Tenley, Lester and Anger cause much merriment by their original methods of "running a bank."

That part of the program which is termed a "musical monolog," is very sylfrited, and, the the depth of its theme d/es not call for a very strenuous exertion of the perceptive faculties, it induces one to indulge in unrestrained merriment, which is after all, better at times than over-seriousness.

The exhaustion resulting from rheumatism also makes it easy for neu-ralgia to get a foothold. Any exposure to cold or dampness quickly causes an attack of the painful allment and in some cases it will hang on almost continually during the winter months.
