Mr. Ernest Hutchison gave a dinner to a few of his friends at the Hotel Miramichi on October 6th. A very elaborate menu was gotten up in the Miramichi grand style, and the catering was all that could be desired from a first class hotel, which speaks well for the popular proprietor, Mr. James P. Whalen.

McMurdo has boys' SWEATERS blue necks all wool from $1.00.

INVESTIGATION 21ST. INSTANT.

The date for the investigation into Arthur Robinson's hunting record is set for the twenty-first instant, after considerable trouble as the men behind Braithwaite wanted it put off until after the elections. Arthur Robinson however, insists on establishing his innocence as speedily as possible and for that reason wishes the matter disposed of. The case arose out of rumors and reports set in motion by Braithwaite and taken up by a government member. To dispose of these malicious statements Mr. Robinson demanded an investigation. A large number of witnesses have been subpoenaed. Investigation here.

We will continue for a short time giving a discount of 10% off all leather goods.

ARE CHURCH-GOERS THE ONLY SUFFERERS.

Mr. A. Wylie Mahon, of St. Andrews N. B., contributes a clever article to the September Canadian Magazine on "The Souls of Anecdotes," in which the following occurs:

"I know a clergyman, who in a dream, found himself in a strange land, where every worn and wasted form had a laughable suggestion about it of better days, where every tearful voice had a faint, far-off echo of mirth and merriment, and every groan was the ghost of a laugh. Some of these strange forms cast reproachful looks of blame at the dreamer. At length, he discovered that he was in a weird ghostland of anecdote and that the weary, wasted ones who looked blame upon him were the ghosts of the stories he had worn the life out of by telling them so often in his sermons."

SPONGE CANDY.—Put together in a saucepan two cups of granulated sugar, one cup, New Orleans molasses, a half-cup of water, a tablespoonful of vinegar, and a small bit of butter. Boil until a little dropped in cold water is brittle, then take from the fire, stir in a spoonful of baking soda and while foaming, turn into greased dishes to cool. Do not pull.

Warren Loggie, of Chatham, has been awarded the county scholarship for Northumberland, at the University of New Brunswick.

Did it ever occur to you that McMurdo has the largest stock and sells more clothing than any one else in town? It's a fact. Investigate for yourself.

Mr. Frank McGregor, who has been working in Newcastle for the past year, has opened up a blacksmith shop at Renous River.

In the Methodist church, Sunday, a male quartette, composed of Messrs. McMurdo, Steeves, Henderson and Rice, was one of the pleasing features of the service.

TESTED RECIPES.

CRACKER PUDDING.—Three cupsful sweet milk, one egg, two cupsful rolled crackers. Boil the milk, stir in the crackers. Beat the egg and stir in, after taking the pudding from the stove. Serve with some vanilla sauce. This pudding may be prepared while unexpected guests are at the table.

GREEN APPLE FLOAT.—Just now green apples stew deliciously. Do not add sugar until the apples are soft, put in a glass dish and pour over a custard made of a pint of milk and the yolks of three eggs. Sugar to taste. Pile the beaten whites on top and serve cold.

YELLOW TOMATO PRESERVES.—One half cup of raisins added to yellow tomato preserves, before taking them off the stove, improves its taste wonderfully. Many people who do not like tomato preserves plain say they are delicious with raisins.

PLAN TO TALK TO A DEAD MAN.

Ghost Club of London Has a Pact With the Late Mr. Collins, One of its Doubters.

LONDON, Friday.—Believing that it is possible to communicate with the dead, and encouraged by the recent announcement of the result of tests made by members of the Physical Research Society, another body of occultists, known as the Ghost Club, is going to try to get into communication with the late Professor Collins, who was a member of the club, and had been, at the time of his death, in a compact with a score of his fellow members to try to visit the survivors after death.

Mr. Collins did not share the confidence of Sir Oliver Lodge and other members of the Physical Research Society in the possibility of the dead communicating with the living. Indeed he was frankly skeptical on the subject. Nevertheless he was deeply and reverently interested in the idea and was very willing to attempt communication if after death he found himself consciously existent. The members of the club who will make the test are gravely in earnest. They propose to use certain passages in Mr. Collins' diary as tests of messages from him. These passages are unknown to anybody except intimate friends of the Collins family and the experimenters say they will be able to tell immediately whether the medium whom they will employ has actually established communication. If they are convinced the medium has done so they will try to obtain more particulars from Mr. Collins regarding death than are now known.

Arrangements are now being made for a meeting of select members of the club to carry out the test. The members include some well known persons. The frost is once more in the pumpkin and corn is in the shock. Recipe for the real old-fashioned pumpkin pie: Put only one p in the pumpkin.
