Fatal Accident. This morning Mr John Moore received the following despatch: HARTFORD STATION.

George Drought was killed last night. The funeral takes place to-day at 4 o'clock.

The particulars of the case are these. Some time ago a ferry wire was put across the St. John River at Hartness...

It proved unsuitable, and it was necessary to take it down. Several men undertook to do this...

Among them were George and John a section man on the N. B. Railway, H. Shaw and Spurgeon Nevers...

The wire had been tightened by means of a winch, and slackening it, the winch was reversed...

The sudden release of the stays took the wires out of hand, and turning with the rapidity of lightning, a handle struck the former of the three on the skull crushing it instantly...

The two latter were also injured.

Mr Kenny's Visit to Restigouche.

Our correspondent writes under date of the 21st: INTERVIEWED BY A "STAR" REPORTER.

T. F. Kenny, Esq., M. P. P. for Restigouche, arrived here yesterday on his way for Andover. As our readers are aware, Mr Kenny last fall purchased an excellent property from Beveridge & Sons...

He has been accused of "deserting his country bodily," and incurring censure at the hands of the electorate of Restigouche next election for his vote on the seat of Government question...

Mr Kenny treated all this slander with the contempt it deserved. We are glad of this, for it would have made John Livingstone so important that people couldn't get along with him in this country...

Mr Kenny stood up in the House and called public attention to him. Mr Kenny has visited his constituents...

He did not pay them a mere flying visit like Senator O'Dell pays us, but he travelled all over the county...

A Star Reporter had the following interview with Mr Kenny: "What kind of reception did you get at the hands of your constituents?"

"I could not wish a better reception. I met with hearty salutations on every hand; heard no grumbling, a rather uncommon blessing for a politician; and not a man found fault by manner or word with my general course last fall...

"Do you think your removal to Andover, so far, has tended to you unpopularly, or do you think your vote on the Parliament Building question would have had that effect?"

"I do not think that my appearance and my reception, I should say, No. 'Tis true my removal if having any effect it would have such as you speak of; but as to the Parliament Building question, I do not think ten per cent. of the electorate of my county cared three straws where the buildings went up. They had confidence, I think I can say without egotism, in my ability to do that which would not be injurious to the interests of my county."

"How much of the county did you visit?"

"The whole of it. At River Charlow I met the Chief Commissioner and the Surveyor General. They accompanied me to Eel River Bar; which they with me examined. I had asked for an appropriation here, for the preservation of the great road. The matter will be promptly attended to. O Yes, Mr. O'Connell, I visited the Glenview settlement; went as far as Upsalquitch, returning to Jacquet River. We then made a call on Mitchell, a very thriving settlement under the Free Grants Act. The land is of a superior quality, and indeed the same may be said of the settlers."

"I may say with regard to the Chief Commissioner and the Surveyor General both are deservedly popular through my county. They give attention to the offices, and both are practical."

"How are the people on the School Law?"

"They are next to 'up in arms' against it. This never ending regulations, and changes, and branches and grafts to the system, are becoming obnoxious to them. They are generally agreed that the two bottom principles should stand, viz, The Free, Non-Sectarian feature, and the support by Direct Taxation. From this upwards the branches are bowing down the trunk of the system, each year sees some new fangled notion; some new phase of Botany, Vocal Music or Physics. This, while well enough for the rich of cities, is a nice dish to give those in poor districts who want the three R's for their children, and who have to take them from school as soon as they are able to be of any service on the farm."

"Had the Sun's article any effect against you in Restigouche?"

"Not a word for whom the devil reviles in just people revere."

"What do you think of John Livingstone, anyway?"

"Just as you think of him—not very much. However, I can't be bothered talking about him. Is there anything else you have to ask me?"

"Mr Livingstone is the lowest on my list."

Newcastle Items.

[From our own Correspondent.] OUR STREET COMMISSIONER.—This person might spare the town some attention. William, go to work at once, and give us some proof of your engineering skill.

OUR PUBLIC SQUARE.—This piece of property is yet closed against the public. A new fence has been promised by an old citizen.

NEW BUILDINGS.—Stevie Mitchell has completed his new store and liquor saloon, and is a great convenience to parties at night.

MURPHY'S NEW SHOE STORE is at a standstill.

THE GOVERNOR.—This person is more than puzzled. His vein of curiosity cannot be satisfied. Call enjoyed my reference to him about his dancing at the end of the marriage. Governor, don't talk so loud as to who "Bark" is, I heard you!

OUR ROUGHS.—We can beat any city, town or village for young roughs. On Saturday night last I witnessed more drunkenness than you would see in St. John city in a week. Their language is disgraceful, shocking and blasphemous. If our policemen would lodge a dozen or so of complaints and our magistrates enforce the law by fine and imprisonment, blackguardism would be stamped out.

"Andy" Johnson says "Johnny Burche" must run for the next Local. Now let "Johnny Burche" ask "Andy" to run, and then they will be square.

Griffin as usual kept Scotch Fray—so did Morrison and some other. Next week I'll give you some fun in my hunting up.

There was a "cleans" to-day in our Police Court. Birky looked very dignified, though he prepared very freely. He called it a case of "degradation."

Hon P Mitchell and the Surveyor General have been on a canvassing tour through the lower end of the county. Both are so unpopular, it will require very many such trips to bring them into favor. I suppose the expenses will be included in the item of "travelling expenses" and charged to our Local Government. Will some one of our Local members bear this in mind and call for a detailed statement next winter.

