GENERAL PAYLOFF SHOT BY ASSASSIN

Murderer, Who Was Disguised as Military Clerk, Captured, After Exciting Chase.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 9.—Lieut. General Vladimir Pavloff, military procurator or advocate general, generally known since the late parliament as "Hangman" Pavloff, was shot and killed at 10 o'clock this morning, while walking in the garden of the chief military court building, near the Moika canal.

The assassin, who apparently was disguised as a workman, was captured after a long chase through the city streets, during which he shot about 40 shots from two revolvers, which he carried, killing a policeman and accidentally wounding a General Pavloff was prominent in the sitting of the last parliament in answer to interpellations. He especially excoriated the revolutionists. The allegation has been made that he delayed the reprieve of a number of the Baltic mutineers, who had been convicted by drumhead court martial, until the men were executed. The crime showed evidence of careful premeditation, which was characteristic of the murders of Gen. Alexei Ignatieff and Von Der Laun, and the same organization which has sentenced Emperor Nicholas and several of the ministers to death. The assassin, who wore the uniform of a military clerk attached to the court, obtained an entrance to the garden under the pretext of submitting a report to the military procurator. He approached the general within arm's length, drew a rapid fire pistol and fired the whole load, seven shots, into Pavloff's body.

Every shot was well aimed and two of them tore a gaping wound in his breast. The general expired while being carried to his apartments in the same building. From the nature of the wounds it appeared that the steel jacketed bullets were flattened in order that they might inflict more serious wounds. Hastily slipping another "clip" of cartridges into his revolver and drawing a second weapon, the assassin ran across the garden to the carriage entrance, threatened the porter with his pistols, and dashed down Glinka street past the Imperial Opera House, with a crowd of the porters and court attendants in close pursuit. A policeman stationed in front of the opera house attempted to seize the assassin, but was shot down by the latter, who also wounded a boy. The terrorist then resumed his flight, firing at the police officers and house porters who attempted to bar his way. His ammunition became exhausted as he reached Lantern lane.

In a Class by Itself

It is quite true FERROL is an emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and a particularly good one at that. But it combines iron and Phosphorus with the Oil, and these are just what are needed to make the emulsion perfect and they are just what all other emulsions lack.

FERROL

Unique because it contains Iron and Phosphorus with Cod Liver Oil. Pleasant to take and easy to digest. The record for the use of 25 years (1909) lies from the use of 25 years.

It is freely exposed and its bona fides are vouched for by eminent analysts in Canada, the United States and Great Britain. It is endorsed by prominent physicians of all schools. It is used in all the leading Hospitals, Sanitariums and other Public Institutions.

The London (Eng.) Lancet, after careful analysis in its own laboratory, fully endorses it. We are prepared to substantiate all the above statements.

FERROL is the embodiment of health, strength and vitality, and

BRIEFS BUILDING UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Cold Weather and Scarcity of Stone Has Impeded Progress of Saskatoon Structure.

SASKATOON, Jan. 9.—Saskatoon's traffic bridge is to be completed in a few days, and it has been built under difficulties. The scarcity of stone and the coldness of the weather have greatly impeded progress.

The section of concrete piers during such cold weather as has been experienced in Saskatoon recently is not pleasant occupation for the men engaged, while for the contractor it is not only costly but the work requires much more careful supervision all its details to assure a perfect job. Today a score of men are engaged on the remnants of the mountain of gravel which was accumulated during the summer. It is now frozen into a solid mass, and while half of the gang are loosening the gravel with picks the other half are shovelling it onto three old engine boilers which with strong fires inside have been requisitioned to thaw out and thoroughly dry the frozen lumps. But for this costly process the gravel would be of no use for mixing with the cement and crushed stone, from which the piers of the bridge are constructed.

The stone crusher is at work, too, grinding up all that remains of the great heap of stone gleaned last summer, with great labor, from the prairie to the north of the city and from the bed of the river. A third gang has just started to erect the outside casing for the sixth pier, the last of the series. It is no sinuous climbing about on the tall scaffolding with the temperature so low, and only men thoroughly experienced to such dangerous work and well seasoned to the weather could safely undertake it.

As it is absolutely necessary that no frost reach the cement until it has set hard, the most elaborate preparations have to be made to secure a satisfactory job. A double casing requires to be built. The outside one is as carefully built as the frame of a house, and lined with tar paper to keep it as tight as possible. The inside one, of course, is the shape of the pier, and is gradually built as the concrete is filled in. The whole interior is kept thoroughly warm during the process of filling and hardening by a system of steam heating. It is not only necessary to add very materially to the cost of such an undertaking and make the work of bridge building more difficult and costly during the winter season.

