

MINISTERS ALL MURPHY FACES WANT TO RUN TO COVER

Hon. Frank Oliver Contemplates Early Retirement

Hon. Sydney Fisher Casts Longing Eyes on Senate.

OTTAWA, June 18.—(Special).—The first report, emanating from Winnipeg, to the effect that Hon. Frank Oliver would shortly resign from the government and be given the vacancy on the board of railway commissioners, was hardly credited, but later information, as well as the fact that the Liberal press generally has not thought fit to give the report the usual "official" denial, leads to the belief that the minister of the interior contemplates an early retirement from the field of parliamentary warfare.

The only thing that stands in the way of Mr. Oliver's intention is the probability of Sir Wilfrid Laurier putting his foot down and insisting that his ministers stay where they are. Running to cover is a bad business for any government that wishes to remain in power.

Hon. Sydney Fisher is anxious to be some leader of the Liberal party in the senate, but he has struck a snag in Sir Richard Cartwright, who refuses to be shelved. Mr. Brodeur is waiting for Hon. Justice Girouard to resign from the supreme court bench, in order to take a seat there, but meantime Judge Girouard is not resigning.

The Hon. A. B. Aylesworth will not be in public life very much longer. It is understood that he will bid good-bye to active politics immediately after his return from The Hague.

Hon. William Paterson is also anxious to be relieved of the cares of office and spend the extent of his days in peace and quietness.

Altogether, the Laurier administration seems to have reached that stage which all, or nearly all, administrations reach, when their day has been lived. It has been inevitable there will be radical changes in the complexion of the cabinet during the next few months. One change, it was anticipated, would have taken place long ere this, but for the unexpected. Senator Dandurand was invited, even coaxed, to accept the post of minister of the naval service department, but considers he is better where he is.

Some feeling has been displayed over the proposed appointment of Mr. Oliver to the railway board, for Dr. Rutherford has been regarded as the best man for the position.

VICTIMS OF THE HERALD HORROR BORNE TO TOMB

Thousands Lined the Streets—Only Four Bodies Now Unaccounted For.

MONTREAL, June 18.—The funerals of ten of the victims of the Herald disaster took place this afternoon, and constituted a combined expression of sorrow of the various organizations which the deceased belonged to.

Those buried were: Dorothy Ward, Duncan Miller, Reginald Harris, Campbell Morison, Isaac Jones, George Gundy, Frank Jansen, Rene Littlejohn, William Murphy and Clement Borremans.

The mayor and corporation were represented and mounted police and fifty constables on foot headed the cortege. A firing party from the Prince of Wales Fusiliers also took part, as well as delegations from the Montreal Typographical Union, Knights of Pythias and Sons of England.

Six of the deceased were Protestants and four Catholics, and the funeral procession was a joint one until the roads to the different cemeteries diverged.

The bodies were taken at 2:30 o'clock from the undertaking establishment on Mountain-street, where they were kept after services had been conducted by several clergymen.

The route was lined by an immense crowd of people and thousands showed their sympathy in different manners. Impressive services were conducted at both cemeteries and were attended by large gatherings.

With the identification of John Cunningham this morning, the complete list of names is now known. The list of known dead at the Herald fire is twenty-eight. This leaves four unaccounted for.

A Luxurious Home in the Wilds

At Temiskaming Lake—leave your truck coat and top hat at home—get your nerves restored by absolute relaxation, and spend a delightful summer vacation. You may do all the roughing you like, and at the same time the "Bellevue" offers you more luxurious comforts of your own home.

THE BELLEVUE HOTEL

Beautifully situated in Nature's garden—with the conveniences of a New York City Hotel, Gasoline Launches, Boating, Lawn Tennis, Bowling on the Green and a Billiard Room in separate Recreation Hall, Insuring hills, Hot and Cold Baths on all floors. Sanitary Conveniences Electrically Modern in every way. An Ideal Vacation Home near the Wilds of the North.

Pleased to send information and beautiful booklet.

WRITE "The Mgr. Bellevue Hotel Temiskaming, Quebec, Canada"

Open for season 1910, June 20th.

Boats leave the Hotel Dock daily for the famous Cobalt Silver Belt, calling at Halleybury, Liskeard and intervening points.

IRON DUKES WIN BY 8-TO-1

Defeat Park Nine in First Senior Amateur League Game.

There was a large crowd in the Brook Avenue grounds at the City Amateur League games yesterday afternoon, when Bill Potts made his debut as an umpire in this organization. The Wellingtons and Park Nine clashed in the first contest, and the Iron Dukes won handsily by 8 to 1, thanks to the good pitching of Rosser, who held the Park Nine to three hits, one of which was a scratch. Scott was hit freely, but with better support he would have held his opponents to half the tally credited to them.

Runs credited to them: Potts running catches were contributed by the Ross brothers, while O'Reilly made some great stops for Carley's men. The Park Nine's tally came in on W. Benson's single, a sacrifice and Graham's multi of a throw to the plate. The Wellingtons bunched his alone with error and scored in all but two innings. O'Toole, Curson and Graham hit in most of the runs. Score: Park Nine, 3; Iron Dukes, 8.

