HOURS OF POLLING ARE UNCHANGED

ing of freight trains from the divisional points on elections, to protect railway employes.

Mr. Macdonell (South Toronto) offered an amendment to open the polls at 8 a.m. in ridings situated in whole or in part in cities with a population of 200,000 or over, but this was voted down, and the section of Judge Doherty's bill extending the hours of polling was defeated on a vote of 10 to 12 in the committee of the whole by a large majority.

The clause requiring employers to give an extra hour to their employes on election day without any reduction of their wages was adopted. The bill to amend the Controverted Elections Act so as to shorten and simplify the trial of contested election cases also encountered opposition and was finally left in committee.

Adjourn Over Friday.

On motion of George E. Foster, the house adjourned to adjourn over tomorrow (Good Friday), but will sit on Saturday and Easter Monday.

Hon. Mr. Codrington, secretary of state, announced that the subscriptions to the Canadian patriotic fund to date totaled $3,496,518.

Several government bills were passed and the bill respecting the National Transcontinental was given a second reading. The formal resolution declaring it to be expedient to enfranchise the soldiers of Canada was agreed to without discussion, and Judge Doherty introduced his bill for the purpose. The debate will occur upon the second reading.

Election Act Changes.

The house then went into committee of the whole upon a bill reported by the special committee on elections to amend certain clauses of the Dominion Elections Act. The bill was introduced by Mr. Macdonell (Halifax) and the first three sections of the bill changed the laws that now exist in Saskatchewan and Alberta. In those provinces, when an elector's name was not upon the list he could vote on election day by making an affidavit before the deputy returning officer as to his qualifications. Mr. Macdonell said he had concurred in the recommendation of the committee in ignorance of the fact that the western provinces had no provincial elections lists. The roll for each election was made up by temporary enumerators and a great number of names were omitted.

Mr. Turfitt (Assiniboia) also argued that thousands of electors would be disfranchised in Saskatchewan and Alberta if they were not allowed to qualify by affidavit upon election day.

Carnival of Corruption.

R. B. Bennett (Calgary) took an opposite view. He described Alberta elections as "carnival of corruption." The enumerators, he said, were hungry hounds, and usually violent partisans, and they made up the rolls carelessly and corruptly. In Calgary at the Dominion election in 1911 the enumerators omitted many prominent Conservative citizens, including Mr. Bennett himself. The trouble, he said, could be cured by a provincial election list, but the Stinson government had failed to bring into effect a law passed for that purpose. In the pioneer days Mr. Bennett considered it perhaps necessary that men should qualify at the polls, but a more up-to-date system should now be established. Some extraordinary stories were told in the west respecting the wholesale voting of men who were willing to commit perjury. At one election a charge of 200 votes at four subdivisions in the same riding. It was quite common, he said, to run a train load of men from British Columbia to vote at Alberta elections. The men, thus brought in voted as directed and then returned to their own provinces.

This section was finally dropped and the house then went into a discussion of section four of the bill, which provides that the polls shall be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. instead of from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. as at present.

Oppose Longer Hours.

A. K. Maclean had many proposals made but none were taken up by the committee, having for their object

PEACEFUL VALLEY

"Supplyville" Attacked and Taken by Invading Forces in Sham Fight.

CREDITABLE SHOWING

Col. Logie, Chief Empire, Pleased With Behavior and General Results.

Leslie Junction and vicinity presented the appearance of an armed camp all day yesterday when the second contingent divided into an attacking and defending force fell upon one another and fought for the possession of an imaginary village named "Supplyville," near Edginton avenue. The crack of rifles and "rip" of machine guns filled the peaceful valley of the Don with unaccustomed sound, and the artillery boomed out impressively. The country being both hilly and level in spots was ideal from the point of view of military tactics.

A force called "white" defended the village of Supplyville, about two miles east of Yonge street, and supposed to be the communication line of an army operating in the vicinity of Leslie Junction. The force was commanded by Lieut.-Col. Sanford Smith, consisted of cavalry, one company of infantry, 13th Battery C.F.A., and a motor ambulance corps. The "blues" the attacking force, contained the 19th and 20th battalions, 14th and 15th batteries, C.F.A., and a company of infantry, under the command of Lieut.-Col. John I. McLaren.

The attacking force, preceded by the cyclists, and King's Col. Daneyson, discovered "the enemy." They were held up by the Mounted Rifles. The two infantry battalions of the enemy were held up by the cyclists and the mounted rifles. The cyclists and the mounted rifles were dislodged from their first positions. After an hour's let up for lunch the enemy resumed, making the final assault on "Supplyville." They were successful in their attack but not quick enough to dislodge the defending force. It was pointed out by the mounted rifles that in a sham battle the attacking force is generally allowed to win three times larger than the defenders.

Was Very Creditable.

Col. W. A. Logie was chief umpire. After the manoeuvres were over, he said: "The soldierly spirit displayed by all the ranks during the somewhat trying day was very creditable. No decision of course, was given, as the tactical exercise was for instruction only. Any mistakes made by the units concerned will be pointed out at a conference to be held later."

The troops behaved very well and fire discipline was very well observed by the infantry. The Mounted Rifles, owing to the nature of the ground, did not have any opportunity of using their rifles. The mounted rifles, however, interfered with on purpose so as to train them as infantry and not as cavalry. The attacking artillery section was very good, and came into action very creditably.

"For the defence, the 19th battery did a difficult job well. The cyclists, owing to limited space, were very handicapped. The field ambulance and clearing station did very well. The mounted rifles were a great comfort to the men."

Returned in Cars.

The troops marched to the scene of action in the morning order, but came back to camp in trucks and cars. They were on the go from 7 a.m. until between 7 and 8 p.m., when they were taken to the camp. The cyclists arrived back first at 5:30 p.m.

WOULD STOP TRADE IN DECEPTIVE HORSES

The necessity of putting an end to the large trade in deceptive, unworkable horses, which is carried on in Toronto, was the main point which was discussed at a meeting of the Toronto Humane Society yesterday in an address on the work of the society at a meeting of the East End Ratepayers' Association in St. John's parish house, Norway, last night.

In showing that a large amount of lameness and sore feet prevalent among Toronto horses was due to the hard roads, he advocated the construction of hard roads for fast traffic and soft ones for slow traffic. During the past year 1850 persons had been prosecuted for cruelty to animals, 1500 of whom were Toronto people; $2400 was paid in fines.

Speaking with reference to dogs, Mr. Craven stated that the "mad dog" cases should be killed immediately. There have been very few cases of rabies in Toronto, he said, "in fact I am doubtful whether such a thing exists at all."

Following a short discussion among the members, a resolution was adopted demanding that the city council, in the event of any insurance being effected by the city council.

EARLSCOURT WOMEN HEAR DR. HASTINGS

"If we put our public health on the bargain counter we will get what we pay for, but economy in public health, when efficient," said Dr. Hastings, addressing a meeting of the women's branch of the B.I.A. in Earlscourt school last evening on "Public Health." Sickness is a very expensive thing and so is death. If we make mistakes in public health it is a serious thing which money cannot rectify."

Dr. Hastings gave an interesting description of the work of the health department. He said that in the past almost two hours, was much appreciated.

Miss Meldrum, who presided, in the absence of the president, said that the board of education elections, and appealed to the men to place their wives' names on the voting list by making them owners of their property.

The estimated cost of trunk sewers and water mains, if water were obtained from New Toronto, was $27,882, and of the trunk sewer, $12,000, and the extension of the trunk sewer, $35,440, and $27,700 local improvement tax on an assessment of $100. Reduction in fire risk would save $1 per year.
