

reforms having been effected. Several of the magistrates who are arraigned by Mr. Des Vœux, were appointed by Sir Philip Wodehouse. As I had constant intercourse with the Bishop of Guiana during my government of British Guiana, and as he never communicated to me that he believed that the immigrants had long been treated "with gross deception, injustice, and cruelty," I feel assured that his Lordship did not entertain such a belief. I readily admit that all the authorities appealed to by Mr. Des Vœux are deserving of the highest credit, but I cannot believe that they will express different views from mine on the subjects discussed in Mr. Des Vœux's letter.

ontend
ress on t, then
r. Des
Indian
n indi-
Indian
than a
would

ined a
egisla-
ich he
n. A
State
e that,
ers on
wever,
hich I
idered
l, and
dmin-
when
nd I
tary's
lence
Philip
that bility
that
o is
The
hich
ouse
de-
rdi-
ary