EXAMINE VETERANS' SALARIES? Associated Press Despatch.

London, April 12.-Report had this morning that upon the reas-sembling of parliament this afternoon Prime Minister Bonar Law's har-assed government would seek refuge in the appointment of a committee to examine the question of the sal-aries paid to war veterans of the aries paid to war veterans of the civil service. This step would be taken as a concession to the bitter opposition in the House of Commons. It was the insistence of the Laborites, supported by many members of other parties, for a definite statement from the government as to what it intended to do for the parties. what it intended to do for the which developed the present storm.
Out of the overcast skies that brought the government a defeat on Tuesday on a "snap division" there grew a hurricane, forcing a suspen-sion of the sitting after wild scenes of disorder unprecedented for at least a generation in the British House of Commons. Not even among the opposition was it doubted th government whips would be able to muster a majority when the next division came, but all parties agreed that the situation in which the cabinet was involved was most embar rassing and would require delicate andli

The Laborites were credited with he intention of maintaining the olicy of obstruction until the statement they desired is forthcoming. People here have become accustomed to the revolutionary sentiments of verses from constant repetition at labor meetings, and even when dis-approving they seem to attach little importance to the song's language. Nevertheless Mr. Macdonald is said to have been gravely annoyed at the injection of "The Red Flag" into the proceedings. Some observers say that when it started he turned around and sharply frowned and waved a depre atory hand to his followers. Fur-hermore, the Labor leader is said to have seriously admonished the ex-remists at a private meeting held during the suspension of the house, informing them that he did not regard the singing of "The Red Flag" as within the limits of constitutional opposition. Many persons, learning she planned to take the earl's remains on a steamer from Alexandria, cancelled their bookings in fear of a catastrophe overtaking

Died of Poisoning. When, Lord Carnarvon died of blood poisoning and pneumonia, and superstitious persons declared he had been killed by spirits angry at inasion of Tutankhamen's catafalque. Carter elected to defy the jinx, and continued the work of excavation. Terrific summer heat now makes life almost unbearable in the Valley of Kings, where the tomb was found and where the Pharaoh's mummy still lies undisturbed, and Carter was continuing the minor work of clean-ing and examining finds already brought from the tomb until cool weather next fall should make more excavations possible, and the mummy could be brought out.

SAYS SPIRIT IN TOMBS. Associated Press Despatch. New York, April 12 .- The sudden, illness in Egypt of Howard Carter, co-discoverer with the late Earl of Carnarvon of the tomb of Tutankhamen, strengthens the belief that there exists an elemental spirit in the tombs which takes revenge upon, those who open them, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle said today. He said Carter's illness is "very much more than a strange coincidence" coming so closely after the death of the Earl of Carnaryon from an insect's bite, Associated Press Despatch.
