

GEN. GRANT'S FUNERAL

solemn and imposing demonstration in New York.

New York, Aug. 8, 8 a.m.—Nature is putting forth signals of an intensely warm day. The crowds are dense.

At 8.50 General Hancock and staff trooped slowly into the platform Broadway. At this time a hundred numbers of the Liederkreis society filed up the steps of the city hall and sang with impressive effect the chorus of "The Spirit From Over the Water," by Schubert, and the chorus of "The Pilgrims," by Tannhauser.

At 9.35 the imposing funeral car, drawn by 24 jet black horses in black trappings, halted in the plaza in front of the city hall steps.

At 9.52 Mayor Grace, Comptroller Low, and Aldermen Sanger and Jachire emerged from the city building and entered the carriage.

At 12.30 p.m.—The head of the procession is just entering Riverside drive. All night long carpenters with saw and hammer were busy in Broadway, and when day dawned it revealed the presence of hastily erected viewing stands.

At nine o'clock Broadway presented an animated spectacle. As far as the eye could reach the sidewalks were thronged with people.

At nine o'clock Broadway presented an animated spectacle. As far as the eye could reach the sidewalks were thronged with people.

At 8.30 Col. Hodce proceeded to the Fifth avenue hotel and summoned the palbearers to their carriages.

The Grant family were quietly gathered in their parlors overlooking the square. It was announced that Mrs. Grant would not attend the funeral, and had concluded to stay at Mount McGregor.

The party gathered at the hotel ready to take carriages for their position in the parade were Col. and Mrs. Fred. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Grant, jr., Mrs. Jesse Grant, Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Dent, Miss Craner, Gen. Cresswell, Stephen L. Morratt, Senor Remero and W. J. Arkell.

New York, Aug. 8, 12.40 p.m.—The head of the procession has just reached the tomb in Riverside park.

2 p.m.—Following the Grant family in carriages were Mrs. Rawlins Holm, daughter of General Grant's friend and first secretary of war, the generals of his old staff, his ex-cabinet officers, J. W. Drexel and members of the Aztec club, survivors of the Mexican war; the president's carriage, vice-president's and cabinet members of the supreme court, United States senators, house congressional committee, Governor Hill and suite, the committee of state legislature, ex-presidents Arthur and Hayes and members of their cabinets, foreign ministers, diplomatic colonial officers under Grant's administration, the governors of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Indiana, Illinois, Maine, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, West Virginia, Colorado, and Dakota, with their staffs.

2.53 p.m.—The catafalque is just entering Riverside park. The distance to the tomb is two and a half miles.

The catafalque passed 23rd street at one o'clock. All heads uncovered as it moved along. The congressional committee and other officials from Washington were distinguished by broad white sashes. Governor Hill was the only governor who was attended by a mounted staff.

When the cortege entered the boulevard the majority of the spectators gazed in astonishment at the irregular lines, and apparently awkward positions of the troops, for in obedience to orders upon entering what might be called the second stage of the funeral route the troops moved along freely with the semblance of order.

At the column approached the tomb the dull reverberations of the guns from the men of war could be heard, and the troops broke into columns from the left, marching to right and east of the road.

After forming a line, arms were presented and the catafalque slowly passed. After the cortege reached the tomb, and the military and veteran organizations had gathered round, Commander-in-chief Burdett, of the U. S. R., conducted the burial services, peculiar to the order. The Sangerband then sang a hymn, Dr. Newman recited the burial ritual of the Methodist church, the benediction was pronounced and the body of the illustrious hero was consigned to the tomb.

Dr. Maekid, of Seaford, has been appointed medical examiner for the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association of that town.

John Williams, of main street, north of Seaford, has the largest sawmill in town to measure 12 feet in height.

B. Gerry, Brussels, has a horned toad, from Southern California, on exhibition in his store window. It is quite a curiosity.

Two hundred and one tubs of butter, purchased from Blyth merchants, were shipped to Montreal on Wednesday.

Mrs. White, wife of John White, proprietor of the Exeter Times, left on Tuesday for a visit to friends in New York and Philadelphia.

A lamp exploded in the sitting room of Dennis's hotel, Seaford, on Saturday evening last, setting the carpet and furnishings of the room in a blaze.

A sidewalk consisting of 82,239 pieces was on exhibition at the Commercial hotel, Blyth, for a few days this week. The man who made it must have wanted a job badly.

A man with a wagon load of parrots, canaries, cock-a-toos, white mice, etc., for sale, attracted considerable attention in the other end of John Spackman and Mr. Fish each bought a cock-a-too.

It now turns out that James Whittin, formerly of Brussels, was one of the teamsters captured by Poundmaker during the recent rebellion in the Northwest.

On Saturday last Mr. James Wilson, while working at a shingle machine in the saw mill at the 12th cove, of Ashfield, had two fingers of his left hand taken off.

