ALEX. CORBET, Manager.

In the Cause of Freedom,

By Arthur W. Marchmont.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year nineteen hundred and seven, by McLeod & Allen, at the Department of Agriculture. (Continued.) I served us in good stead. The noise brought men and women rushing in alarm and curiosity from the houses on both sides of the alley, while many others ran in from the street beyond. Seeing our plight they cheered us and swarmed between Brennan's party and us, blocking and hampering them so that we reached the end in safety. The outlet of the alley was a narrow roadway. Room was made for us to pass, and we gained the street while our pursuers were struggling and fighting with a considerable body of police and a crowd of strikers, and just as we emerged from the alley the police were beginning to waver. Some one raised the cry that a large body of police were coming through the alley, and the crowd, afraid of being caught between two fires, gave way and came streaming toward us followed by the police. At that juncture Brennan and his men succeeded in reaching the street and joined the other police in a vigorous attack upon the crowd. The situation was again critically perilous for us.

CHAPTER XXIX. In the Street of St. Gregory. The luck seemed to be dead against us. The crowd scarcely put her foot to the ground, although she struggled gamely to continue the fight, Ladislav and I were all but carrying her. The crowd went streaming past us as we could make only the slowest progress; as no vehicle of any sort was in sight, capture seemed inevitable. Volna perceived this and begged us to leave her. "It will be far better for me to be arrested alone than for all three to be taken; and you see it is hopeless now that the three can escape." "I am not going," said Ladislav. "Mr. Anstruther, you have the proofs that will free my mother. If you will escape and destroy them, she will be safe. Please go." It was a shrewd plea. I took out the papers and held them toward Ladislav. "Now go. I can trust my friends to get me out of any mess." "No; today's business with Brennan is too serious for that," he answered. "Besides this is my affair. Go, Robert, it is sheer madness for you to remain. You can do no good." "If my mother is safe, Mr. Anstruther, I do not care. For her sake as well as your own, get those papers away." I glanced round and saw Brennan's men fast forcing his way to us through the scattering crowd. "We may get a sleigh or a carriage at the end of the street," I said; and without more ado, I picked Volna up in my arms and ran up the street with her. The crowd cheered us lustily. Some one recognized Ladislav, rallied the flying crowd and succeeded in reforming them again. Hearing this, and recognizing that we might in this way escape even at the last moment, Brennan, hoping to awe the crowd, ordered the police to draw their revolvers. At first the people fell back but encouraged by the cries of the man

The Last Great Fire

Did not cause so much suffering to the homeless as many a case of eczema causes its miserable victim. And the relief fund did not bring so much joy as Hood's Sarsaparilla has given thousands of times, in relieving the agonizing itching and burning of eczema-tortured people. Eczema—"My sister suffered from childhood from eczema or salt rheum on her hands and arms. She was treated by eminent specialists and the skin without permanent relief. She was then entirely cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. Louisa Brown, 222 Harvard St., Hartford, Conn. Tied the Madame—"We had to tie the hands of our two-year-old son on account of eczema on his face and limbs. No medicine helped until we used Hood's Sarsaparilla, which soon completely cured." MR. HAZEN ISSUES STATEMENT FOLLOWING ON HIS VICTORY

Five months and the pusillanimity of Mr. McKewen after his appointment to that office in the city of St. John. The farcical appointment of Mr. Allen as provincial secretary also disgusted many of the government supporters. "I had splendid newspaper support throughout this campaign and I wish to express my strong sense of appreciation to the same. I also wish to thank my Acadian fellow citizens for the manner in which they rallied to my support; and also wish to state that in my opinion the attitude of the government press in misrepresenting whatever Mr. Fleming or I said during the campaign told heavily against the cause they advocated. In conclusion let me say I have had the honor to receive a number of letters in this election and I am grateful to them. The verdict in the city of St. John and elsewhere was in favor of the Liberal party when he came down to New Brunswick to interfere in local affairs. I would like to say how much I am indebted to the citizens of St. John and the county. Personally I have not been able to give much attention to the campaign there but my constituents have stood loyally by me and no man ever had warmer or more enthusiastic support in his native county, this in fact is the reason why I have been able to wharves and mail services in such a lavish manner by Col. McLean, backed up by the minister of public works.

