PICKPOCKETS AT THE BEACH.

Big Docket at the Police Court After the Holiday.

TWO MONTHS FOR MILLER.

The Police Court dock was well filled with prisoners this morning, and there was a large audience present. Among the occupants of the dock was a middle-aged man named Chas. E. Kramer, charged with picking Mrs. Hoodless' pocket of a purse containing $25 at the Beach at noon yesterday. Joseph and Mrs. Hoodless were in the crowd on the platform about to board the train for Burlington, and while being jostled from side to side Mrs. Hoodless felt a hand in her pocket and missed her purse. The brakeman of the train captured Kramer and turned him over to Conductor Gibson, who gave him in charge of Constable Hazell and S. P. C. A. Inspector Hunter. Kramer was immediately brought to the city and lodged in the cells. The train hands thought that Kramer had three confederates, two men and a woman. Mrs. Robinson, of this city, had her pocket picked by a woman about the time of the Hoodless robbery, but the thief made good her escape. Mrs. Hoodless' purse was found lying near the railway track and returned to its owner. Most of the money had disappeared.

When arraigned this morning Kramer pleaded not guilty, and was remanded until to-morrow. He looks like a farmer, but claims to be a traveller for a Montreal silverware establishment. He says he lost his sample case while drunk on Saturday.

William McMasters, Herne McMasters and Harry Goering raised a disturbance on Stuart street on Sunday night because refused admittance to Berlinghoff's hotel, and also broke in the door of the hotel. They were each fined $3 and $4.50 for the damage.

Frederick Crowley, a huckster in the market, was bound over to keep the peace for threatening to assault his wife on Saturday afternoon. Crowley has not lived with his wife for over two years, and raised the disturbance because she would not let him have the custody of their child.

A charge of assault preferred by W. Logan against Rev. Richard Hatchett, colored, was dismissed, the defendant proving that there was no assault, and also that he had practically supported Logan and his family for several weeks.

The adjourned assault case of Patrick McGrath against Edward Ford was dismissed.

William Miller, the youth remanded from Friday for sentence for stealing tools, was sentenced to two months in jail.

William Holleran, arrested by P. C. Knox on a charge of trespass, was allowed to go.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

HAMILTON MUSIC SCHOOL CONCERT.

There was a large and appreciative audience in Central Presbyterian schoolroom on Saturday evening at the annual summer concert by the pupils of the Hamilton Music School. Messrs. Roberts and Abbs, both of St. Catharines, were prevented from appearing, one by business and the other by sickness. The programme embraced quartette, "Air du Dauphin," Misses Noyes, Irving, Hogan and Richardson; solo, "Souvenir d'Ischl," Morris Long; solo, mazurka, "Wanda," Miss Gladys Burton; duet, "Minuet in G," Misses Ottawny and Steele; solo, "Funeral March of a Marionette," Miss Simonds; duet, "Prelude and Minuet," Misses D. Sweet and M. Murphy; solo, "Gondoliera," Miss Bauer; quartette, "Gavotte de Louis XV.," Misses M. Hills, F. Harvey and M. Lyle; solo, "Nocturne in B Valse in D Flat," Miss Carrie Crerar; song, "Rose Marie," Mr. H. McGiverin; duet, march from "Faust," Misses Pirie and C. Somerville (Dundas); solo, "Soiree de Vienne, 6, Liszt," Miss Maggie Troup; duet, "Nocturne from Wedding Music," Misses M. and H. Locke; song "Past and Future," Miss Counsell; quartette, overture to "Le Philtre," Misses Pointer, Rutherford, Jones and Johnson. All the performers acquitted themselves well. Miss Troup played very brilliantly and was recalled. She is without doubt now one of the finest pianists in Hamilton. Mr. McGiverin was encored and sang "Queen of the Earth." The musicians in the audience pronounced the pupils' work extremely good: notable for musical style as well as correctness. The concert was most creditable to Mr. Aldous and his pupils, and showed the thorough training received in the Hamilton Music School.

NOTES.

George Clarke, Hamilton's old favorite tenor, sang in the Central Church on Sunday, "Fear Ye Not, O Israel," in the morning, and "Abide with Me," as a duet with Mrs. Fenwick in the evening. It is to be hoped the Central Church will see their way to keep him in town, as he is a very valuable member of the musical community. Also in the evening, Mrs. Barr, of Chicago, sang Marsh's "The Lord is my Light." Her beautiful voice and style delighted all who were present.

THE BABY ONCE MORE.

Serious Facts for the Consideration of Mothers.

All wise people will readily admit that, for young infants, the ideal food is healthy mother's milk, but when this is out of the question, a prepared infant food must be used. This prepared food should closely resemble healthy human milk.

It is now admitted everywhere that Lactated Food is the best substitute in the world for breast milk. Its basis is the same as that of mother's milk, that is, sugar of milk; and with it are combined the nutritive qualities of the great cereals, wheat, barley and oats, so prepared as to be readily digested and assimilated. The efficacy of the nutritive qualities of Lactated Food has long been acknowledged by the medical profession. No other food in the world has received such hearty recommendations and praise from mothers.

