GREAT SALMON FISHING ON THE TOBIQUE RIVER

Duke of Connaught Abandons
Visit—Col. McLean to Use
Bungalow—News of Fredericton

Fredericton, N. B., July 4.—Adam Moore, well known guide, of Scotch Lake, who returned last evening after a week's trip to his camps on the headwaters of the Tobique, reports that the salmon run in that river is the best in years. Members of the Tobique Salmon Club are occupying the camps at the Forks and according to Mr. Moore have been enjoying capital sport. The Tobique pools, located on crown lands, are now held under lease by Messrs. Fraser, who purchased them in March last.

Recently James Tennant of this city who is visiting his brother in law, Donald Fraser, at Plaster Rock, killed a thirty pound salmon with a trout rod at one of these pools. He played the fish for three hours and a half, being without a gaff, he sent to a farm house half a mile distant for a pitchfork with the aid of which he succeeded in landing the big fellow.

The Duke of Connaught and party have been compelled to abandon their contemplated trip to the Tobique this year, and the elaborate bungalow built for their use will be occupied for the next few weeks by Col. H. H. McLean, M. P., and a party of friends.

Mr. Moore reports big game very plentiful in the Tobique region. He counted eleven moose in Nietau Lake at one time. Five were big bulls. He has engaged to guide several fishing parties to that section during August.

The results of the examination for entrance to Fredericton High School has been announced. Of ninety-six applicants twenty-one passed in the first division.

CITY TAKING DOWN VERY GAY APPEARANCE

Bunting on Business Buildings and in Streets For Old Home Week

The city is rapidly assuming a gay appearance in honor of the Back to New Brunswick celebration next week. Strings of bunting streamers are being put up along the principal streets, and many of the business houses have commenced the work of decorating their buildings.

The Canadian Drug Company were the first to start yesterday, and they were quickly followed by the Canadian Fairbanks, Ltd. and Waterbury & Rising. Today decorations appeared on the premises of Haves & Co., The Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation, The Standard Publishing Co., The Telegraph and Times Publishing Co., The Eastern Securities Co. and Armstrong & Bruce.

The contract has been given for the decoration of the City Hall, and the city is purchasing the decorating materials to have them ready for another occasion.

Most of the principal business houses are completing their arrangements for the display of flags and bunting, and the city will soon have a striking holiday front.

ALTERNATIVE ROUTES FOR VALLEY RAILWAY

Government Discussing Them Here
—Re-planning of Suspension
Bridge

The route of the St. John River Valley Railway south of Fredericton is under consideration by the provincial government, which is meeting here this afternoon. Dominion Engineer Taylor and Provincial Engineer Maxwell are in conference with the government and alternative routes are being discussed with the intention of reaching a final decision on as much of the route as is possible.

One of the disputed sections is at Oranook, where three routes are offered. Of the three the central route seems to be the one favored.

The section from Fredericton to Woodstock was approved some time ago and seven sub-contractors are now engaged on this section. The route from Woodstock to Centerville has also been approved and the section which will be under discussion today will be that from Fredericton to Perry's Point.

It is expected that the government, at today's meeting, will make arrangements for re-planning the Suspension Bridge in order to have it in good shape during the summer. Even if the work on the new structure were started immediately, it would be some time before it would be ready to take the place of the Suspension bridge, and there seems to be some possibility of the old bridge being used until the new one is completed.

DEATHS IN CITY ONLY 52 IN JUNE

Deaths from intestinal disease under 5 years, 2.
Vaccination.
Most diseases can not be provided against except by ordinary careful living and trying to keep in good health, and then the victims of the late summer epidemics are an exception to this rule. We can almost certainly, so fortify our system against the late summer epidemics, and very close contact with it, need give us little concern.

A great doctor found this out in the eighteenth century, and since then, smallpox instead of being one of the most virulent and destructive of all diseases, has come to be one that causes very few deaths, and one that the great majority of people have never even seen.

Indeed, so scarce has it become that in some countries of Europe—Germany, for example—it is almost wholly unknown. Yet Germany contains about nine times as many people as the whole of Canada, and millions of them far poorer and living in more unsanitary quarters than is the case with us.

It is hardly necessary to say, for every one knows, that these results have been brought about by vaccination. In some other diseases, notably typhoid fever and the bubonic plague, somewhat similar processes have been tried, but with no success, and with nothing like the surety and success which have attended vaccination against smallpox.

Two questions of surpassing importance are being constantly asked about vaccination, and (2) how often does it require to be repeated in order to protect for it smallpox during life?

The answer to the first question is that every child should be vaccinated within six months after birth. The second question is not quite so easy to answer. Some say that it is never safe to trust to this. The one who accepted by most authorities is that if one is vaccinated in childhood and again somewhere about the age of fifteen, that is to say, well vaccinated, the chance of afterward contracting smallpox is very small, and that even should it be contracted, it will be so light that it will be of little or no danger to life.

Of course, in case of an epidemic of smallpox, it is the duty of every one to be re-vaccinated. Where one has undergone the operation already twice successfully, in the vast majority of cases a third operation will have no effect.

Too much cannot be said of the necessity of good vaccination. Often the child goes through the operation and either the arm does not become sore at all, or else only slightly so. Such an operation, if nothing more is done, is worse than none, for it often gives a false security and leads to outbreaks of the disease.

Too much cannot be said of the necessity of good vaccination. Often the child goes through the operation and either the arm does not become sore at all, or else only slightly so. Such an operation, if nothing more is done, is worse than none, for it often gives a false security and leads to outbreaks of the disease.

Every case of vaccination should be carefully examined some eight days after the operation, and if it be a first vaccination, and has not "taken," it should be repeated.

Our law does not enforce vaccination within six months after birth. It does, however, order that every child, before entering the public schools for the first time, must be successfully vaccinated. This is a good law and is being strictly enforced in this city. In these cases a need cost nothing to become vaccinated, as it provides for a free operation to all who may wish to take advantage of it. Each year, generally during July and August, certain days of the week are set apart for this purpose by the Board of Health. These dates are always announced in the newspapers before hand.