PRETTY GIRLS SUFFRAGEES SWEEP PAVES

LONDON, Feb. 29.—The Suffragettes, at great expense, will have a spectacular and at the same time a financial success. All the handmaids, most smartly dressed members of the organization were posted all the week under the railroad stations, on the busiest street corners and in other places of strategic importance. They began to fall, and to put it rudely, began to fall, and to put it rudely, began to fall. At any rate the police regarded them as beggars and made them beg for their freedom. Yet other Suffragettes, who may or may not be as attractive as those who thus publicly insulted themselves, remained at home making marmalades to be sold to the profit of the cause, or cutting out dresses or trimming hats, which will be sold too. It must be said for them that the greediest tax collector never equalled the public spiritedness in gathering money. Violet Hunt, a widely known novelist, wearing a different but equally bewitching costume than the Suffragettes, was seen in the streets of London. Mrs. Cobden Sanderson stood for hours daily in the streets, when the Suffragettes were in the streets, and she was not a Suffragette. Meantime Mrs. Pankhurst, who in jail complains bitterly of the ill-treatment she received there. Fourteen of the fifty-two women sentenced by Mrs. Pankhurst were made ill by imprisonment and dropping the role of martyr gave ball to secure their release. These weightings will be drummed out of the organization.

John Dunn (Halifax Chronicle, March 2). It is with profound regret that we announce, this morning, the death of John Dunn, of this city, who passed away at his residence, 7 Artery Place, last night, at the ripe age of 75 years. For almost half a century Mr. Dunn was in the service of the Morning Chronicle and The Nova Scotian. Mr. Dunn entered the employment of this paper as foreman of the composing room in the year 1862. The Nova Scotian was then in its infancy and the employment of this paper as foreman of the composing room in the year 1862. EXTREME LETHARGY IN STOCK MARKETS

Bradstreet's Comment on the Situation at the Present Time. (Bradstreet's) Extreme lethargy prevails at present in all the world's stock markets. London is in particular with New York. At the same time money continues to accumulate at the financial centers, and money-market conditions at New York are such that the call issued this week by the Secretary of the Treasury for the return of 25 per cent. of the government deposits held by national banks, and which involves the transfer of about $33,000,000 from those banks to the treasury, had no other effect than to cause a fractional and probably temporary widening in the normal rate for time loans. The transactions on the Stock Exchange during last week to insignificant proportions, the daily totals only twice reaching above 200,000 shares, while on Wednesday the aggregate was only 216,000 shares, the smallest figures thus far in the year. Speculative interest furthermore was exceedingly limited, there being a lack of leadership and initiative. The proceedings, in fact, simply represented the exchange of contracts among professionals, who under the circumstances displayed a natural tendency to accept small profits. At the same time the market did not show any evidence of serious liquidation, and the bear traders were apparently not inclined to extend their operations very far in view of the additional risk which such circumstances involved of the market becoming overvalued. In conformity with these factors, the market, though quite heavy in tone in the early days of last week, gained a little strength in the later proceedings, the upward tendency of prices, being, however, attributed in a few instances, among which the copper stocks were conspicuous. This was centered to alleged indication of improvement in the metal markets, and more especially to the firmer appearance of copper per stocks in London. American Smelting which had earlier shown further weakness, shared in the improvement in the group in question, notwithstanding partial intimations from inside sources that the 8 per cent. dividend rate on the common stock will be cut down at the directors' meeting next Monday. The United States Steel stocks also showed some strength, reflecting current statements of an improvement in the volume of orders, especially for steel rails. Another strong spot was the Interborough Metropolitan 4 1/2 per cent. bonds, which advanced sharply, and carried the other traction issues with them. On the other hand, there were a number of unfavorable incidents, notably the reversion of the International & Great Northern, which occasioned some further loss of gold properties, although the declines in that group were not especially important, the market having already recently undergone adverse circumstances surrounding them. The Erie shares were very heavy on the preceding poor earnings, which for the last six months of 1907 displayed a very large decrease in net, and the failure of management to take any action about dividends on the preferred stocks, even in scrip. New York Central was also the object of much unfavorable talk, the probability of a reduction in the dividend rate being freely discussed. On Friday the market was strong, but the changes in quotations were, on the whole, moderate.

