QUEBEC'S BRUTAL POLICEMEN.

QUEBEC, Dec. 29.—A report was circulated through town this morning that two policemen had been attacked by four young men and seriously injured about midnight. It now turns out that Mr. Louis A. Drolet, a member of the firm of Drolet & Polaris, extensive flour merchants, was the person who was seriously injured.

Drolet and his brother-in-law were walking along St. Louis street when they were called upon to stop, and upon turning around were set upon by three policemen. Thinking they took him for a robber Drolet raised his cane, and the three policemen closed in upon him and after laboring him still bewildered in a pool of his own blood they in a most brutal manner buried him to the police station. Drolet was summoned and placed several large stitches in his head. Drolet's back and hip are black with bruises. It is said that the police thought he was one of a party who had been out to a robbery and that he was mistaken for a robber. Drolet was taken to his home and the recorder's court with the word "honorarium" (honorarium). The affair causes great excitement.
