THE COMING MUSICAL TREAT

MARIE MORRISEY, CONTRALTO.

Marie Morrisey, the charming New York contralto, assisted by Joe Belov, violinist, will be heard in an unique recital at Imperial Theatre on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 24. Miss Morrisey is one of the very few artists who has won metropolitan recognition over night. She has attained prominence in her chosen field mainly through her own efforts. American born and trained, Miss Morrisey sings equally well in French, Italian, German and English, and her repertoire is surprisingly large. She has often said that American songs by American composers are as beautiful as any to be found. She has received songs composed by Americans. All Miss Morrisey's concerts are marked by a natural ease and grace of manner, a wonderfully attractive personality and a display of voice which is unusually full and rich.

It is understood that admission to this recital will be by invitation only. Messrs. W. H. Thomas & Co., Ltd., are mainly responsible for bringing this splendid singer here.

It is rumored that Miss Morrisey will attempt the seemingly impossible feat of singing a duet with herself. Just how this can be done, we do not know and will have to be shown.

Joe Belov, violinist, is an artist of considerable reputation who has toured in this country for several seasons, making friends and admirers wherever he has been heard because of his serious attitude toward his art as well as his unusual talent.

Admittance to the recital will be by card only.

AMERICAN LOVE OF FLOWERS.

To the Editor of The Times:
Sir,—Reading your most interesting comment on the culture of flowers and how to acquire such a love through the teachers of our schools as in the United States so successfully pursued, it has occurred to our mind that an effort should be commenced at once to facilitate such a loving desire.

On our personal part we shall be glad to help gratuitously every genuine lover of Nature's greatest gift to mankind—the splendid and beauty of her flowers. To every teacher who will introduce the enlightened American plan of instruction of this beautiful cause we will gladly—practically and personally—while we remain alive, discover to them its simple requirements from the small spot of rocky ground we occupy and which we feel we have changed from a rough, bare and barren rocky site to a real paradise of beauty and bloom; and from those who have seen its condensed loveliness and have left with their hands full of its treasures gratefully offered them, have come to many a desire to "have a garden" as a sign placed by a generous friend of flowers on every available lighting electric post in this city in the last spring.

Unfortunately many were torn off by the uneducated and unthinking, which has brought forth your kindly, valuable and reasoning complaint of the vandalism so long continued in this city and suburbs.

The sole true remedy—the school—as advised in your ever-growing practical wisdom, should be aided by every legislator in Canada and thus become true brothers of the advanced educated neighbors so near us.

Starting from a boyhood of twelve years of age we have with increased interest pursued gardening for seventy years, seeking the practical in successful ways to obtain best results. We have a flower called durandii. It is, with the exception of orchids, the most valuable we cultivate, blooms the same time as tulips, but unlike tulips ever remains in the ground, evergreen winter and summer when not blooming. It is of these plants we will present a half dozen to every teacher who undertakes the teaching, by offering a half dozen as a prize to every winner who joins the classes.

We have for fifty years been collecting these beautiful and many colored flowers and possess enough for all.
Yours most respectfully,
J. S. CLIMO.

TO SERBIAN UNIT

Major Amund, paymaster of Military District No. 7, has been advised by Ottawa that he has been appointed paymaster of an infantry unit with the Siberian contingent, and to hold himself in readiness to be transferred to the same. Major Amund has been attached to the Ottawa branch of the pay office for several years previous to his appointment to this district. Word that Major Amund had been sent to the Siberian contingent came as no little surprise to himself as well as to military men at local headquarters.

AT RIVER GLADE.

Dr. Charles MacKay, medical director of the Invalids' Soldiers' Commission for New Brunswick was in the city yesterday. He said that twenty-one soldier patients had already been admitted to the River Glade Sanitarium and that preparations were underway for the reception of more. He announced that a donation of 400 volumes of books had been received from the Women's Canadian Club of St. John, through the president, Mrs. G. A. Kurling, for which the institution is indeed grateful.
