St. John, July 17, 1826.

To which his Lordship returned the following answer:—

GENTLEMEN,

I beg your acceptance of my best thanks for your Congratulations upon my arrival in this part of my Diocese.

It is particularly gratifying that this should be deemed an appropriate occasion for declaring your reverence for the Doctrine, and your attachment to the Polity and Ministrations of the Church; feelings, which have been long cherished, and happily exemplified in this flourishing Parish.— The opinion you have expressed of benefits derived from the establishment of the Church in this prosperous Colony; of the esteem in which it is held by a large portion of the people, and of its increasing influence in full accordance with every thing I have seen and heard in the course of my present Visitation, and it is evidence that you do not over-rate the truly Catholic spirit of that Church that not one unkind expression or allusion towards any other denomination of Christians has reached me since my arrival in this province.

That I may be enabled in any measure to realize the pious wishes you have formed for the success of my labours among you must always be the object of my earnest desire and fervent prayer. My endeavours are well encouraged by the affectionate attention, and co-operation of my Clergy with their Church Wardens and Vestries, of whom it is sufficient praise that they are similar to your own. I cannot forbear on the present occasion to express the admiration which has been excited by the noble and munificent exertions of this parish, for the increase and prosperity of the Church; of which the beautiful Chapel you have erected will remain a lasting memorial. That it may be greatly blessed to this City, and that every good may be plentifully imparted to yourselves, and to the very respectable Body whom you represent is my earnest prayer.

JOHN NOVA SCOTIA.

St. John, July 17, 1826.

His Lordship set out for Hampton yesterday, attended by the Archdeacon. He proposes to go through the Parishes of Hampton, Norton, Sussex Vale, Springfield, and Kingston, and returns to town on Saturday. On Sunday the Church at Carlton will be Consecrated, and a Confirmation be held for such as shall be presented and qualified in that parish.

FREDERICTON, July 11.

P. S. to the Gazette.

[In Council, 16th May, 1826.]

Samuel Proudfoot, Esquire, having been nominated a Member of the Council, attended this day, and took the usual oath.

[3d July, 1826.]

The Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, having been appointed by His Majesty, a Member of the Council, to take his seat next after the President for the time being, attended this day, and took the usual oath.

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor has been pleased to appoint John Hazen, jun. Esq. Surrogate and Judge of Probates in and for the County of Sunbury.

His Excellency has also been pleased to appoint John Hazen, jun. Esq. one of the Justices of the Common Pleas, for the County of Sunbury, and Cuthi Hathaway and Nathaniel Hubbard, Justices for said County.

On Sunday the 16th instant, an Ordination was held in Christ Church, by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, when the Rev. Gilbert Lester Wiggins, A. B.
Missionary for Westfield and Greenwich, was admitted to the Holy Order of Priests, and Mr. George M. Cusley, A. M. Rector of the Collegiate Grammar School of this place, and Mr. Alexander Canning Somerville, A. M. were ordained Deacons. His Lordship preached a most eloquent and appropriate discourse for the occasion from the latter part of 20th verse of 89th chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, "Lo I am with you always, even to the end of the world." Immediately after Divine Service, His Lordship proceeded to consecrate a piece of ground in the neighbourhood of the Arms House, as a place of burial.

having on board 30 recruits for the 53d and 74th Regiments, arrived at Halifax last Sunday, and the ship Per-seus, bound for England, put in to obtain medical aid for the captain, who was taken ill on the Wednesday previous.

Mr. Youngman,

Sir,

Unwilling that any communication of mine should occupy more room in any one number of your Journal, than that usually afforded to Correspondents in general, your kindness, I trust, will more readily excuse the continuation of my correspondence with Mr. Robertson, as promised in my last.

The Store formerly occupied by me in St. John Street, I rented from Mr. Robertson in the year 1821, (one year prior to my becoming security for Mr. R. to the concern of Clark & Barker, as stated in the first year's rental. The subsequent payments were made by me to Mr. Robert Crookshank, in consequence of an order, authorising him to receive the same. This order I presented to Mr. Robertson, who appeared to be perfectly satisfied with the arrangement. For monies paid Mr. C. on account of rent, receipts in my possession exhibit no trifling amount.— Finding that if I paid Mr. C. any further sum, Mr. R. would fall considerably in my debt, I withheld my payments, and being satisfied that such was the case, I formed the resolution of not paying one farthing more on account of rent, until my accounts with Mr. R. were finally and satisfactorily adjusted. I felt the more anxious for a speedy settlement, not knowing whether the payments made by me to Mr. C. had been placed to the credit of my account with Mr. R., nor can I assign any other reason for my being indebted to Mr. R. than his omission of the sums thus paid to Mr. C. to my credit.

In my account with Mr. R. I have charged the sums paid Mr. C. as if they had been received by himself, not having either before or since, business of any particular moment to transact with the former gentleman.

