GREETINGS TO PASTOR
AFTER LONG ABSENCE

Rev. B. H. Nobles Heartily Welcomed by Congregation of Victoria Street Baptist Church

Rev. B. H. Nobles, pastor of Victoria Street Baptist Church, who has been absent on a long leave of absence, on account of illness, has again assumed the duties of his pastorate. In welcoming him back to the pulpit, at the evening service last Sunday, an address was read by the clerk, J. E. Davidson, as follows:

Dear Pastor:
We welcome you back to your place in our church home. Our hearts are glad because your health and strength are restored in such a large measure and we hope that, as you take up the work here again, you will find it easy and light.

During your absence, we have worked together in perfect unity, sustaining the various activities and supporting the church as well as we were able.

We have missed your inspiration, counsel and leadership. Now, as you are about to take up the work among us again, we want to make it as easy and pleasant for you as possible. While we love to have you preach to us each Sunday and lead us in thought and worship in the prayer meetings and visit us in our homes, we as a people request you to do only those things which your present strength will permit. We want you to feel free to let some one else preach, to have one of our deacons lead the prayer meeting if you do not feel equal to it. In your visiting, while we all like to have you in our homes, we recommend that you call on the sick first and thus conserve your strength as much as possible. We have been looking forward to this reunion and now, as we attempt great things for God, we expect a great supporting of 11½ percent.

In behalf of the church,
(Sgd.) J. E. DAVIDSON, Clerk.

Mr. Nobles made a hearty reply, thanking the church for their loyalty and devotion to him and to the work during his absence of almost six months. He made special mention of the fact that the church had given him his salary in full during the long leave.

AS THE POSSIBLE
NEWCASTLE CHIEF

Will St. John Policemen Get the Appointment as Successor to Wm. H. Finley?

At a special meeting of the town council of Newcastle on Thursday evening, the police committee submitted Chief Finley’s resignation to take effect Sept. 19th.

The resignation was accepted but with regret. The committee recommended a St. John man, Frederick Lucas, for chief.

Ald. Kingston asked if there were no men in the town capable of being a police inspector. Would the new man have to bring a man to help him? There was no dissent or honor about it. It was horrible. He was ashamed to be where he was.

Ald. Miller had always looked on Finley as a gentleman, but he had not been able to do the work himself. Ald. Miller felt that the committee should advertise for a chief and get a man with good recommendations, and a clean record. What man from outside had been a success?

Ald. Hayward said that Finley had been a success, as his record showed. The Mayor—“I don’t think so.” Ald. Hayward said Finley’s success was also proved by his call to a larger field. Finley’s resignation had been in every newspaper, and applications had been received from two towns.

He presented the St. John man’s recommendations—all good ones—signed last spring by the then Mayor Frink, and Commissioners Potts and Wignore, ex-Chief of Police Clark, ex-Deputy Chief Jenkins and the present Chief David W. Simpson, also lately by A. D. Smith and references to Rev. W. R. Robinson and Chief Finley. He (Hayward) had seen the man and had also got first-class verbal recommendations of him from Judge Ritchie and Chief Finley. He was a young man of 11 years’ experience in police work, and personally appeared quite eligible for the job.

Ald. Miller did not think that two or three recommendations from St. John politicians were sufficient. Ald. Hayward said that the new man wanted the same salary as Finley got.

Ald. Miller thought that $90 a month was too much. Chatham’s chief got only $65 a month. Policemen should collect taxes.

Ald. Stables said many towns employ outside men as chief. St. John got an Edmonton man; Moncton sent to Fredericton; Fredericton sent to Newcastle and so on.

Ald. McGrath complained that where as police protection a few years ago cost the town $650, exclusive of what came from the Scott Act fund, it now costs $1,260. Were we better protected?

Ald. Hayward—“Yes.”

Ald. McGrath wanted two inspectors at about $70 a month each, each paid $600 a year out of Scott Act funds. Finley did no better work than the other inspectors.

Ald. Stables—“What can a man do if the people are not behind him?”

Ald. Hayward contended that Finley was a success.

Ald. Miller contended that there should be no Scott Act fund, but a deficit. The sale of liquor should be stopped absolutely.

Ald. Kingston said that as the present night policeman was willing to do Scott Act work there might be two inspectors.

The new chief should be here before Finley leaves.

Ald. Miller said that many were kicking because a town man was not employed. The committee should advertise and fully investigate.