W. Benson, 3b., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Nye, c., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
E. Ross, 1b., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Sutton, 1b., 2 0 0 10 0 0 0 0 0 0
Isaac, ss., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
N. Ross, 2b., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Pringle, 2b., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Scott, p., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
T. Benson, rf., 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

Totals..... 24 1 3 21 11 5
Wellingtons..... 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Park Nine..... 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

Two-base hits—T. Benson, Graham, Hodgman, Rosser. Sacrifice hits—Landreville, Curson, Benson, Landreville 2, Curson 2, W. Benson, E. Ross, Sutton. Bases on balls—Off Scott 4, off Rosser 3. Struck out—By Scott 4, by Rosser 2. Left on bases—Wellingtons 5, Park Nine 4. Time—1:40. Umpire—Bill Potts.

RESCUED MEN BLAME ACCIDENT ON FERRY

Cooper and Logan Give Their Version of Collision—Mrs. Melrick's Fate.

At last Reginald Cooper and Frank Logan, the rescued escorts of Mrs. Mabel Melrick and Miss Emma Carley, who were drowned in the bay Friday night, following a collision between the ferry John Hanlan and the 18-foot gasolene launch Cecelia, are willing to tell their story of the drowning. Both declared on Saturday that the fault lies with the captain of the ferry, who, they say, might easily have avoided the accident.

Both assert that the captain's version of the accident is untrue and that their launch did not cross the bows of the ferry and then back again into the collision. Logan says that when the boat was struck he was thrown "some little distance from the ferry," but says further that when he rose he was under the launch and that when the extracted himself, his head hit the ferry when he came to the surface. He says he never saw the woman after the collision, but, having sunk twice, was taken aboard a sailboat and hurried to the city.

"Cooper says that when they were thrown into the water he grasped Mrs. Melrick, who had been sitting in the bow of the launch with him. His story follows:

"When we were fung into the water I seized her at once," said he in an interview. "We then went down together. After we came up I held on to her as well as I could, but the water was too much for us and we went down again.

"When we came to the surface again we were under the upturned launch. It was terrible, but thru it all she was very brave. I did not hear a murmur from her. We had become separated all we could to keep up, but we sank again, and then I can hardly say how things happened. She never screamed or complained and was as brave as anyone could be."

"How long were you in the water before you were rescued?" he was asked.

"It seemed a long time. I think I floated about for 20 minutes. I scarcely know what happened. It was an awful experience."

R. C. B. C. Notes.

The tennis game is now in full swing. The members are requested to turn out early Monday night, as several match games are being arranged this week.

The club purpose running a four-day excursion over the C.N.R. to the Muskoka Lakes on July 8.

American Rugby Team Lose. SYDNEY N.S.W., June 17.—The All-England football team, composed of students from the universities of California and Nevada and Leland Stanford University, were defeated today by the Sydney University team by 17 to 6.

CONNECTICUT BROAD LEAF WRAPPER

It is reported that Manager, the late King's chef, would take years to evolve a sauce or a dish before he offered it to the King. It took many years for cigar manufacturers to find that the best wrapper for Havana filler in the Connecticut Broad Leaf.

PHOTO-BRAND

BROAD LEAF WRAPPED

the new 10-cent straight cigar, between which and all other 10-cent cigars there is a difference in favor of the PHOTO BRAND.

10 cents straight.

At all leading tobacconists.

Pure Havana Filler

H. SIMON & SONS, Limited MONTREAL

THREE YEARS TO MAKE A SAUCE

It is reported that Manager, the late King's chef, would take years to evolve a sauce or a dish before he offered it to the King. It took many years for cigar manufacturers to find that the best wrapper for Havana filler in the Connecticut Broad Leaf.

PHOTO-BRAND

BROAD LEAF WRAPPED

the new 10-cent straight cigar, between which and all other 10-cent cigars there is a difference in favor of the PHOTO BRAND.

10 cents straight.

At all leading tobacconists.

Pure Havana Filler

H. SIMON & SONS, Limited MONTREAL

WHITE APRON BRIGADE WATCHED BY THE POLICE

Obtain Situations as Domestic Servants and Rob Their Masters.

PARIS, June 18.—The Paris police have been obliged to organize a special detective brigade to watch domestic servants in Paris.

Information has been received at headquarters of a thieves' organization called the "White Apron Brigade." By means of forged testimonials the members of the gang, which is several hundred strong, obtain situations in private houses and rob their masters. A few days ago two women who had stolen $300 and $100 worth of jewelry were arrested by the police. One of them, a German girl of twenty-four, had already copied out more than a hundred thefts. Without of service she lived in an expensive flat in Paris, beautifully furnished, in which the police have found a number of valuable pictures believed to be stolen.

A TORN FINGER NAIL AND A LOST FIVE POUND NOTE.

In the last issue of The New Quarterly Review the sixth instalment of the "Note-Books" series, written by the author of "Erewhon," contains the following very remarkable story:

A friend of mine, when a young man of about five-and-twenty, one day took the quick of his finger nail—mean he separated the fleshy part of the finger from the nail—and this reminded him that many years previously, while quite a child, he had done the same thing. Thereon he fell to thinking of that time, which was impressed upon his memory partly because there was a great disturbance in the house about a missing five-pound note, and partly because it was while he had the scarlet fever.

Following the train of thought aroused by his torn finger, he asked himself how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered over the wooden frame, he felt that there was a place where a nut had come out so that he could put his fingers in. One day, in trying to stuff a piece of paper into this hole, he stuffed it in so far and so lightly that he tore the quick of his nail. The whole thing came back to him, and he had not thought of it for nearly twenty years, he could see the room in his aunt's house, and remembered how he had torn it, and after a while it came back to him that he had been lying ill in bed as a child of seven at the house of an aunt who lived in Hertfordshire. His arms often hung out of the bed, and, as his hands wandered