POSTS NOTICE OF FAILURE THROWS SELF BEFORE TRAIN

Sensational Suicide of P. MacFadyen, Head of London Banking House.

London, Oct. 22.—P. MacFadyen, head of MacFadyen & Co., whose suspension was announced Saturday, committed suicide within an hour after posting the notice of the failure on the door of the bank by throwing himself before a train in a tunnel about half a mile away from his place of business.

Mr. MacFadyen appears to have gone direct from his bank to a station on the City & South London Railway, to have entered the tunnel unobserved, and to have deliberately lain down in front of an approaching train. The engineers reported having run over an obstruction in the tunnel, and a search revealed the shockingly mutilated body, which later was identified as that of Mr. MacFadyen.

It is rumored that the failure of P. MacFadyen & Co., the London house of Arthur & Co., bankers, of Madrid, was connected with the cotton market, but as Mr. MacFadyen was the sole partner in Europe it is difficult to obtain information on the subject.

John Clarke, a painter, broke an arm yesterday by a fall at the Victoria Hotel. Fifty teachers have registered for the afternoon courses of lectures at the University.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 22.—Matthew Beatty, whose store was robbed on Friday night, swore out a warrant for the arrest of a boy named, Claud Fitzsimmons, residing at 54 Medland-street, and he was arrested at 1 o'clock this afternoon. This is the second time the store has been broken into.

The injuries were attended to by Dr. McNamara and afterwards the sufferer was removed to the Sick Children's Hospital, where death occurred about midnight.

There are two largely signed petitions for and against local option in circulation. Mayor Smith is of the opinion that the best thing to do is let the people decide. He intends to call a special meeting at an early date to consider the matter.

King City.
Sunday was what may be termed a red letter day for the friends of local option in King Township. Under the direction of the King City League, a meeting was planned for the Methodist Church at 3:30 p.m., and again in the same place at 7:30 o'clock. T. C. Robinson, K.C., had been announced as the chief speaker at the afternoon meeting, but unfortunately on Saturday afternoon he was taken suddenly ill with a hemorrhage of the throat. Mrs. Owen Hitchcock was secured, and the church was packed to the doors. The chair was occupied by C. P. McTavish, president of King City Temperance League. In the evening the Methodist Church was packed to overflowing. People came from all parts of the township. The chair was occupied by George B. Sweatnam. The feature was a story-telling sermon, entitled, "Rights and Shores of a Great City," by J. S. Robertson, president of the Canadian Temperance League. The overflow in the church was such that the doors of the Baptist Church were thrown open, and this was crowded, and addresses were delivered there by Mrs. Hitchcock and others. "The Woman in the Case"—Grand.
"The Woman in the Case," at the Grand this week, is rather a remarkable production of one of Clyde Fitch's best successes. The play in itself is so, and do well, speak for them better than eulogy. The plot is rather slight, but doubtless gains dramatically by being so, thru the element of greater concentration. It represents one idea—the one secret which belongs to the woman in the case; that of who murdered Phil, the man who loved Claire. Claire, the woman, was saved from her by the hand of her friend, Julian Rolfe, only, however, to end life in a suicide. Claire Rolfe's revenge is to implicate Julian Rolfe as the murderer, and all the circumstances of the case about her in the matter. There is only one way to get a secret and save a life: a woman only can do it, and the woman who does do it is the young wife of Julian Rolfe, who goes down into the society of the other, comes her friend, adopts her very fast, and at length tears the secret from her at the last moment and leaves her choked to unconsciousness in the chair. That scene is especially strong, the banquet and the two women alone, running high, and next January presents a revival of all the old-time excitement. It is altogether likely that the present reeve will be opposed by County Councillor Quanta and ex-Reeve Summerfelt.

Markham.
Markham, Oct. 22.—The People's Flowing Association will hold their annual match this year on the farm of William Robinson, opposite the G.T.R. station, on Nov. 6.

William Morrison, town electrician, who has received an offer to go to Port Perry, has decided to remain in Markham, the council having promised an increase in his salary.

W. H. Johnston, 7th concession Markham, has a goose which has laid fifteen eggs during the past three weeks.

John H. Ramer of Mount Joy has been appointed issuer of deer licenses.

Markham enthusiasts are agitating for the organization of a first-class hockey team.

Markham.
Boys' Fringe, captain of the Capital lacrosse team of Ottawa, is already visiting his parents here.

H. B. Reesor, for many years secretary of the Standard Fire Insurance Company, will probably remove to Toronto in the near future.

While the municipal elections in the town cause practically no commotion in the township feeling, is already running high, and next January presents a revival of all the old-time excitement. It is altogether likely that the present reeve will be opposed by County Councillor Quanta and ex-Reeve Summerfelt.

Little or no progress is said so far to have been made with the proposed steel bridge over the river to the south of the village.

East Toronto.
A meeting of the Conservatives of wards two and three will be held in Daves-road firehall at 8 o'clock to-night, and of ward one in Spruce-avenue firehall at the same hour, for the revision of the lists and other matters. A full attendance is requested.

It is altogether likely that the present reeve will be opposed by County Councillor Quanta and ex-Reeve Summerfelt.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lyon and family have returned from a week's visit to Preston.