The mayor thought that one policeman was enough. The whole town was to blame if the Scott Act was not enforced. He thought that as much rum was sold here as ever, and that the sale would never be stopped.

Ald. Miller moved, seconded by Ald. Kingston, that the committee be authorized to advertise for a policeman and Scott Act inspector in one is to each local police in two is to the St. John Telegraph.

Ald. Hayward said it was only killing time. A man was wanted before the 19th. Motion carried.

The Leader editorially says: “Newcastle’s town council will, in the course of a few days, appoint a chief of police to fill the position, made vacant by the resignation of W. H. Finley. We trust that the council will consider the application of local men capable of filling the position and not send to St. John or any other city for a chief. If our taxpayers are to be deprived of appointments to permanent town positions then it is well that they know these facts. A salary of $90 a month is too much money to pay for a police officer for a town the size of Newcastle.”

BELGIUM TO RUN
STEAMSHIP LINE

New York, Sept. 9.—A fleet of steamships financed by the Belgian government will be operated between New York and French and Italian ports by the Royal Belgian Lloyd Steamship Company, it was announced by A. W. Duckett & Co., American agents of the line. A direct service to Havre, with sailings every ten days, will be instituted with the departure of the Belgian steamer Balise from her on October 5.

A Belgian royal decree says that the state will guarantee principal and interest to the nominal capital of $20,000,000 to be issued by the company. The agent of the Belgian government’s support is regarded by shipping men here as emphasizing the projected program of the Entente Allies in the trade war that is expected to follow the close of the war. The plan virtually turns over Belgian shipping to the government.

Great National Effort

Sir George Perley Speaks on Future of Our Returning Soldiers

The national importance of doing our very best for our returning soldiers is insisted in Canada. I mean the system of giving government allowance to soldiers and their families while the men take the special training that they may need. I believe there is no such provision in England. I can tell our old country friends that Canada is away ahead of them in that matter.”

It will be remembered that the federal government, of which Sir George Perley is a member, long ago resolved on a policy of preference for men injured in their country’s service. An order-in-council, dated November 27, 1915, declares that returned soldiers, especially disabled soldiers, shall have preference in receiving civil service appointments—subject, of course, to each applicant’s capacity for the work.

The securing of ordinary employment for returned soldiers is one of the chief objects of the provincial government commissions affiliated to the military Hospitals Commission of the dominion government, and every member of the public, to whose duty Sir George Perley so pointedly alludes, should give the provincial commissions all possible help, either by offering employment or by sending information as to openings available for returned soldiers.

“We have begun well. We have established a liberal scale of pensions, but that is only a beginning. This country’s resources are enormous, but they must be developed, not only to gratify our national pride in big figures of trade and production, but to meet our heavy obligations for the men as well as for the country. The great majority of the soldiers who return invalided have fortunately the hope of a long life of useful and happy activity before them. Whether that hope will be realized depends on the treatment and training given them, and on their own willingness to take advantage of that training, both during their convalescence and later on. The Military Hospitals Commission, by its thorough organization and the extreme care it takes to help men in this direction according to their individual and varying needs, is doing a splendid work for the men as well as for the country.

“In fact, the importance of that work cannot be too strongly insisted on. The public should be kept constantly informed about it, and should be helped to understand the problems involved, for it is necessary that everyone should assist and co-operate in a great national effort to see that every man gets remunerative employment suited to his ability.

“I have seen something of what is done for our injured men during their stay in England, and I can assure you that the greatest pains are being taken to make it as nearly perfect as possible. This work is being done chiefly through our own Canadian Army Medical Service, but we are extremely grateful for the help so warmly and lavishly given us by the English organizations as well.

“There is one particularly good advice, by the way, that has originated in Canada. I mean the system of giving government allowance to soldiers and their families while the men take the special training that they may need. I believe there is no such provision in England. I can tell our old country friends that Canada is away ahead of them in that matter.”

Twelve Points Lead For Batting Honors—Jake Daubert Pressed by Chase in National

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 9.—Tris Speaker drew away slightly from Ty Cobb this week in the race for premier batting honors in the American League, his average after Wednesday’s games being twelve points better than his rival’s—a gain of three points. Cobb added six stolen bases to his record, now amounting to fifty-four; Jackson, of Chicago, leads in total bases with 258; Cobb, in runs scored with ninety-three, and Detroit in club batting with 260.
