PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS

Over sixty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. Redick Acker on Friday evening, to bid their farewell before their departure from our midst. The address was read by Mr. Walter Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Acker:—

As we are gathered here tonight, a feeling of sadness underlies this mask of gaiety, for we are about to bid you good-bye. In the past years during which we have shared our mutual joys and sorrows, a deep attachment has grown, and now that distance is to come between us, we realize indeed a great loss to our community.

But destiny leads us to our respective places here on earth, and no matter where we may be, if we take Him at his word with simple faith, our lives will all be sunshine, for He is everywhere. As for earthly friends we are sure your numerous worthy qualities will win you many true ones in your new home, but we hope you will merely add them to the ones you have left behind; and we will try to remember that our loss is gain to them.

We are glad to know that the distance between us is not to be great, but that the deep regard of the people of this community may be ever before you, we present to you these chairs, assuring you that our best wishes for health and prosperity accompany them.

We hope that in the years to come you may spend in them many hours of comfort and happiness, and may be ever reminded of us, your friends.

Signed, on behalf of the community,

Walter Scott
Walter Ketcheson.
Although taken by surprise, Mr. and Mrs. Acker made a very suitable reply, inviting us all to visit them in their new home.

TRIBUTE OF ESTEEM FROM SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The following address and presentation was made to Misses Addie and Florence Acker, by the Sunshine Class of Scott's Sunday School, previous to their departure from the community.

Dear Addie and Florence:—

We, the members of the Sunshine Class, knowing that you are about to leave us, have gathered here tonight to express our deep regret at your departure.

You have always been live members of our class, ever being ready to forward its principles, not only in our class, but also in our League, the church, and in our social life. Your sunny dispositions have won the admiration and respect of all our hearts.

As a class then, we are here to spend a social evening with you before you go; but simple words coming from true hearts cannot express to you how we will miss you when you are gone. Yet we trust that our loss will be of greater benefit to others.

We hope that when you are treading other paths, that you will remember our class, and will think pleasantly of the old place where you spent the early years of your lives.

In view of this, we ask you to accept with this address, these gifts as a slight token of our love and esteem which we bear for you.

We wish you all true happiness in your new home, and hope you will often come back to see your friends of the sixth concession.

Signed on behalf of the class,

Eva Sine
Alma Fox.
