THE DIVISION OF LOVE'S LABOR.

'Twas she, Not he,
With blushing cheek,
Who sweethearts love disclosed.
'Twas he, Not she,
In tones so weak
United love proposed.

'Twas he, Not she,
With lips aglow,
Imparted first a kiss.
'Twas she, Not he,
As who must know,
Reciprocated this.

'Twas he, Not she,
Who asked consent,
From stern but loving sire,
'Twas she, Not he,
Who plead assent,
And calmed paternal ire.

'Twas she, Not he,
Who named the day
When hearts as one would thro',
'Twas he, Not she,
Who had to pay
The pearly for his job.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—No police court to-day.

—License Inspector Henderson is ill.

—Harry Lindley finished a successful engagement at the Grand last night.

—Thos. McDowell, an old-time vagrant, was arrested in London West to-day.

—A session of the Ninth Division Court was held to-day before Judge Edward Elliott.

—Newton W. Rowell, of Toronto, formerly of London, has been appointed a notary public.

—The old tile drain connecting the jail with the Dundas street sewer became blocked the other day, and it will be replaced with new tile.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Adam Murray was held from her residence, Stanley street, yesterday afternoon, and a large number paid their last respects to one whom they revered in life. Rev. W. J. Clark officiated.

—Mr. G.J.A. Andrus, science master of the Collegiate Institute, Ont., still retains his popularity with both professors and pupils of the Institute. It is said Guy ranks amongst the foremost in the profession as a disciplinarian. [Oroon News.]

—An association of Methodist ministers' sons in Winnipeg is proposed, and Mr. Wm. Antill, son of Rev. Dr. Cooper Antill, of London, Ont., takes the initiative by inviting all ministers' sons to send their names and addresses to him. [Winnipeg Tribune.]

—At Osgoode Hall Monday: Headford vs. McClary Manufacturing Company; Gibbons, Q.C., for the plaintiff, appealed from the order of the Chancery Divisional Court (23 O.R., 335), refusing to set aside a non-suit entered by Rose, J., at the trial at London in an action of negligence for injuries sustained by the plaintiff in the defendant's factory while in their employment, by reason of his falling down the well of a hoist. The court below held that there was contributory negligence on the plaintiff's part. G. T. Blackstock and Munro Grier, for the defendants, contra. Reserved.

—The first conversation of the London Collegiate Institute, under the auspices of the Literary Society, will be held on March 22. A choice program by noted artists, literary and musical circles of the city. The objects of the society, apart from the entertaining of the public, are to furnish a reading-room and equip a museum, thus making the institute still more notably superior to all others in the Province. Londoners view with pride the spirit of the rising generation in the Forest City, and they will no doubt encourage that spirit by uniting to make this undertaking a brilliant success.

A Heavy Loss.

On Sunday morning Wm. Pack, a young farmer living near Nilestown, was surprised to find his barn on fire, and the efforts of himself and neighbors could not save it. His sheds, two horses, thirteen head of cattle, several pigs and quantities of peas, oats and other grain were totally destroyed. Mr. Pack had no insurance and could ill afford the loss. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

An Early Morning Fire.

About 1:30 o'clock this morning the firemen were called by telephone to the house of Joseph G. Wilson, who conducts medical baths at 320 Dundas street. The family was aroused by the smell of smoke. When the firemen arrived they found the fire in progress under the flooring, and after ripping up some boards soon had it extinguished. The fire caught from the furnace flue.

Port Stanley to Cleveland.

A dispatch from Cleveland says: E. E. Edison, a large fish dealer, has purchased the new steam Harrow, now lying at Port Huron. The tug cleared for Port Huron to-night, and her master, W. W. Johnson, will bring back the steamer on the return trip. The Harrow will be used to carry passengers and pack freight between this port and Port Stanley and Rondeau. She will make irregular trips at first.

Death of an Old-Time Printer.

The death occurred yesterday at 477 Colborne street of Mr. John McLean, sen. Deceased was a Scotchman, learning the trade of pressman in the office of the Glasgow Herald. He came to Canada in 1856 and received employment in the office of the Home Journal. Latterly he came to and settled in London, and was employed for a number of years in the ADVERTISER and Free Press offices and also in the old-time Prototype and Herald offices. Deceased was, without exception, the oldest printer in London, and one of the most respected. He deceased was in his 78th year. Two sons and a daughter are left to mourn the loss of a kind and indulgent parent—John, at present in St. Louis, Mo.; Hugh, an officer in the customs, and Mary, the only surviving daughter.

"The Algerian" To-Night.