Grand Falls News.

Our correspondent writes under date of the 21st: "Yesterday morning several of our villagers had gathered at the railroad station to witness the arrival of the distinguished party expected. At a few minutes before 9 a. m. the train glided in, having on board, among others, Lord Elphinstone, H. D. Northcote, and H. and G. Carter, London, Esq., and E. R. Burpee, Esq. They had been making an inspection of the road on the way up, and they, from either side, saw the sights. In the morning they went to Edmundston, returning here in the evening. The scenery of the falls caught the attention, and the boarding houses here are dressed in bunting, to honor a real 'live Lord.' It is thought that the party will be reached between the new and old New Brunswick Companies. It was only natural to think that the party would not buy a pig in a poke, and they have seen the road before purchasing. Their delay has saved a few thousands to them: I mean, less than they could have sustained by the fire at Caribou."

STAR BRIEFS.

"Lizzie," "Joe" and "Buffalo Bill" will have attention; depend upon it.

Provincial News.

PRINCE LEOPOLD.—In consequence of a slight injury to the neck which they received on Saturday, Prince Leopold has been obliged to cancel all his Newport engagements. It is reported that he will sail from New York on the 23rd inst.

A STRANGE STORY is related by the French papers of Quebec. Two brothers named Trotter, of Grandville, had lately returned from California, where they met with ill success, to resume farming in their native parish where they had a poisonous snake named Llanuca. A detective of this city has been sent to convey them to Beaufort.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.—There is a great deal of excitement at St. John's Cove over what is believed by many to be a mysterious affair. The death of a little child of Richard Welsh of that place, from eating a poisonous substance, has been reported. On the sheet and pillowslips on which the dead child lay a variety of figures and words were found imprinted, many of them appearing to be utterances of the dead child. The affair has created great interest throughout the county, and hundreds of people have since visited the house, and seen the figures.

An Alliance.

LONDON, July 21. The British Consul at Jerusalem reports that the condition of Palestine is distressing in the extreme. He says that at no former period of his sixteen years' residence in Palestine has the condition of the country been so deplorable as at present. The ill results are traced to the influence of the drain of able-bodied men for the late Turkish war, to scanty harvests, and the ruinous losses inflicted on the non-payment of interest on Turkish Government securities.

A Paris despatch states that negotiations are in progress between Prince Jerome Napoleon and M. Gambetta to effect an alliance between M. Gambetta's party and the non-payment of interest on the Radical element in the Assembly and throughout the Republic, represented by M. Rochefort. M. Gambetta and Prince Jerome have long been in secret for very friendly terms.

TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Twenty-Two Lives Lost. JERSEY CITY, July 21. This morning a caisson surrounding a deep well leading to the entrance of the Hudson River tunnel, foot of Sixty-third street, in this city, caved in, carrying down an immense quantity of earth. The water from the river flowed in rapidly, and a steam fire engine set to work to, if possible, save those who might be alive from drowning.

A Curious Fact.

A curious fact in psychology, says the Pall Mall Gazette, is the facility with which men take oaths that they have not the remotest intention of keeping. Not long ago Oxford students, before matriculation had to swear to conform to the statutes of the University. Among them was one which absolutely prohibited the use of the herb nicotine or tobacco. The other oaths joined on undergraduates that they should always be appraised in garments of a dark or "sub-fine" hue. In the solemn oath which is administered to Knights of the Garter, they are reminded that "this garter is never to be forgotten or laid aside." Even the original knights must all of them have repeatedly broken the vow. There are, however, some remarkable instances of sensitiveness on the subject of obligation which the generally of honorable men regard as of no force whatever. All Souls' College, at Oxford, was founded by Archbishop Chichele that the fellows of the same might pray for the repose of the soul of a certain fellow; and not long since there was a court who regularly paid for certain masses at the little Catholic chapel. A Protestant himself, he could not comply with the letter of the obligation imposed upon him; but he fulfilled its spirit.

At the Queen's Ball.

The Duchess of Marlborough was in black satin, with jets and hanging ornaments; Mr Wheeler wore white satin, trimmed with white roses; Lady Tweedale brocaded cream satin; the Duchess of Westminster black satin trimmed with tulle and garlands of white flowers; Mrs. Cornwallis West, mauve satin trimmed with tulle and heartsease. A magnificent blonde wore white satin, the front almost covered with pearls. Her hair was wreathed with pearls, and a deep fringe of the same surrounded the top of her bonnet. Most of the black dresses were profusely trimmed with jet. A lovely girl wore a satin dress of a creamy tint, trimmed with roses and opals. Many gray dresses had with steel beads. Great quantities of lace were worn, and there is certainly nothing more becoming when well arranged. Owing to the Court mourning there was not much scope for invention or splendor in the matter of dress. White, gray, mauve, heliotrope and violet were the only colors worn in addition to black, and the principal relief to these neutral tints was in the form of pearls, flowers, and jewels. Suspicion of powder was visible on the hair of more than one lady present. In one case the black velvet high collar was sprinkled with gold that had fallen from the hair. It was noticeable that the dresses were much larger at this ball than has been usual during the present and past seasons. Also a much nearer arrangement of the hair prevailed, a rumor having gained currency that the Princess viewed with much disfavor the opposite extremes into which society had fallen of late. Many ladies wore pockets made of natural flowers,