The rate of assessment for the town of Wingham for this year has been fixed at two cents on the dollar. What will it be next year if a bonus is granted to bring in the C. P. R.

Rev. E. J. Robinson, lately incumbent of Christ Church, Exeter, sailed on the 7th inst. for Great Britain, where he will remain for at least six months. His country, climate, &c., suits him, he may never come back, unless on a visit.

Dr. L. H. Hopper, of Exeter, has succeeded in obtaining the degree of L. R. C. S. at the Edinburgh college. He leaves London, England, in a few days for Vienna, where he will take a three months' course in the hospital.

Last Tuesday evening Thos. Hall, of the Revere House, Brussels, lost his driving mare. She was in a field adjoining the hotel and in trying to jump a picket fence one of the pickets penetrated her body and let her struts out. The beast died 2 hours after.

Alex. Gibson, of Wroketter, who is an old and experienced man in the mill business, was in Brussels last Monday valuating the Howe woolen mill, machinery, &c., at the Edinburgh college. He is reported a certified report showing the property to be worth over $8,400. This will likely settle the question of the bonus to Mr. Howe.

The Seaford Sun has the following in reference to a former Goderich boy:—It is with pleasure we noticed the special notice in the Edinburgh college, of a friend, L. E. Daney, upon our streets yesterday, having returned from his wedding tour the previous evening. He brought with him his fair bride from the sister province of Quebec, who is an amiable and accomplished young lady—a fitting partner for our talented young friend.

The Brussels Post says:—Last week George H. Drewe, of London, was visiting in town with his relatives. He is an old soldier, having served in the Royal Horse Artillery. He was 10 years in the 1878 and 1881 under General Roberts. He was wounded at Pezwan and not only secured a medal but was granted a pension for life.

Mr. McWilliams, who is a divinity student from the Presbyterian College, Montreal, preached in the P. church, Seaford, on Sunday of last week, both morning and evening, and we understand gave a universal satisfaction. He has one year in arrears put in before he takes his B. A., and has still to put in two years in theology before he is licensed to preach. He attended both common and high school in Seaford and he certainly reflects credit on both institutions.

While the wife and two daughters of Robert Young, of Colborne, were driving into town on Thursday morning, the horse became frightened when crossing the railway track, and, running away, threw the ladies out opposite Carroll's hotel. Mrs. McConnell and one of her daughters were thrown against a telegraph post and severely injured. Mrs. McConnell received a severe bruise on the back and other injuries. Miss McConnell had her breast bone fractured and was removed to her home. The other lady escaped uninjured.

The Locknow Sentinel says:—The marriage of our popular banker, Mr. D. E. Cameron, and Miss Mary E. Whitley, second daughter of Mr. R. J. Whitley, is the chief topic with the fair sex this week. The happy event took place on Wednesday morning last in the presence of the best members of the family and a few invited friends. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Macnabb, of Lucknow, assisted by the Rev. James Carey, of Dugganong, the bridesmaid was Miss Edith Whitley, sister of the bride, and the groomsmen, Mr. Geo. A. Sidall. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents. Amid the congratulations of the friends, the happy couple left by the 10:15 train for New York and other eastern cities where they intend to spend a portion of the honeymoon. We extend to Mr. Cameron and bride our hearty congratulations.

In Goderich, on Sunday, August 9th, 1885, Mary, beloved wife of Mr. Isaac Cassaday, died at 56 years and 2 months.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

COUNTY CLIPPINGS

Head from village of Seaford on the New Exchange.

Rev. Father Shea's picnic will be held at Seaford, about the second week in September.

Dr. Maekid, of Seaford, has been appointed medical examiner for the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association of that town.

John Williams, of main street, north of Seaford, has the largest sawmill in town to measure 12 feet in height.

B. Gerry, Brussels, has a horned toad, from Southern California, on exhibition in his store window. It is quite a curiosity.

Two hundred and one tubs of butter, purchased from Blyth merchants, were shipped to Montreal on Wednesday.

Mrs. White, wife of John White, proprietor of the Exeter Times, left on Tuesday for a visit to friends in New York and Philadelphia.

A lamp exploded in the sitting room of Dennis's hotel, Seaford, on Saturday evening last, setting the carpet and furnishings of the room in a blaze.

A sidewalk consisting of 82,239 pieces was on exhibition at the Commercial hotel, Blyth, for a few days this week. The man who made it must have wanted a job badly.

A man with a wagon load of parrots, canaries, cock-a-toos, white mice, etc., for sale, attracted considerable attention in the other end of John Spackman and Mr. Fish each bought a cock-a-too.

It now turns out that James Whittin, formerly of Brussels, was one of the teamsters captured by Poundmaker during the recent rebellion in the Northwest.