"The Algerian" comic opera, which is to be presented at the Grand to-night, is in three acts, and is the combined work of Glen MacDonough, a brilliant and successful young writer, and that well-known composer of light opera, Reginald de Koven. This charming opera has just concluded one of the most successful runs of recent years in New York at Daly's Theater, and the same regard to detail and finish that characterized its production there will be closely attended to in this city. There is in the "Algerian" an abundance of original melody. The interest of the music arises and falls with the dramatic interests of the situation, which is not the case with purely lyric composers who often waste their best material on an inferior episode. In the "Algerian" will be introduced to theater-goers of this city, Adele Ritchie, who will be seen in the role of the Countess de Blonch, and Hubert Wilke as a dashing French officer. Mr. C. A. Shaw, of Detroit, who was in the city yesterday said that the company presented the "Algerian" in Detroit all last week and it proved to be the best success of the season. He spoke very highly of the company and the production.

THE ANNUAL INSPECTION.

Aldermen Visit the Market and Different Fire Stations.

The Market None Too Clean—Hygienic Suggestions—The Bangor Ladder—Some Necessary Repairs—Charley Is Getting Old—Blacksmith Necessities To Be Purchased.

No. 3 committee of the City Council, whose special duty and privilege it is to look after the market, the lighting and the fire department, went on their annual tour of inspection yesterday afternoon under the guidance of Ald. Parnell, the chairman. The other aldermen in the party were Wm. Heaman, John Nutkins, John Heaman, Stephen O'Meara and M. Searrow.

THE MARKET.

The market was first visited and it was found to be far from clean. The space at the rear of the fish market and back of the adjoining stalls contained an unlimited assortment of rubbish and truck. From there the aldermen went, in company with Market Clerk Wilson, into the lower regions of the Covent Garden meat market. Here was found a conglomeration of darkness, whitewash and unvarying smells. The compartments are rented as store and scales rooms for produce, provision, vegetable and meat dealers. In the meat market upstairs some of the tenants drew the attention of the deputation to a row of unsightly gas posts down the center of the building. These were much in the way on a busy day, they said, and it is probable the committee will recommend their removal and string electric lights in their place.

Ald. Parnell announced his intention of recommending that the present hide inspection office be remodeled and turned into a conveniences for use of a single quarter, the present one being a disgrace. Complaints have always been made of the lack of proper hygienic accommodation on the market, and if Ald. Parnell would couple with his proposal that of establishing drinking places for man and beast and an awning at the south end of the Covent Garden to prevent the sun melting the butter of the saleswomen in the summer time and further protecting both buyer and seller, he will receive the thanks of thousands. Many farmers from up the Bruce who visit the market in the summer and do not get in until late in the morning complain that they are crowded around the south side in the boiling sun, which melts their butter, while their cattle and almost cooks their chickens and eggs.

No. 1 fire station was the next point of attraction. Here stretched on the floor in disuse and ignominy lay the Bangor ladder; the Bangor ladder that reaches 70 feet, but requires ten men to hoist; the Bangor ladder that will necessitate a new truck and will then not be needed near the Wellington street; the Bangor ladder that No. 3 committee bought last year while away on a "trip," and after it had been paid for the City Council, by a strange voting freak that sometimes strikes it, would not father the purchase. But the city paid $219 for the ladder, and some one will have to be made of it. Ald. O'Meara suggested that the present hook and ladder truck be used on ordinary occasions, and that a single horse truck be purchased to carry the majestic Bangor when it should be needed. No. 1 horse wagon is coupled too long and needs new axles. It will be repaired. The electric battery room, hose and blacksmith shop were visited in turn. The chief said that one of the one of the young horses, Charley by name, was not so young as he used to be, and his wind gave out on a long run. An alarm was then turned in and the horses hitched up for the edification of the visitors. After that the men were ranged against the wall and tried hard to look with becoming gravity while the aldermen inspected their clothes. The present suits have been worn for nine months and look a trifle seedy. Everything around the station was found to be in apple-pie order. The old shed in the rear will be torn down.

At No. 2 station the same procedure was gone through. Chief Roe accompanied the committee and about the first thing done was to turn in an alarm. The horses turned out quickly and the men displayed much agility at their different posts. The sleeping apartments, reading room, etc., were found to be neat and tidy and well kept. Down stairs the furnace was inspected and the advisability of putting in a soft water supply tank was discussed. The store shed at the back was found to be low and damp and it will be raised. About 150 feet more hose is required for this station. The men's uniforms were inspected and found to be in a much better condition than those of the men at the central station.

No. 3 station in South London was also visited and under Foreman Aitken everything was found in apple pie order.
