the 100-metre backstroke and women's team members Anne Ottenbrite, Michelle MacPherson of Toronto, Reema Abdo of Belleville, Ontario, and Pam Rai of Delta, B.C. in the 4x100-metre medley relay.

Also at the pool, Sylvie Bernier of Ste Foy, Quebec became Canada's first diving

Anne Ottenbrite jumps for joy on winning the 200-metre breaststroke in a time of 2:30.38 to win an Olympic gold medal. She also won a silver in the 100-metre breaststroke and a bronze in 4x100-metre relay.

Two new world and Olympic records were established by Canada's Alex Baumann when he won two gold medals. He swam the 400-metre individual medley in 4:17.41 and the 200-metre individual medley in 2:13.34.
gold medallist winning the women's springboard event.

Synchronized swimming events were added to the Olympic Games this year and Canadian competitors excelled in their programs. Sharon Hambrook and Kelly Kryczka of Calgary won the silver medal in the pairs competition, while Carolyn Waldo of Beaconsfield, Quebec captured the silver medal in solo competition.

Boating

Canada's medal drive continued on the water with six Olympic medals including the first gold medal for a Canadian Olympic eights crew. Leading throughout the race the eights crew with Pat Turner of Vancouver, Kevin Neufeld of Victoria, twins Mark and Mike Evans of Toronto, Grant Main of Welland, Paul Steele of Delta, B.C., Dean Crawford of Victoria, Blair Horn of Kelowna, B.C. and Brian McMahon of St. Catharines finished the race in 5:41.32.

Victor Davis jubilantly clenches his fist after winning the 200-metre breaststroke for a gold medal and establishing new world and Olympic records. He also won two silvers — one in the 100-metre breaststroke, the other in the 4x100 medley relay.

Rowers from the women's team captured two silver medals. Betty Craig of Brockville and Tricia Smith of Vancouver won in the pair-oars without coxswain and Marilyn Brain of St. Catharines, Angela Schneider of Toronto, Barbara Armbrust and Jane Tegunno of St. Catharines and Lesley Thompson of Napanee won in the four-oars with coxswain.

Bronze medals in rowing went to Silken Laumann and Daniele Laumann of Mississauga, Ontario, in women's double sculls, Robert Mills of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia in men's single sculls and to Doug Hamilton of Toronto, Mike Hughes of St. Catharines, Phil Monckton and Bruce

Gold-medal winner Sylvie Bernier displays perfect form in a reverse one-and-a-half with half-twist in the springboard finals. She was Canada's first gold medallist in Olympic diving.

Canapress Photos