

REVIEWS OF USEFUL LEAFLETS.

The Liquor Traffic in Western Africa.—This twelve page leaflet by Mary Clement Leavitt, gives a very direct and forcible statement of one of the deadliest wrongs ever inflicted upon a helpless people in the much-abused name of commerce. A brief account of the organization of the Congo Free State under articles which pledged nearly every nation of Europe, as well as the United States, to "watch over the preservation of the native tribes, and to care for the improvement of their moral and material well-being," is followed by a description of present conditions, certain, if permitted to continue, to defeat every noble effort in behalf of Africa. A few plain statistics show that the very governments which have expressly engaged to co-operate in the suppression of the slave trade, to guarantee liberty of conscience and religious toleration, and to protect and favor Christian missionaries and all philanthropic enterprises, are at least tacitly sanctioning a more abominable traffic even than that in slaves. When in one year Germany, the Netherlands, France, Great Britain and the United States sent 10,377,166 gallons of liquor to Africa, it is small wonder that the missionaries find their hands tied, and the natives cry despairingly that it is too late to bring the gospel when drink has first come. The facts presented in this leaflet and its suggestions as to the relations and personal responsibility of Christians toward the evils described should be in the hands of every intelligent person. Price 5c.

Women of the Lower Congo.—"Ethiopia shall stretch out her hands unto God." This little leaflet shows how the prophecy is being fulfilled, and gives a touching picture of the pitiable condition of the girls and women of the Lower Congo. Neglected, overworked, ignorant and darkly superstitious, out of their misery and soul-hunger they are crying to us for light and truth. Small and unpretentious as this leaflet is, it strikes a chord of sympathy, and at the same time is a useful addition to our information, all too meagre of the condition of the women of Africa. Price 1c.

The Story of Comul Dasee.—There is no phase of work in India which appears to appeal so strongly to the heart
