COUNTING THE PROFITS.

The last of the summer boarders had departed, and Uncle Reub sat down to count his gains. As he handled the dough he muttered to himself:

"Two weeks' board for that squinteyed gal who longed for hills and dales. Didn't find any, but left $14 behind. Clear profit, $10."

"Three weeks for the artist chap, who wanted to see sunrises and sunsets. Kicked a little about his cornhusk mattress, but saw the suns and left me $21. Clear profit, about $15."

"The old maid who wanted to see the shimmer of the moon on the lakes while holding hands with someone. No lakes—no shimmer—no moon. However, she fell for $17. Clear profit, $11."
