regular business carried on by the Essex company. Plumbers' and steam-fitters' brass goods are also manufactured in every conceivable variety. The many additions to the business has naturally caused an increase in the number of hands employed, which will be good news, considering the dullness of times. Essex's business is not dull, though. It keeps on the boom. This is plain evidence that their work is of the best, and their prices are within the reach of all.

Partlo, of Ingersoll, situated on the Hamilton road was discovered to be in flames, and the villagers turned in with a will. Little to save the building could be done, owing to the lack of fire-fighting apparatus. Attention was given to adjoining buildings, and it was only by hard work that they were saved from destruction. The mill, a two-story brick structure, was completely destroyed, together with the machinery, which was of the most improved make and had only been in operation a short time. Mr. Partlo's son was manager of the mill, but he was away on his holidays at the time of the blaze. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin, as it occurred before the heavy storm. The loss will reach $10,000.

HE BOBS UP AGAIN. Sam Murray, Whom the Doctors Had Pronounced as Incurable, Still on Deck—Now Acting as Foreman for a Big Lumber Concern.

NORTH BAY, Sept. 2.—Sam Murray's name is one that has often figured in newspaper columns during the past eighteen months, because he was cured of paralysis and blood poisoning by Dodd's Kidney Pills after half a dozen physicians had pronounced him incurable. On the strength of physicians' certificates Murray was paid his disability claim by the Grand Trunk. Since he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills he has been accepted as a first-class risk by a leading life insurance company. About a year ago he got a position as foreman for the big lumber concern of Davidson & Hay, of Toronto, and the fact that he was able satisfactorily to attend to the trying duties of such a position, is ample evidence of the permanency of his cure.

The earlier symptoms of dyspepsia, heartburn and occasional headaches, should not be neglected. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla to be cured.