ACROSS CANADA IN THREE YEARS

A Remarkable Trip Made Mostly on Foot by an English Lecturer.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 9.—A walking geography of Canada arrived recently in Vancouver in the person of Mr. H. Haywood, a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London, and lecturer with Canada as his subject. To master his subject Mr. Haywood has travelled from Halifax to the terminal city by daylight, the tour having taken him three years. He has travelled thousands of miles by rail, steamer and stage, also many hundreds of miles on foot, visiting large and small centers, new and old settlements, farm and mining districts, lumber camps, industrial centers, places that would afford him an opportunity of obtaining particulars respecting the resources of the country.

Mr. Haywood's aim has been to thoroughly know the country, from Atlantic to Pacific, its population, its products, and general resources; its cities and towns, and what they are doing for, so that he may make use of such knowledge during his lecture tours round the world. The views, with which his lectures are to be illustrated, will show the beauty spots that are of note and interest, besides street views, cities, parks, rivers, waterfalls, public institutions, and such scenes as would be an inducement to travelers and tourists generally to visit.

He also desires to induce travelers from Bombay, Madras, Ceylon, Calcutta, Australia and New Zealand to favor the Canadian route in visiting England, so that they may become acquainted with Canada, its people, and the many picturesque spots that soon to be seen in Vancouver to Halifax. His lectures will also be given in the United States.

He will try, while in British Columbia, to obtain a perfect collection of views descriptive of the country, so that outsiders, that is, people in other parts of the world, who may attend his illustrated lectures, may gain a good idea of British Columbia and its many beautiful scenes, with which the whole Province is so richly endowed. Its great resources, stores of wealth, and the advantages to be derived by making it the great highway to Europe.

Mr. Haywood has left for the interior. He hopes to make arrangements with the Tourist Association to secure a comprehensive collection of views of the city and most important points in the vicinity.

CONJUGAL

Nan—I don't see why Miss Mugley should want to marry him with all her money.

Dick—I guess she had to. I don't believe he'd have taken her without it.

"Guzler has an unpleasant way of referring to his wife as one of his sins."

"Oh, he merely means that she is sure to find him out."

Water (to guest who has complained that his napkin is full of holes)—Pardon, sir, I will bring you another.

Guest—No, on second thought I'll keep this; at least the holes are clean.

A FORGERY CHARGE

Two Fashionably Dressed and Pretty Women Arrested in Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—After eluding detection a week, two pretty and fashionably dressed young women were arrested through the cleverness of a grocery clerk and will have to answer charges of attempting to obtain money by means of forged checks. They gave their names as Grace Cameron, nineteen years of age, no address, and Ruth Wilson, twenty-three years of age, of the Lafayette Hotel, Buffalo. The former girl admitted several forgeries in Toronto, the sums ranging as high as $40, but Ruth Wilson would tell little concerning herself.

The arrest came about in a most peculiar manner. Shortly after eight o'clock a phone message came to H. Cowwell, grocery store, 17 Howard Street, the speaking representing herself to be Mrs. (Dr.) Winnet, 525 Sherbourne Street, and asking that she be cashed. Mr. Cowwell said that he would transact the business, and it was agreed that a maid should get the money. Shortly after nine o'clock a woman, who had been waiting in the store, came back and Grace Cameron entered with a cheque. The grocer called up Dr. Winnet, who stated that no such check had been signed, and he asked that the girl be detained, as several forgeries had been committed with her name. However, the girl was suspicious, and quickly she ran back to the cab. It was rapidly driven along the street, but was followed by the grocer's clerk. Upon coming to the corner of St. Andrew's and Spadina P. C. Jeffers ordered the driver to stop upon information being given by the clerk. The police department had been notified and Detectives Tipton and Kennedy made the arrest. Mrs. Cameron was taken to the police station, and the girl was taken to the police station.

Part of the girls' story was learned when the prisoners were confronted with a list of charges at the detective department. The Cameron girl admitted having forged the names of many prominent city people. Her narrative of her life during the last few months when she lived at the best hotels was startling, and she used in telling the names of some well known citizens. She said she had been a domestic in this city before taking to forging cheques. Her aunt, Mrs. William Shaw, lives at 48 Emery Street, Attlebury, Mass. In the possession of the pair was a bedroom key of the Hotel Royal, and they stated that they had just come from there yesterday.

Among the names which are alleged to have been forged by the prisoners and money collected are:—W. H. Knowlton, 152 Wellesley Street; Dr. P. E. Doolittle, 188 Sherbourne; and Dr. Winnet. Yesterday a similar attempt at forging a cheque was made at the store of Mr. J. Pettigrew, corner of Bloor and Spadina. The name being Mrs. Murray, 1,305 King Street West. However, no money was obtained here, though the young woman made her name.

The prisoners seemed to take the charges calmly.