If We Could Look at the Heart of a Pale-Faced Person!

Few people ever stop to consider what pallor to the countenance means. In the first place, it indicates an absence of blood of the rich, red, life-giving elements so requisite to health; and in the second place, it indicates weakness of the heart. These two things act and react. If we could look at the heart of one of those pale-faced people, we would see a heart weak and palid. No wonder they are easily tired, get out of breath quickly, have palpitations, are nervous and shaky, their muscles are poor, their stomachs disordered, and their lives are seldom free from misery. Mike Twin has been Honorary Melody in Los Angeles, won from Frank Field and knocked out last Friday night by Stanley Ketchell in the first round.

THE NICKEL HAS A GREAT SHOW TODAY

All St. John is reading election returns today and a mixture of jubilation and regret is rife throughout the city, but the following extraordinary programme at the Nickel commencing at noon is guaranteed to cure the blues and bring a spirited and delighted afternoon on the sly and giddy Thames; both races.

THE TYPE OF PERFECTION.

Perfection does not mean any extraordinary service. By perfect we mean that which has no flaws in it. In famous New Scale Williams Piano—the favorite in Canadian homes.

HOW THE OSTRICH TOOK "MIKE TWINS" DOME FOR AN EGG

Both Mike and Jack Twin Sullivan are as bald as Fitzsimmons. Jack wears a toupee, but only when in society. He disdains it for his training and while in the ring Mike sports the noble brow unadorned by any such vanity as a toupee, says Bob Edgren. They tell a funny story about Mike Twin Sullivan. Near the Baldwin Ranch training quarters there is an ostrich farm. Hundreds of ostriches are raised there for their feathers. The place is quite an attraction to sightseers, and sometimes a favored visit.

Why Many People Look So Old

To look old before their time seems not uncommon today, with many people who should still be in the prime of life. Physicians say nothing in the world is so vitality and happiness as pain. A comparative young man who suffers with muscular or inflammatory rheumatism, looks older than a man twice his age. The farmer, the man who works at hard labor, the mechanic, is subject to the baneful influence of dampness, fog and inclement weather. It is hard for him to escape pain. What he needs at home is a bottle of that trusty liniment, Nelson's Nervine, which gives instant ease to every kind of pain. So strong and concentrated is Nervine that one application is as good as six ordinary rubbings with other liniment. The most wonderful pain-killer in the world is in Nervine—that's why it penetrates so quickly, why it instantly cures pain that other remedies can't even relieve. You'll be surprised how quickly it works. When the chest seems almost magical. It is a relief to those who are suffering with rheumatism, or rheumatism are cured by Nervine. So highly valued is Nervine by those who use it, that many families consider it quite as good as a doctor for aches, pains and minor ailments of every kind.

JERE MAULLIFFE PLAYS TO S. R. O. AGAIN

Jere Maulliffe again showed his strength last night when he played every seat in the Opera House was sold and when the performance was over the lobby was packed with people eager to take standing room. The play, A Laughing Matter, which is being played at the moment, is a comedy in two acts. It is a big hit and it is possible it made a bigger hit than on Monday night. The big vaudeville features were well received. Jere saw four new songs and made a hit. He has the strongest company, the best vaudeville team of lady singers seen in the Opera House in a long time. There will be a matinee today, when the company will play a new play, The Playhouse. Tonight a change will take place, as Joe Murray's grand opera, The Playhouse, will be the offering. In this Jere will sing a Handel's Earth. An entire change of vaudeville will also be presented.