Danmorch Orchestra.
The program to be presented by Walter Danmorch and the New York Symphony Orchestra on Thursday evening next includes many notable selections. A most charming number is Bach's suite for flute and orchestra, in which there is a beautiful solo played by the finest flautist in America to-day. This composition shows Bach in one of his lightest and most charming moods, including, as does a Rondeau, and old time Danse, a Polonaise and a Minuet. The other number involving a solo is Svendsen's Romance for the violin, which the extremely magnetic virtuoso, David Mannes, is soloist. The seats are now on sale at Massey Hall.

Suing on Breach of Contract.
The Woodruff Construction Company are suing the Fairbanks Scale Co. for $10,000 for alleged breach of contract. Evidence was taken before Chief Justice Meredith in the non-jury assizes yesterday, and the case goes on to-day. Plaintiffs claim that they were constructing a factory under contract for the Fairbanks people in the north-western part of the city, and that the latter took the work in their own hands, and proceeded with the building on their own account.

The defendants argue that this was necessary as the construction was being delayed unreasonably, and also that the Woodruff Co.'s work was defective on account of an inadequate plant.

In Council With the King.
London, Oct. 22.—King Edward held a council at Buckingham Palace at noon to-day for the transaction of the state business referring to to-morrow's reopening of parliament.

The premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, was subsequently received in audience by the King.

All Plump and Rosy.
If all the plump and rosy children in the world could be collected together into one place it would be surprising to find how many of them owe their strength and health to Scott's Emulsion.

Newcomer, Saturday afternoon, "David Garrick" and Saturday night, the Dickens play, "Tom Pinch."

In "The Professor's Love Story" Mr. Willard is imitable as Tom Goodwillie, the young-old professor whose absent-minded peculiarities so amusingly emphasize his "informality of love." The attractive qualities of this comedy are so exceptional in their simple charm that the public finds them as enjoyable now as they were when the play was a novelty. Several changes in the cast have occurred since the play was last given here, and the eye will be pleased with the new costumes and scenery.

Vandeville-Shears.
For those who enjoy good orchestral and band music the Hungarian Boys' organization at Shear's Theatre will this week provide a veritable treat. There are nearly two scores in the orchestra, ranging from little fellows to youths. The selections are given with a tone and vigor that is surprising, and which earned repeated applause and encores at both of yesterday's performances.

"The New Coachman" revised and brought up to the minute, is an infectious laughmaker, in which Louis Simon and Grace Gardner and their company kept everyone in good humor. James J. Morton did a great deal in the same line, too, with his bits of story and songs.

For the rest of the bill, the Manhattan Comedy Four, giving music and mirth; Marcello and Milloy, comedy gymnasts; and the Four Everetts, in sensational acrobatic stunts; Daisy Dumont, who sings prettily and sweetly, and the kinetograph, are all well up to the standards of the popular Yonge-street playhouses.

"The Cowboy Girl"—Majestic.
"The Cowboy Girl," at the Majestic this week, is scarcely melodrama at all, but is very much better. It has a dash of light opera that gives it a touch of breezy tone, and the songs are "catchy" and well sung. "All the World is in Love" and "Whittling" being especially good. The scene with the latter carries a brisk play of repartee and wit, and in accord with the average. In fact the whole piece is charged with a fine flavor of humor, and the touches of melodrama are so happily placed and in accord with the environment that it works out quite naturally. The music is crisp-cut, and that is taking. The girls are good looking, graceful and have good voices.

The plot is rather complex, but not difficult to follow. It comprises three love stories, all ending in matrimony, by virtue mostly of the Indian Wah-wah-goo, who scores with the villain, plays the part with much fidelity. "Clyde," the deaf old lady who always mistakes things, and Billy Devere as "Bill," supply the great deal of the humor. Both characters are naturally done. Miss Julia Rowland, as "Gyp Clyde," the leader, made quite a hit, as also did Ray Raymond, who seconds her in the role of her lover, Frank Bauremer. "Dave Hart" was a typical cowboy. The villain's part was not played perhaps as well as it might have been, but Jack Sherman made the most of it.

"Innocent Maids"—Star.
Nat and Sol Fields are the leading funmakers with the "Innocent Maids," an aggregation of more attractive merit and general attractiveness. Poor old Ed Hunsinger is revived for laughing purposes in the opening sketch, which displays the trappings of the chorus in a pretty appearance. The music is a pretty quantity, and the closing sequence, which is constructed on the usual lines and provides the amusement for which it was intended. An entertaining sketch, yet crass, by Jack Horne and Mile. La Trappe.

Novelty creations, "The Messenger Clowns and the Human Doll," the Three Clark Sisters, in singing and acrobatic dancing; James Hughes and James Hazelton, travesty artists, and Alice Brabant, the part of the ventriloquist as well. She was so true to the part that you felt sorry for her. Nothing is stronger, perhaps, as the strongest roles; perhaps, is that of Edwin Maynard, as Mr. Thompson, Rolfe's lawyer. He is a personality all thru, and his straight question to Rolfe as to his guilt in the prison was a real hit. The support on the whole is excellent. The only fault may be that the role of Julian Rolfe does not come off as well as it might. The part is rather lacking in character, but the fact of conveying a doubt, even if only thru the personality of the actor, seems rather to accentuate the interest of the climax by the suggestion of other possibilities.

Chorus Club Disbands.
The Toronto Male Chorus Club has disbanded, owing to Mr. Tripp's inability to continue as leader.
