Lesson IV, July 20. John 11:19-27. THE RESURRECTION OF LAZARUS.

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life—John 11:25.

Then Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went to meet him...

Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. The words are simple expressions of faith and love...

But I know that even now, whatsoever thou wilt speak to God, the words express a half-formed hope...

Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall rise again. These words might mean that her brother would be brought back to life again...

I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection of the last day. This statement of Martha's faith is to be interpreted by the belief of the orthodox Jews...

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. This is the source of life, both here and hereafter...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. The truth is proclaimed in two forms—accepted by resurrection and life everlasting.

She said unto him, Yes, Lord, I believe. She not only is convinced, but it is in no new departure of doctrine that she believes...

Said I unto thee. The resurrection is a mystery to the masses, but it is a simple thing to the disciples...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. Remember, God gives a special mission to one, and to another special work...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. He is never denied, for he always prayed in the right spirit...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. He is never denied, for he always prayed in the right spirit...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. He is never denied, for he always prayed in the right spirit...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. He is never denied, for he always prayed in the right spirit...

Charlotte Elliott's Hymn.

Some fifty years ago that eminent minister, Rev. Charles Malan, of Geneva, was a guest of the Elliotts...

Several days afterwards, the young lady apologized for her abrupt treatment of the minister, and confessed that his question and his parting remark had troubled her...

Just as I am, without one plea, But that Thy blood was shed for me, And that Thou bid'st me come to Thee, O Lamb of God, I come!

The words of Pastor Malan, realized in her own experience, were of course the writer's inspiration.

Beginning thus its public life in the columns of an unpretending religious magazine, the little anonymous hymn, with its sweet counsel to troubled minds...

It is a hymn of prayer and praise, and its simple words have been the source of much spiritual joy to many a soul...

To every man his work. Remember, God gives a special mission to one, and to another special work, and each is serving him. One he sends out to preach the gospel...

And whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. He is never denied, for he always prayed in the right spirit...

Military Katy.

Katie Gray had been at a missionary meeting and heard a lady speak who had been for fifteen years a missionary in Africa. She had spoken only of the bright days, and not of the dark, and Katie was delighted and interested.

Yes, I have concluded to be a missionary when I get about forty. Why wait until you are forty? asked Katie's mamma, looking up from the sewing that occupied both hands and feet.

Well, thirty then, and Katy moved in the morning and looked out. Her father, that was just the age of Cousin Mary when she was thrown from the carriage on her way to the party. You know she has never walked since.

Katy drummed restlessly on her window. Never in her life, it seemed, had so few old persons passed on the Bedford church, Judge Donforth made a decided impression by telling of a student at law he had had in his office some years ago...

Perhaps I could go, at twenty-five, said Katy. That is just the age of Cousin Mary when she was thrown from the carriage on her way to the party. You know she has never walked since.

And Katy did begin right then and there, and she began to, in the true way. Some missionaries are so important and needed a man on the frontier fields, and that they there is always an open door.
