TWO HURT IN M.C.R. WRECK

Believed That Someone Tampered With Switch Near Niagara Falls.

HAPPENED ON BIG GRADE

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 9.-Travelling at a rate of probably 50 miles an hour, the Michigan Central passenger train leaving this city for Niagara-on-the-Lake today, was wrecked five miles north of here, and the fireman and the engineer were serious-

That no one was killed is regarded as remarkable. The train was going down the steep grade at the brow of ed that the switch had been tampered with The engine and first coach top-pled over, and the fireman, Clarence Parker, of Magara on the Lake, was pinned under the cab and frightfully scalded. Edward Meadows, the engineer, was thrown from his cab, and severely cut and bruised.

A telephone call from the sand-pit summoned Dr. McGarry, who, with a couple of trained nurses, were dispatched to the scene of the accident in an automobile. Dr. Evan, of Queenston, was also summoned Parker was brought here to the hospital late in the afternoon, and Meadows, who also lives at Niagara-onthe-Lake, was sent to his home.

Winning a spot in the heart of London theatregoers did not appear to be a difficult task with Miss Elsa Ryan, who played the title role in "Peg o' My Heart," Hartley J. Manners' de- let." This is said to be the unchallenglightful and breezy little comedy, before an enthusiastic and large audience at the Grand Thursday night. London theatregoers are known to a great many actors and actresses as theing undemonstrative, and the kind that has to be "shown," but Miss Ryan and the excellent and well-balanced monday night "The Second in Command," and Tuesday night "Beauty of the kind in the world. Monday night "The Second in Command," and Tuesday night "Beauty of the kind in the world. company behind her did not find the and the Barge." least difficulty in reaching their ten-der spots and eliciting round after round of applause. The theme of the comedy is similar to that employed by dramatists time Rev. F. O. Nichol and Wife Honored without number, but the author has by Presbyterian Congregation. thrown together so many pretty little touches, and employed the commonplaces, speeches and mannerisms of the world today, in producing the effects wrought in human nature by a comparison of all that is fresh and honest in human nature with that Nichol, and family, who are leaving which is sophisticated and untrue, that shortly.

one would be led to believe that Mr. Nichol has been called to Amherst-time she enters to the time she leaves ther work sparkled with vivacity. She Delaware. is the personification of all that is Young nature by personal contact with the hardships experienced by the poor the hardships experienced by the poor of a large city like New York. As peg she is delightfully girlish, and yet has a certain womanly sympathy that has a certain womanly sympathy that goes deep into the hearts of her lisgoes deep listoes deep list teners, and makes them feel what a beautiful piece of humanity, a true daughter of old Ireland, reared in the proper environment, by a father who cares little for riches, but much for all that is true in life, can do and be.

Mrs. Fanny Addison Pitt, as Mrs. Chichester, aunt of Peg, was an English aristocrat and snob. She played her part well, and her conception of conventionalism was excellent.

As Alaric, Mrs. Chichester's son, and Peg's cousin, Mr. Gilbert Douglas was fine. He was the fop pure and simple, and unlike a great many who try to play that part, he did not overdo it

Miss Lillian Keller, as Ethel, Mrs. Chichester's daughter, is beautiful, and plays the part of a cold and calculating English girl to perfection. She is of excellent stature, and her gowns showed off both her beauty and form

Jerry, as he is known later in the play, was good. His lovemaking was done in just the way that seemed to be proper to the uninitiated in that phase of the game of life, and the emotional part in his lines were well handled.

Louis Broughton, as Christian Brent, the married man, who was dissatisfied with his wife, was a little off-color, but spoke his lines quite clear-

Mr. Gordon Burby, as the footman, Mr. Frank Burbeck as Montgomery points west. On their rett Hawkes, solicitor, and Miss W. M. they will reside in Bothwell.

Moore as a maid, were all good, although their parts did not call for

> The scenery, which was "quiet" and good, was the interior of an English home with a garden setting, and was used in all three acts.

Peg's Michael, a long-haired Irish terrier, was also a lively little member of the company, whose company Peg preferred at all times to that of any man in England, with the exception of one.

The play ended, as all plays of that kind do, by a promise of marriage be-tween the heroine and the hero, and one would be inclined to add to the lines of the author, that they lived happilyever after. It is a clean, wholesome and refreshing play.

"Brewster's Millions" for Three Per formances.

"Brewster's Millions" will be the at traction at the Grand tonight and twice tomorrow. Louis Nilsen will be seen in the title character of "Monty" Brewster, which he has played for upwards of 100 weeks, and the excelthe Queenston Mountain when it took upwards of 100 weeks, and the excellent cast supporting him, including lent cast supporting him, including him, including lent cast supporting him, including lent cast suppor Katherine Francis as Peggy Gray, Earl Christie, James Morey, Will Lyons, Frank Backus, Wilfred O. Nixon, Jack Murray, Tom Springer, Emily Burke, Maisie Ivis, Beulah Leighton, and a score of others.

There is nothing new to say about the play. The triumph of stagecraft is attained in the wonderful scene on shipboard, the yacht rocking in the gale when "Monty" sounds the signal of distress, thus disposing in less than a second of the $500,000 which had been worrying him for weeks.

World's "Doubling" Champion. The "doubling" champion of the American stage has been discovered o be an Englishman. The secret came out following the proud announcement HEARTS OF LONDONERS American contract. Then the Madde ghosts began to appear. One of these had to do with the dim past, when Mr. Maude, a youngster and a weak-Mr. Maude, a youngster and a weakling, came to the United States on the Manner's Charming Comedy Was at the Grand.

Ing. came to the United States on the advice of physicians, and made his way, as quickly as possible, to Denver, where the airs were sald to be of the sort best calculated to correct his indisposition. In Denver Mr. Maude met Daniel Bandmann, and soon between the panel Band came a member of that famous player's organization. His debut was made as the butler in "East Lynne," but his triumph was achieved when he succeeded, single-handed, in playing five parts in one performance of "Hamed record for "doubles." When Mr. Maude comes to the Grand on Monday, Oct. 13, he won't do any doubling. Instead, he will be seen in a repertoire of the comedies that have made the London Playhouse the most famous