On Saturday last Mr. James Wilson, while working at a shingle machine in the saw mill at the 12th cove, of Ashfield, had two fingers of his left hand taken off.

The rate of assessment for the town of Wingham for this year has been fixed at two cents on the dollar. What will it be next year if a bonus is granted to bring in the C. P. R.

Rev. E. J. Robinson, lately incumbent of Christ Church, Exeter, sailed on the 7th inst. for Great Britain, where he will remain for at least six months. His country, climate, &c., suits him, he may never come back, unless on a visit.

Dr. L. H. Hopper, of Exeter, has succeeded in obtaining the degree of L. R. C. S. at the Edinburgh college. He leaves London, England, in a few days for Vienna, where he will take a three months' course in the hospital.

Last Tuesday evening Thos. Hall, of the Revere House, Brussels, lost his driving mare. She was in a field adjoining the hotel and in trying to jump a picket fence one of the pickets penetrated her body and let her struts out. The beast died 2 hours after.

Alex. Gibson, of Wroketter, who is an old and experienced man in the mill business, was in Brussels last Monday valuating the Howe woolen mill, machinery, &c., at the Edinburgh college. He is reported a certified report showing the property to be worth over $8,400. This will likely settle the question of the bonus to Mr. Howe.

The Seaford Sun has the following in reference to a former Goderich boy:—It is with pleasure we noticed the special notice in the Edinburgh college, of a friend, L. E. Daney, upon our streets yesterday, having returned from his wedding tour the previous evening. He brought with him his fair bride from the sister province of Quebec, who is an amiable and accomplished young lady—a fitting partner for our talented young friend.

The Brussels Post says:—Last week George H. Drewe, of London, was visiting in town with his relatives. He is an old soldier, having served in the Royal Horse Artillery. He was 10 years in the 1878 and 1881 under General Roberts. He was wounded at Pezwan and not only secured a medal but was granted a pension for life.

Mr. McWilliams, who is a divinity student from the Presbyterian College, Montreal, preached in the P. church, Seaford, on Sunday of last week, both morning and evening, and we understand gave a universal satisfaction. He has one year in arrears put in before he takes his B. A., and has still to put in two years in theology before he is licensed to preach. He attended both common and high school in Seaford and he certainly reflects credit on both institutions.

While the wife and two daughters of Robert Young, of Colborne, were driving into town on Thursday morning, the horse became frightened when crossing the railway track, and, running away, threw the ladies out opposite Carroll's hotel. Mrs. McConnell and one of her daughters were thrown against a telegraph post and severely injured. Mrs. McConnell received a severe bruise on the back and other injuries. Miss McConnell had her breast bone fractured and was removed to her home. The other lady escaped uninjured.

The Locknow Sentinel says:—The marriage of our popular banker, Mr. D. E. Cameron, and Miss Mary E. Whitley, second daughter of Mr. R. J. Whitley, is the chief topic with the fair sex this week. The happy event took place on Wednesday morning last in the presence of the best members of the family and a few invited friends. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Macnabb, of Lucknow, assisted by the Rev. James Carey, of Dugganong, the bridesmaid was Miss Edith Whitley, sister of the bride, and the groomsmen, Mr. Geo. A. Sidall. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents. Amid the congratulations of the friends, the happy couple left by the 10:15 train for New York and other eastern cities where they intend to spend a portion of the honeymoon. We extend to Mr. Cameron and bride our hearty congratulations.

In Goderich, on Sunday, August 9th, 1885, Mary, beloved wife of Mr. Isaac Cassaday, died at 56 years and 2 months.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

and hope their married life will be an unbroken one of domestic bliss.

The Kincardine Standard has the following reference to Huron men in an article on the big mill recently fitted up in that town:—In the spring Mayor Baird, who had been operating the Queen street flouring mill, finding that he had not as much time to devote to that branch of his business as he would desire, took into partnership Mr. Jas. Thompson, of Bayfield, the latter of whom being a practical miller, agreed to take full oversight of the business.

The first move of the new firm was to enter into a contract with Runciman Bros., of Goderich, for the changing of the mill from a stone to a patent process mill. This has just been completed, and the mill, as completed, has a capacity of 100 bbls. per day. Its situation is central, its size ample and being the only mill of the kind within twenty five or thirty miles its success is assured. No expense has been spared in securing the best machinery in every department, and over $5000 have been spent on improvements, which soon will be largely increased by the building of a new dam. A run through the mill from basement to attic reveals the fact that a roller mill is entirely different from the old style roller mill with which nearly every person is so familiar.

The mill has been rebuilt under the direction of J. B. Runciman, of Goderich, who has had an extensive experience in superintending the erection of many of the best mills in the Western States and on the Pacific Slope. The work on the bolting machinery has been all done by Mr. Robt. Armstrong, of Brussels.

