No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which im-pairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despo ent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength. Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, Invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

you say? "Yes, your honor, and she was fool-ish enough to think she could get it by bringing the case before you." There is more Catarrh in this section of the county than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it remedies and prears doctors pronounced it remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronouncing it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and thereto be a constitutional disease, and there-fore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. An Artist's Privations Lough, an English sculptor, had an imaginative enthusiasm so vivid that, he once said timidly to a friend, as if fearing ridicule, "I fancy myself in the Acropolis sometimes and hear a roaring noise like the tide." The sculptor's early privations were ter-rible. Says a writer: "During Lough's first year in Lon-don, when engaged on his 'Milo,' he went without meat for three months. Lough, an English sculptor, had an don, when engaged on his 'Milo,' he went without meat for three months, had only one bushel and a half of coal during the whole winter, tore up his shirts to make rags in which to keep his clay figure moist and elept beside it—when the cold would allow him to sleep—on the ground."

BOSTON HARBOR FROZE. But That Didn't Keep the Britannia From Sailing on Time.

Boston harbor froze over in January of 1844, and the advertised sailing of the Britannia, then in dock, seemed surely to be impossible. But the merchants of Boston would not have it so. They met and voted to cut a way, at their own expense, through the ice, that the steamer might sail practically on time.

The contract for cutting the neces sary channels was given to merchants engaged, like Frederick Tudor, in the export of ice, but not ice cut from the harbor. Their task was to cut within the space of three days a channel about ten miles long. For tools they had the best machinery used in cutting fresh water ice, and horsepower was employed. The ice was from six to twelve inches in thickness.

As the Advertiser of Feb. 2, 1844, de-scribed the scene: "A great many persons have been attracted to our wharfs to witness the operations and the curious spectacle of the whole harbor frozen over, and the ice has been covered by skaters, sleds and even sleighs. Tents and booths were erected upon the ice, and some parts of the harbon bore the appearance of a Russian holiday scene."

On Feb. 3 the work was done, and the Britannia, steaming slowly through the lane of open water, lined on either side by thousands of cheering specta tors, made her way to the sea.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

It Has Frequently Expelled Members Legally Qualified to Sit.

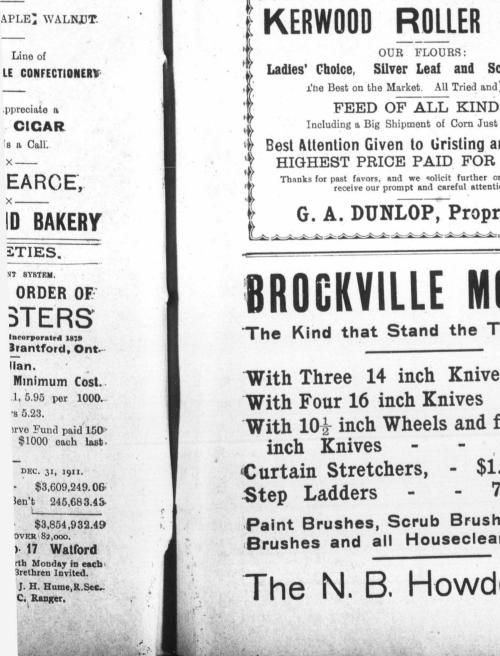

The assumption made in more than one daily journal that the house of commons cannot expel a member who is "legally" qualified to sit is not warranted by precedent, the only authority to which the commons bow, says an English writer.

In the eighteenth century the south sea bubble caused many expulsions, although the members' defense had not been heard in the law courts. One of the victims was Chancellor of the Exchequer Aislabie, credited with having bagged £250,000 from the public. In addition to expulsion, he was sent to the Tower and ordered to refund his booty. An Irish peer was expelled for directing a lottery, while for organiz-ing a "charitable association" of shady habits Sir Robert Sutton and two oth ers were shut out in 1730. Steele of the Tatler was prohibited the house for "maliciously insinuating that the Protestant succession in the house of Hanover is in danger under her majesty's administration." But perhaps the oddest reason for closing the doors of the house of commons upon a man is to be found in the case of Mr. Asgill, whose sin was that of writing a treatise "On the Possibility of Avoiding Death."-Philadelphia Ledger.

The N. B. Howden Est.

In the Philippine portion of his bool "The Memories of Two Wars" General Funston tells of a unique instance at the siege of Malabon: "Company L was firing a few volleys, and one of the men, having just discharged his piece, felt a second blow against his shoulder, it being almost as hard as the kick of the gun. Upon trying to reload it was found that the breech of the piece could not be opened, and it was laid aside to be examined by daylight, which was done in the presence of a number of us officers. Upon forcing the breech open it was found that the base of the copper shell of the cartridge that had been fired just before the weapon had been disabled had been shot away, while mixed all up in the breech mechanism we found the remains of the steel jacket and the lead filling of a Mauser bullet. There was a very pronounce dent on the muzzle of the piece. What had happened was that while the man had the gun extended in the firing no sition a bullet had gone down the muz zle. This weapon is now in the Army Ordnance museum in Washington.'

The Wettins of England. If the king of England were to renounce the throne and resolve to become an ordinary citizen he would be called George Wettin. How does the name Wettin come to be the king's surname? This is the answer:

Queen Victoria married Albert, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, of the seniot branch of the house of Saxony. The family name by which this house, dat-ing from the middle of the tenth century, came to be known afterward was Wettin, and this was and is the surname of both branches-the Ernestine and Albertine-of the house of Saxony. The name comes from the castle of race.-London Answers.

Catarrhozone is little drops of heal-ing medicine carried by air to the sore and diseased parts. You breathe them through the Catarrhozone Inhal-er and they spread throughout all the air passages.

It is sense as well as healing, be-cause Catarrhozone is a germ killer, a healer and restorer of weak tissues, because it is so prompt and certain in its results, better than any other remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is neither alcohol, morphia or cocaine—all dang-erous.
