

A Crippled Shadow.

THE REMARKABLE STATEMENT OF JAS. DAVIS, OF VICTORIA.

Stricken With Rheumatism He Wasted to a Pain Stricken Shadow—Doctors and Medical Treatment Failed to Help Him—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Health and Strength.

Proof upon proof accumulates that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the greatest medical discovery of the 19th century, and the following story told in the grateful patient's own words again substantiates the claim that they cure when other medicines fail.

"Knowing that I am a living monument of the wonderful curing properties of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I deem it my duty as a grateful man to give my testimony for the aid of such as are afflicted as I was. I am a resident of the village of Victoria, Ont., and have lived in the town or neighborhood all my life and am therefore well known and what I say can be easily proved.

Three years ago I was stricken with and partially paralyzed by rheumatism, and after being under the care of two physicians I was given up to die. I wanted to die a human skeleton; nothing more than a crippled shadow. I lost the use of my limbs entirely and food was given me by a spoon. Life was not worth living and such an existence was indeed miserable. Then I availed the end to come, and of a human resort I was persuaded by my friends to try a medical treatment in the General Hospital in Toronto, and after spending several weeks there came home disheartened and even worse than before. While writing in the pages of pain, discouraged and ready to die, I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and of the marvelous cures they effected. While doubting that they would cure me I was prevailed upon to take them. The effect was marvelous. For two long years I had not enjoyed a single night's rest and I then slept a sweet sleep which seemed like heaven to me. I revived, could eat and gradually grew stronger and as I gained strength my hope of living increased. I have taken forty-one boxes, which may seem a large quantity to some, but I remember I had taken many times their value in other medicines and had been declared incurable by doctors. The result is I am now able to undergo hard physical exercise. All my large circle of friends and acquaintances welcomed me back in their midst and life seems real again. The fact is beyond all question that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is a fast and only medicine proved successful in reaching the germ of my disease and saved me from a life of misery and pain. Again I say as a grateful man that I cannot too strongly recommend this remarkable medicine to all fellow beings who are afflicted with this terrible malady.

A Pilgrim to the Last.

So we review to-day the fair history of a woman's choice. We see how she was loved by her sisters, how the highest were glad to honor her, how multiplied thousands here and in England have hung spell-bound on her words; but only few have any idea of the price she paid in nerve exhaustion, in indefatigable and remorseless activities for her place of power and grandeur. It has been said she fell a martyr to her work. There is something in the place of her death that speaks eloquently and pathetically of the suffering character of her life. A great bishop used to say that he hoped he might die in an inn as it would accentuate the fact that we are but strangers and sojourners here. And singular, yet true, he stopped one night at a tavern bearing the sign of the "Dove," and there breathed his last. So our friend closed her eyes in a hotel. As footstep and weary with journeyings up and down the world she rested there, the messenger from Christ found her with the salutation "Hail! Frances, blessed among women, thy pilgrimage is over." That hotel in the pulsing heart of a city, amid the rush and roar of humanity, becomes to us a symbol of the toilsome, anxious, fatiguing business to which this woman gave herself that she might in some way contribute towards the social redemption of mankind.

A Bitter Bondage.

There is no other bondage so abject and bitter and humiliating as that in which a man is held captive by some evil habit. There is hardly any other form of evil habit which rivets its fetters with such relentless grip as the habit of intemperance. The fetters are in the soul. The seemingly helpless victims do what they condemn. Their best impulses are subject to their worst. Their efforts for deliverance end in desperation. Their hopes break in despair. Their struggles for freedom are like the vain efforts of some bird that beats its wings against the bars of its cage, and falls bruised and bleeding. Who can measure the struggle, the humiliation, the suffering through which a man must have passed, before he would publish such a notice as the following, which recently appeared in the columns of a daily paper? "I hereby acknowledge myself a habitual drunkard, and warn every man connected with the liquor trade that he violates his oath by selling, giving, or allowing me drink."

EASY? YES, VERY EASY!

Any Inexperienced Person Can Dye Successfully With Diamond Dyes.

There are no mysteries about the use and handling of Diamond Dyes. The directions given on each package are so concise and simple that the dyeing of a dress, costume, blouse, jacket or suit of clothes is made easy and pleasant work. We are aware of the fact that some ladies are badly disappointed in a trial of dyeing goods. The reason is obvious; they unfortunately have used some make of worthless dyes fastened on them by some unscrupulous dealer.

A child that can read can dye any article successfully with Diamond Dyes. These world-famous dyes are put up by experienced chemists, which accounts for their uniformity in quality, strength and brilliancy. When you buy Diamond Dyes you get the world's best dye.

"There," said the dejected complacency "I have made one man perfectly happy."

"Who is he?"

"The free silver advocate who was just here. He won't get up his theories, so in order to please him I fix a him up with 10 silver fillings and one of gold."

"Ella, you have been playing all afternoon with those toy soldiers. That is not proper for a big girl like you," said her mother.

"But, mamma, I am not playing with the soldiers. I picked out the officers and played with them."

"Me Gibbs—Your wife is such a sympathetic woman, Mr. Tibb! It takes very little to move her."

"Mr. Tibb—You're right, madam. Seven times in four years, and she's looking for a new house now."

A few selections from Dr. Lorimer's "Debts to Miss Willard" is a sermon delivered in Tremont Temple, Feb. 27, published in the Chicago Standard.

"Frances Willard belonged to the East by her birth, to the West by her education, to the world by her work, and to God by her faith. It has been reported that she was worth about $10,000 when she died. The computation is, arithmetical not moral. Mr. Vanderbilts' cook receives $10,000 per annum; an actress carries away from our shores some $50,000 for presenting demagogic dramas through a succession of weeks; a pugilist receives almost as much for a single exhibition of his cruel prowess. And a paltry $10,000 are all that Miss Willard could show for what Dean Butler would have called a life of "prayer, faith and grief."

A Dyspeptic?

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE IS THE RAINBOW OF PROMISE.

Enthralled—wary—gloomy. No one can adequately describe the abject misery of the sufferer from Dyspepsia and Indigestion. South American Nervine is the greatest discovery in medical science for the cure of all chronic stomach troubles. It acts directly through the nerves—the seat of all disease. Thousands testify of cures made. Relief from the first dose.

"I was a great sufferer from stomach and nerve troubles. Tried a score of remedies. No relief. Half a bottle of South American Nervine worked wonders. Six bottles made a new man of me."—W. H. Sherman, Morrisburg, Ont.