Berry pickers are busy here every day. There will soon be almost as many pickers as berries.

There will be to service here on Sunday morning, owing to the sacramental services at Kiburton.

The farmers are busily engaged at the fall wheat in this vicinity.

Dunlop. Mrs. Zing, of Zurich, visited friends here last week.

Miss Maggie Flaxenburgh, who has been a resident here for the past eight months, returned to Zurich last Saturday.

Last Sunday, when driving to church Martin Wright's horse got out of control, breaking a line, which made Billy unmanageable and gave him a strong desire to make a dash through the store windows, but he was checked by the post office verandah, which stopped the rig. C. S. at the Edinburgh college. He leaves London, England, in a few days for Vienna, where he will take a three months' course in the hospital.

Improvements.—J. H. Barker had a batch of a "Shooflies," of Garbraid, putting up a large addition to his stable, and A. C. McDonald is repairing the roof of his residence. On the Lunderson farm a new barn was put up by our architect last week.

A bad fall from a swing was met with by Susan McAlister at the Point Farm, last Monday night. She, with a number of other girls, was swinging, when she fell. She was carried into the hotel, and in the morning removed to her home here. Her parents are very anxious for medical aid, and they have ever since been unable to get her to learn the injuries sustained are very serious.

The New Model. Last week, Mr. Lewis Smith, of Brockville, who brought the first Hall Threshing machine from Rochester, in 1839, paid his annual visit to the Joseph Hall Machine Works here. A few days after Mr. E. W. Sheldon, of Chantry, who imported a Hall Machine in 1840, was in town on the same mission. Both of these gentlemen continued to deal with the late Mr. Hall, at Rochester, until he opened a branch here, in 1858, and they have ever since represented the Joseph Hall Machine Works in their respective localities. Mr. Jonathan York, of St. Thomas, who also brought a Hall Thresher in 1840, is expected here soon. While these gentlemen have been constant and active advocates for the Hall Machine, and have used more than three machines themselves than any three men living in Canada, they all unite in declaring that the New Model is very greatly in advance of it, in fact, as a perfect grain saver, thrasher and cleaner, completely distances all other grain threshing machines. After nearly half a century of practical experience they should be able to form a correct opinion.—(Ontario Reformer, July 24th.)

Good Advice to Stagny Girls. If young ladies who, through association with young men whose limited education and poverty of ideas compel the use of slang in lieu of correct expressions comprehend the meaning of many of the terms thus put into their innocent mouths they would be shocked at the vulgarity of their companions. Almost without exception words and phrases popularly denominated "slang" are drawn from the slums; they are the inventions of the most depraved element of human society, and should be avoided by all persons with any pretensions to refinement and gentility.

Kingston has no morgue, and the nude body of the girl Elizabeth Hawley was left in the water at the wharf for five hours, with crowds of juveniles gazing at it. The medical officer will insist on a morgue being built.

DIED. In Goderich, on Sunday, August 9th, 1885, Mary, beloved wife of Mr. Isaac Cassaday, died at 56 years and 2 months.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Obituary.—We have this week to chronicle the demise of an old pioneer, Robert Young, of Colborne, which occurred at the old homestead on Saturday, July 11th, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. Deceased was born at Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland in March, 1797, and was consequently in his eighty-fifth year. He left his native land in 1815, and came to the maritime provinces, where he travelled for about seven years, after which he returned to Scotland, where he lived for some years. In 1829, he married Agnes Young, of Renfrew, and again emigrated to Canada in 1835, settling in the Huron tract. During the period of rebellion he carried on the business of butcher in Goderich, and was well known to many of our old-time residents. From his fifty-fifth to his sixty-fifth year he wore spectacles, but one day he lost his "glasses" and was forced to read without them, and ever after used his naked eyes for all purposes. Up to the time of his death he read without artificial aid the finest print. His mind was clear, and he conducted his financial and other business personally until about a month before his death. His funeral on July 13th, to Colborne cemetery, was largely attended. His aged partner, who is two months his junior, survives him, and he leaves besides a son, Andrew Young, of Colborne, and two daughters—Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Wawanosh, and Mrs. Mary Old, of Colborne, to mourn his loss.

Travelling Guide.

GRAND TRUNK EAST. Express. Mixed. Mixed. Goderich [Lv.] 7:50 a.m. 12:20 p.m. 3:45 p.m. Seaford [Ar.] 8:40 a.m. 3:30 p.m. 7:30 p.m.

WEST. Express. Mixed. Express. Goderich [Lv.] 8:00 a.m. 1:15 p.m. 3:45 p.m. Seaford [Ar.] 10:20 a.m. 3:45 p.m. 7:45 p.m.

Legal.

SEAGER & LEWIS, BARRISTERS, Goderich. C. SEAGER, JR. E. N. LEWIS. J. A. MORTON. 1907.

R.