Four New Councils in New Brunswick-Plan fer Institution for Care of Feeble Minded; Also, Training of Defective Children.

Mrs. Willoughby Quannings and Mrs. Thomson, secretary and president of the National Woman's Council, returned Sat-urday from Prince Edward Island. On Friday, in Charlottetown, the executive committee met in the Prince of Wale College. The attendance was large, and amongst those present were Mrs. McIn-tyre, wife of the lieutenant governor, and tyre, wife of the lieutenant governor, and Mrs. Anderson, prominently identified with council work on the island. The Charlottetown local council enter-tained the president and secretary to lunch in the Queen hotel, and in the evening a public meeting was held, the president presiding. Addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Fullerton and Doetor Ander-

Sackville, also. While in Halifax Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Thomson conferred with Doctor Sin-clair, of Charlottetown; Doctor McKie, superintendent of education, and with the attorney-general respecting the establish-ment of an institution for the care of the feeble-minded, and also for the training of 10,494 feeble-minded, and also for the training of defective children. All expressed a readi-ness to co-operate, and a suggestion was received that favored an institution to which patients could come from the entire Atlantic provinces. Outside of Halifax it is estimated there are in Nova Scotia 600 defective children, to whom a wise training would come as a great blessing. There will be a meeting of the local council tomorrow afternoon, and on Wed-nesday Mrs. Cummings will leave.

The case of Dr. Charles H. Johnson and wife vs. Hazen was before Judge Barker Friday. The case has gon through the probate court, and has been brought before the equity court for the some important question

The plaintiff s prefer certain claim against the estate of the late Margare Hazen, which the administrator, J. Doug las Hazen opposes. In settling as to these claims the court will also fix the shares to claims the court will also fix the shares to which the other claimants are entitled. It is claimed that certain bonds amount-ing to $6,700 do not form part of the estate by virtue of these having been the subject of a donatio mortis causa, and the court will have to decide as to this. Emma Anderson, daughter of George N. Anderson, was the first witness. She swore that Margaret Hazen just before her death made a gift of the bonds in question.

The hearing was postponed until the regular sitting of the equity court in November.

A number of other matters affecting in-dividual members of the association were also brought up by the delegates, and were dealt with by the meeting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: D. Pottinger, president, recelected. J. J. Wallace, vice-president, re-elected. William Brown, anditor, re-elected. Mr. Wallace, on behalf of Mr. Pottinger and himself, thanked the meeting for again electing them. He said that both the general manager and himself had been a long time in the service of the railway, and they had always tried to render any assistance in their power to the employes and they had aways thed to benefit any assistance in their power to the employes in any scheme which would be of benefit to them. The fact of them accepting of-fice in the association, entailed on them considerable work, but if it was to benefit considerable work, but if it was to benefit the employes they were perfectly willing to do it. He spoke in very high torms of the employes of the I. C. R., skying that he was well aware that they compared most favorably with the employes of any other railway.
