THE IRISH CHURCH.

(From the Times.) What would be the effect upon the Roman Catholic people of Ireland of abolishing the tithes? We answer, that they would benefit not one single penny. The gain would be en-tirely the gain of the Protestant landlord. It is a notorious fact, and one upon which we have ourselves before now insisted, that from the first the principal opposition to tithes, the principal outery against the establishment, was raised and headed by the landlords, the majority of whom are Protestants, and not by the occupiers. We could produce, if they were needed, extracts from evidence taken before committees of the House of Commons, which show that the landowners, having already of Commons, which show that the landowners, having already let their lands at a rack-rent, strenuously resisted, without distinction of religion, the first attempts made on the part of the Church to exact her rights, as being, in point of fact, not a question of religion, but a question of payment, and of payment, too, which must come entirely out of their own, and not their tenants' pockets. Indeed, the establishment of the Church, it may be truly said, is not the thing complained of in Ireland. A passing notice in one, perhaps, among the hundreds of fierce and wicked invectives that O'Connell is now launching, to the deception and ruin, possibly, of thousands of his countrymen, or a hit on some titular's apology for non-appearance at a repeal dinner,—this is all we hear against the established Church. peal dinner,—this is all we hear against the established Church. The position of some of the American state stocks has led to a curious system of operation, which has been adopted by the resident debtors of the banks with great advantage to themselves, through the medium of the English market. The states, it is well known, when the banks became unable to provide for the interest on bonds, were greatly embarrassed at finding themselves exposed to liabilities which they had never contemplated itself, it follows that only 15 of the fires were necessary to get Some of them not being, as they alleged, able to pay the steam up the three boilers; hence there will be a saving of interest, made a certain provision in favour of the bonds, and against the banks to which they were issued in the first case. By this provision the banks are bound to take the bonds as one not in use. In trying her speed over the measured mile, she went over the distance up and down four times. In these trials she proved herself to be a vessel of extraordinary velocity, This being the law, the local debtor of the banks, taking advantage of the depreciated condition of the bonds in the English being 13 8-10 miles per hour, and her minimum speed 10 3-10 market, becomes a purchaser, and thus very successfully reduces his liabilities. One of the commonest operations of the sort is, we understand, the following:—An American landholder has mortgaged his estate to a bank which is subject to the law in question for a certain amount, and finding that the on board, seemed highly gratified at her performances, which the law in question for a certain amount, and finding that the bonds issued to that bank have declined 50 per cent, in Londou, writes to an English capitalist to advance him on the security of his estate half the sum for which it is already mortgaged, and with it to purchase the depreciated bonds, which are transmitted to America. With these he pays off his first mortgage, ordinary at the several ports, none of which are, from the and his estate remains charged only with the sum advanced by the English capitalist, the process adopted having freed it from foreign navies, either in size, capability of armament, or equiphalf its incumbrance without any outlay whatever. KING'S COLLEGE ENCÆNIA.

(Abridged from the Royal Gazette.) The conclusion of another Academical Year has been disinguished by circumstances happily attesting the progress of our Provincial University, and the solicitude of its authorities o extend its benefits.

The Anniversary sermon was preached on Sunday, June 25th, by the Vice-President and Professor of Divinity. At a meeting of the Council held at the College on Monday June 26th, measures were adopted to fit up a suitable apartment for the College Library; and a portion of the annual income having been set apart for the purchase of Books and Philosophical instruments, an order has at once been forwarded

The examinations of the College and Collegiate School are considered to have been, perhaps, the most satisfactory of all which have been held. The Scholarships proposed to general competition were awarded to Mr. William Ketchum, a Student of the College, who had already been thought worthy of a Divin ty Scholarship; and Mr. John O'Mar, a native of the count Topperary in Ireland, who had been creditably engaged for some ime past in teaching a Provincial School in Queen's County. The Silver Medal was adjudged to Master Fisher, the Senior Scholar of the Collegiate School. In convocations held for Trinity Term, Messrs. Charles Coster, William De Veber, Thomas G. Street, and Ward Chipman Drury, were admitted to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, On Thursday, June 29th, His Excellency Sir William M. G. Colebrook proceeded to the College, and held the Encanial Convocation, when the Commemorative Oration in praise of the founders and benefactors of the University was delivered by the Archdeacon. The object of this Oration was to maintain their title to our grateful remembrance, from the more especial consideration of the peculiar provisions of the Charter, which open all the advantages of the College to Members of other Denominations, securing only the interests of the Religion by re-serving the government of the Institution and the Professorship of Divinity to the Established Church of England. The propriety of such a provision was illustrated by the variable attemnts to alter these fundamental principles, and the unsatisfactory nature of the substitutes proposed.

His Excellency the Chancellor was then pleased to conclude the Encænia with an address, which we regret our limits prevent us from giving. An important statute for the Examination of Undergraduates has been adopted by the College Convocation, the substance of which, is as follows:

eation, the substance of men, is a following as "Whereas it is required by the Statutes that no Term shall be reckoned towards a Degree without Academical Residence, and twelve Terms are required to be so kept before admission to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts:

"Be it enacted and declared, for the purpose of extending the benifits of the University, that Students who shall have been duly matriculated, and shall have satisfactorly passed an Examination at the College at the end of Trioity Term for three successive years, and also the appointed Examination for the Successive year.

Degree of Bachelor of Arts, presenting on these several occasions satisfactory testimonials of their moral character and good conduct, may without Academical Residence or the performance of other Academical Exercises, be admitted to the said Degree

THE CROPS IN NEW BRUNSWICK .- We have much satisfaction in stating that the crops througout this Province promise large returns. Hay is expected to be unusually abundant, and Grain and potatoes look remarkably well. The late warm weather will greatly benefit Indian Corn; which it was feared, would be a failure, in consquence of the cold and wet that prevailed early in the season. Were our business prospects aly as good as our agricultural, the Province generally would soon resume its wonted prosperity, and once more afford better times for the merchant, mechanic, and labourer. New Pota-toes have been for sale in our Market during the week, and Green Peas, from the country, for a week or two past .- St. Johns. N. B. Courier, July 15.