Having stated one of my reasons for supposing Mr. Robertson to be in my debt, viz. his not placing to my credit the monies he had received, I now state, permit me Sir, to add to one part of his communication, where he observes that "Mr. M'Pherson being indebted to me, and I being indebted to the person (J. A. Clark), at whose suit his Goods have been seized, an arrangement was made between Mr. M'Pherson, the party at whose suit his Goods have been seized, (she said J. A. Clark), and myself, whereby it was agreed that Mr. M'Pherson should pay the said amount, and that I should credit him with so much on account, and joint notes were given under that express understanding, for the payment thereof."

In order to prove the fallacy of the above statement, allow me, Sir, the liberty of transcribing verbatim a Letter addressed by Mr. J. A. Clark to Mr. Robertson, and which, if my memory fail not, was placed in my hands by Mr. R. himself.

Sheffield, July 9, 1825.

Mr. Robert Robertson,

Sir,

I write to inform you that I shall be down in the course of six or eight days, and I hope you will be prepared to see me, for I shall expect my money then; for I am about purchasing some land, and it will be a great disappointment to me if I don't get it, and it is not my wish to put you to trouble, therefore I hope it will be avoided.

Remain yours, &c. &c.

(Signed) J. A. CLARK.

From the language contained in the foregoing Letter, it must, I think, appear obvious to every reflecting and unbiased mind, that Mr. Clark did not consider me as the person responsible to him for the payment of the notes held by him; and that he did not view me in any other light than that of security, is evident from his not writing me. Had he thought otherwise, or had he been aware of my being a party in the original transaction, why did he not apprise me as well as Mr. Robertson, of the possures he had in contemplation, provided the above Letter should fall to accomplish the object for which it was written—that Mr. Robertson is the only person from whom Mr. Clark expected to receive his money is too self evident to admit of contradiction.

Another circumstance intimately connected with the above transaction, took place on or about the time when my Goods were seized, and which will prove, if further proof be necessary, that Mr. Robertson considered himself as the only person liable for the debt heretofore mentioned.—Happening to meet Mr. R. on the afternoon of the same day on which my property was taken, by virtue of a writ of Execution, I inquired of him whether he had seen Mr. Symmer, (Attorney for the plaintiff)—he replied in the affirmative, and said, that he had been at his office, and paid him some money, on account of the suit then pending against us; he likewise observed that Mr. Symmer had promised him to delay the proceedings for a day or two. For his forbearance on the part of Mr. S. Mr. R. gave as a reason, that, in his opinion he (Mr. S.) had not received his Judgment Roll (being ignorant of Jurisdictional technicalities, I hope to be excused should the term be misapplied), from Frederick; but that he would ascertain from his son Robert some time in the course of the afternoon, whether such was the case or not. This conversation took place about 3 o'clock, and it had the effect of relieving my mind from that vexatious disquietude to which persons under adverse circumstances are continually exposed.

Valia and illusory, however, are human hopes and earthly expectations, and that it is easier to promise than to perform, the sequel of this narrative will, I trust, clearly and satisfactorily demonstrate.

Mr. R. instead of calling on his son, (who is an Attorney), as he had promised, unfortunately took another, (and to him the route must have been more congenial to his feelings than the other,) and more expeditious method of bringing his promise to an ultimatum, by appearing in his own proper person and character, at the Sheriff's Office, and then there, in the true spirit of Christian meekness and charity, asserting that which he knew to be a falsehood.

The consequence of this information was, that in about two hours after my conversation with Mr. R.—my Goods were in the Sheriff's possession, and taken by him under a charge, as derogatory to my character and feelings as a man, as it was unmanly, illiberal and deceptive in him who made it.

Mr. R. when he informed the Sheriff that I was securing my property in order to defraud my creditors, must have known that he was uttering a direct and palpable falsehood; and here I would ask Mr. R.— what part of my former transactions, either with himself or others, was so notoriously dishonest as to justify him in the belief of my adopting a line of conduct, so diametrically opposed to every principle of honour and integrity, as that which he (Mr. R.) with his characteristic benevolence, has marked out for me to pursue.

It argues a bad cause which cannot be supported by fair argument, and the lovers of truth and candour must hold that man in abhorrence, who, by disingenuous and ambiguous insinuations seeks as it were, under covert that he may annoy with more safety, and who labours to raise a slur at the expense of private character, against what he deems to be an accusation.

Whenever a consciousness of having done that which is right occurs to the mind of a reasonable being, it must be attended with pleasure, and that self-complacency and secret approbation which are more to be desired than the rites of Ormuz, or all the other pleasures of a fleeting and transitory existence.

I remain, Sir, Yours respectfully,

JOHN C. MACPHERSON.

* Query.—Why did Mr. Robertson pay Mr. Symmer any money on my account, when he asserts that I was indebted to him? This was an act of generosity not to be expected.
