BY-PRODUCTS.

Farmers Are Learning Lesson In Saving Waste.

The packers claim to make all their profits out of the by-products, sources of income which were utterly ignored not many years ago. A good many farmers, says the Scientific American, may be skeptical of this claim in its entirety, but no one doubts that the packers turn by-products to good account. It is interesting to note the great progress farmers have made in a similar direction.

Not many years ago straw stacks were counted valueless, and everywhere burned. Now progressive farmers spread the straw and find it a valuable fertilizer, and while burning is still much too often practiced, it is a dying custom. In some sections of Western Canada the Government has forbidden the burning of straw stacks.

Corn stover has a fluctuating value from year to year, varying with the supply of our roughages and live stock conditions, but its feeding value is definitely known, and for some years past the tendency has been toward wider use of the stalks.

Cottonseed, valuable both as a feed and a fertilizer, was formerly thrown away. It is now a by-product of tremendous importance, not alone to the cotton industry, but to innumerable cattle feeders.

Far West cattle feeders would find it difficult to dispense with ensiled beet tops, nutritious by-product of beet growing for the sugar factories.

Hardly a year passes that some waste product is not utilized in a large way for the first time. One of the newest high-protein chicken feeds is the rinds and waste cuttings of cheese pressed into large bricks. It is now being marketed on a commercial scale. Cattle and sheep feeders in the pinto bean territory, which now takes in practically all of New Mexico and Colorado, and growing areas in Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas, are fast making bean straw a standard article. Bean growing in this section is undergoing great development, and bean straw will become an important feed. It is used as the sole roughage with satisfactory results, but a better plan, so they who have used it say, is to feed it with ensilage, when its value is close to that of alfalfa.

And no one has forgotten yet that sweet clover, now a valuable legume, was formerly a weed—and still is one, to many farmers.

When one considers the many by-product feeds used by dairymen—low-grade molasses, beet pulp, brewers' grains and a dozen others—it is hard to see how the agricultural industry could get along without them.

Hun Dignity (?)

Back from the line during the Argonne battle a lieutenant came, looking groggily for a first-aid station. A piece of shrapnel had torn its way through his helmet and, once inside, had spun around and around without so much as scratching his skin or cutting his hair. But it had given him a bit of a start and he wanted a rest. Yet all along the route, emerging from scores of little hidden dugouts, scared Germans had come and surrendered to him, gathering behind him in a dejected caravan like the children of Hamelin behind Pied Piper. By the time he was back on the crest of Hill 272 they numbered 67, and there a German rushed forward, impressive with the important tidings that deep in the deepest dug-out of them all, the lieutenant-colonel commanding the regiment that had defended the hill was waiting for some one to come down and be surrendered to. "Any one who wants to be my prisoner this day has got to come to me." Thus said the weary lieutenant as he limped on his way, and so the lieutenant-colonel stayed hungry in his dugout and was obliged to surrender next morning to two privates passing by on their way for water.

War Widows Remarrying.

War widows are making the best of misfortunes and many are taking unto themselves other husbands. Information forthcoming from the Board of Pension Commissioners shows that a great many women who have lost their husbands at the front are remarrying. War widows who remarry are given a gratuity of $480, which amount is paid to them in a lump sum. This is the equal of one year's pension, ordinarily paid in monthly instalments to widows. Then the Government ceases to have further responsibility for the widow, though the pension allowed to each of her children continues, in the case of a girl, until she attains the age of seventeen years, and in the case of a boy, until he reaches sixteen years of age.

Yorkshire Hogs of Best Bacon Type.

Yorkshire hogs are distinctly of the bacon type. They have small hams and shoulders and a large quantity of side meat and do not get excessively fat. This makes it possible to produce an excellent quality of bacon from them and they ordinarily command a premium on the market if shipped in carload lots. The Yorkshires are very prolific and are excellent mothers. They are inclined to be more active than the lard breeds and need better fences. The Yorkshires are to be recommended for regions where corn is grown in a small quantity. Where corn is the principal crop of the farm, the lard breeds prove more profitable.
