January 11th, 1933.

Dear Uncle Willie,

Thank you very much for your Christmas present, it certainly will fill up my bank account. Thank you very much for the letter and telegram that you sent me while I was in the hospital.

I got out of the hospital last Friday. Mother and Dad came over to the hospital and took me home in the car. Yesterday I put my clothes on for the first time. I can walk around a little and can only walk up stairs one step at a time. Peach is back at school but Jess has been in bed a week with the flu. It is very mild up here but it is turning colder. The road is sheet ice and the cars are sliding all over the place.

I must close now as I have quite a few letters to write.

Your loving nephew,

Harry Sr.
