CUSTOM TAILORED SUITS IN FOUR DAYS

A Delivery Schedule That Has Not Failed for Years

To supplement the service of the Semi-ready Stores throughout Canada, any special order suit is made to measure on a four-day schedule at the Semi-ready Shop.

No moment is lost after the photo-type order reaches the office. Within ten minutes it is verified, and on its way to the cutter's table, and a time-suit is allowed each tailor for the performance of his portion of the work.

"We can always carry out a promise of delivery of a custom suit within a week," said W. P. Hurley, of the Jockey Shop in King street.

The Semi-ready Store can then guarantee delivery of a custom-made suit within a specified hour, and can carry out every promise made.

WHAT STARTED SOCIAL WORK OF SALVATION ARMY

General Booth's Pity for Humans Sleeping on London Bridge — Growth of the Endeavor.

Commissioner Charles Soutton, head of the Salvation Army in the territory known as Canada, East, and extending from Port Arthur to Newfoundland and Bermuda, has just completed a six weeks' trip during which time he visited the chief cities in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

Commissioner Charles Soutton, head of the Salvation Army in the territory known as Canada, East, and extending from Port Arthur to Newfoundland and Bermuda, has just completed a six weeks' trip during which time he visited the chief cities in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

COMMISSIONER SOUTTON.

It was a trip of inspection of Salvation Army work, having particular bearing upon the present annual self-inspection.

"The outlook is good," he said on his arrival back to Toronto, "and the people seem to be very responsive. Every dollar asked for is earmarked and budgeted for and if we come short in the late general we will mean curtailment of our various activities."

In his forty years as a Salvation Army officer, Commissioner Soutton has traveled very extensively.

"We have a social scheme that has proved adaptable in seventy-six different countries," he said. "Last year there were 8,296 in our rescue homes for women and of these 7,284 passed out satisfactory. Our shelters for men have accommodation for 3,299 and they are always taxed to their capacity."

"In Canada and Newfoundland alone we have nearly 1,500 officers, exclusively engaged in our work. There are twenty-seven men's institutions, seventeen for women, seven for children and ten hospitals.

All this activity for the unfortunate of earth, is the result of a scene which met General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, as he crossed London Bridge in a hansom, one mid-night, after he had conducted a meeting in another part of the great metropolis.

Commissioner Soutton explained how the general could distinguish the figures of men as they slept in the recesses of the bridge and how he was further pained to discover that many of the recesses contained women and little children.

ARE YOU MISSING SOMETHING?

There are hundreds of well-dressed men in St. John and vicinity who buy all their clothing at Gilmour's, and the number is steadily increasing.

If YOU are unfamiliar with Gilmour's values and do not know of the type and character of the clothing handled, you have missed opportunities. NOW is a good time to get acquainted—the new clothing is very attractive, both in respect to fabrics and models, and the prices are such as to promote economy.

Suits are priced $25 up and TOPCOATS $20 up—we especially recommend the values at $30 to $50.

Yarmouth Creamery Butter

The Best & Purest Butter Made in Canada. Butter Itself Try it Once—Use it Always. FRED BYRDEN City Market

When he drove along he realized that a great problem was facing him and his organization. He realized that the wrecks huddled together on London Bridge that night were only a few of the thousands who were trying to find shelter from the cold and dampness every night.

"When he reached home," continued the Commissioner, "he called his son, Branwell, the present general, to his room. Branwell said, 'I can't sleep at night because of the homeless wrecks. The very cab horse that brought me home better off than they, for it has proper shelter after its work, food in plenty and if it slips on the pavement there are always willing hands to help it to its feet again. But these people have none of these things—there is no hand out to help them.'"

The immensity of the task before them presented itself, but the greater they realized the need, the more they were determined to do. He kept watch by the bedside of his dying father till he passed away. In his book "In Darkest England and the Way Out" the response which followed the publication of this book made it possible for the general to set his plans in operation—and the measures which he had planned in 1890 were such that today this single phase of the Salvation Army's world-wide work comprises for men 272 shelters and hostels, 181 industrial homes, giving a combined accommodation of 30,000. There are twelve homes and fifteen prison gate homes, having a total accommodation of 10,000.

How Ed. Jones Got Stung

ED JONES saw a bicycle bargain advertised. The low price was a bait he couldn't resist. When the wheel arrived he was tickled pink. It looked pretty good. It rode fairly well.

Things Began to Happen

But—after a few weeks, things began to happen. The enamel started to chip, the nicking to rust, and the machine began to run hard. A lot of pressure was needed on the pedals to hit up any speed. The chain didn't seem to run true around the sprockets. There was a grinding and clicking noise.

Then worse happened. Something broke! The bargain bicycle wouldn't go. He had to push it home.

Ed wanted to send the wheel back to be repaired. But he found it needed some new parts. And the store was out of those particular parts. They would have to send away for them. There would be a delay of at least three weeks, and perhaps longer.

To save time, Ed was told he would be wiser to have the specialist he needed made to order—a costly job. No, the store didn't take orders of that kind. Nor could they advise definitely where to go to get the job done. Ed was left to go to get the job done. Ed was left to shift for himself.

You could hardly blame him for saying, "I thought I was getting a bargain, but I got stung instead."

Take heed of Ed Jones' experiences and avoid "cheap" bargain bicycles, if you don't want to get "stung."

Choose a wheel that the manufacturer and the dealer all stand behind—the C.C.M. Bicycle.

Over 1,000 Service Stations

If any repairs are ever required on a C.C.M. Bicycle, there is always a C.C.M. Service Station within easy reach—over

1,000 of them in Canada, where repair parts are obtainable at reasonable cost, and intelligent repair service given.

But a C.C.M. Bicycle hardly ever requires repair. It is built of the most lasting steel and other materials. The parts are made as accurately as those used in the finest motor cars.

A C.C.M. Bicycle runs with watch-like smoothness and it continues to run easily for years and years.

10 to 15 Years in Use

There are C.C.M. Bicycles in use today that are running smoothly and easily after 10 to 15 years of service.

And the 1923 C.C.M. Bicycles are the best we have ever turned out. The parts are made with wonderful ease and the famous C.C.M. Triplex Hanger has been improved, making the C.C.M. a still more "peppy" bicycle. The Triplex turns with wonderful ease and smoothness—gives you power to burn.

The New Pedal

There's the new Gibson Pedal, too—with its silvery, rust-proof aluminum frame and its generous-size rubbers that grip the foot perfectly. A wonderfully light, yet very strong, pedal.

And there's the New Hercules Brake—the soft, velvety brake that coasts farther, and has no clumsy side-arm.

English Seamless Tubing, too—the kind that makes a powerful, rigid frame.

And don't forget each C.C.M. Bicycle is coated with a brilliant, durable enamel and has its bright parts nicked over copper so they won't rust.

It may cost you a few dollars more for a real, honest-to-goodness bicycle than for a bargain, but it won't take long for the repair bills to eat up the difference. And just think, too, of the extra long years of service the staunch, faithful C.C.M. Bicycle will give you.

$15 to $20 Less

Step into the new C.C.M. dealer's and glimpse the new 1923 models for men, women, boys and girls. They are $15 to $20 less than the "peak" war prices. Right down to the bottom for a quality bicycle.