It is the only food in the world that can ward of dysentery and cholera infantum; and it can truly be said that Lactated Food saves the babies from death.

Every mother should give her infant Lactated Food if it is not progressing in health and growth. One week's feeding with the great food will satisfy any mother of its virtues and superiority.

SUNDAY CARS AND BOATS.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—I would like if some one that is so down on Sunday cars and boats would answer this question: How is it that churches and saloons are both down on the cars and boats. I think that it is time that someone took up this question in the interests of the working man. That is the class that have to stay in the city six days in the week. The class that is having so much to say against Sunday cars and boats can stay out of the city six days a week. A minister of the gospel who gets $3,500 a year should not talk about the cars being run for gold alone. Preaching is a profession, and ministers are called where they get the highest salaries. Most ministers have horses and carriages, and if they want to get away from the heat of the city they can drive. Why don't they talk down the livery business? Any man of common sense knows that is far worse for in so many cases it is cruelty to animals. And then working people who work hard for $300 or $400 a year can't afford to pay $4 for a livery rig on Sunday. I think it is the most selfish thing that I ever saw advocated. They should practice what they preach, "Do unto others as you wish to be done by," and give us all a little fresh air even if we have to get on a car on Sunday to get it. I think ministers have quite a large field for their labors without interfering with what I call the rights of the working people. Hoping the cars and boats will continue to run. Yours respectfully, One Who Works Six Days a Week.

AGAINST SUNDAY CARS.

The young people of Zion Tabernacle Christian Endeavor, at their usual Tuesday service, June 19th, passed a resolution as follows: "We protest against the running of street cars on the Lord's Day and ask the pastor to take a standing vote as early as possible of the congregation, and further earnestly, in Christ's name, ask the congregation to endorse the young people in this movement and so preserve the sanctity of our Christian Sabbath in this city."

Rev. D. L. Brethour, the pastor, writes: "The congregation endorsed the above resolution on Sabbath evening last, July 1st, by a practically unanimous vote."

OUR BAD FOOD.

H. W. Hart Says White Bread is Our Ruin.

EAT THE WHOLE GRAIN MEAL

Mr. Herbert William Hart, a robust specimen of manhood, who declares that he is sixty-five years old, although he looks fully fifteen years younger, is now stopping at Park Avenue Hotel, says the New York Herald.

Mr. Hart is an Englishman, and is well known throughout England as an advocate of dietetic reform. He has been in this country for about three months. He has had a wide and varied experience in various quarters of the globe. He is a survivor of the Crimean war, and asserts that he was the original inventor of the coil system of constructing heavy ordnance, which led to the adoption of the Armstrong gun.

He has for thirty years, he says, studied the food question in all its aspects, and declares that he has made important discoveries in relation to food and diet, which, if followed out, will be of great and lasting benefit to humanity.

His researches have mainly been in the line of what he terms the "bread question." There is, he says, "no question of social economics as important as that of bread reform," and, he adds, "that applies particularly to America."

In showing the important relation of food reform to the health and well being of all civilized communities he quotes from Brillat-Savarin, who said: "The destiny of nations depends on the manner in which they feed themselves."

He launches out the startling announcement that "the scourge of all civilized countries is white bread."

"I have," he said to me, in his rooms in the Park Avenue Hotel, yesterday, "a knowledge that I could communicate to the masses that would be far more important to them than the making of dollars. I have discovered a secret principle that pervades all nature, the strict obedience of which insures the most perfect health that man can attain. By it the maxium of health and strength of body and brain can be attained as well as the perfection of symmetry of both body and face.

"So that," Mr. Hart continued, impressively, "men and women may become more handsome with their present organization than they are; so that they may become the parents of more vigorous children. By this way only can a country be regenerated.

"By this system of living and the observance of natural laws in minute details you can arrive at perfection. I am a cosmopolitan, and I have in mind the welfare of everybody in what I say."

Mr. Hart said that while travelling in Asia Minor forty years ago he first became interested in the food question. He said that the principal evil which civilized communities have to deal with is white bread. He was a miserable dyspeptic forty years ago, he said, but has not had since that time a day's illness.

His secret, he said, was not an ingredient or decoction, but a natural principle. He would not explain what it was. He said that he intended to give it to the world "at the proper time and in a manner that would insure its proper effect."

"This reform," he said, "has also to do with the manner of cooking food. I can render any indigestible dish not only digestible, but delicious to the palate.

"My idea now is to benefit the masses at large. I do not wish to pose as a quack or adventurer. I will agree to take, under the auspices of the Board of Health, any number of men—the worst lot that can be selected—and, if my rules are followed out for only a few months, to raise them to a moral, as well as physical, plane that will astound the community.

"I hold that the universal prevalence of financial depression in all civilized communities, and particularly as regards America, can be traced to the physical and mental depression caused by overwork, worry and undue excitement, resulting primarily and chiefly from imperfect nourishment of the brain and bodily functions, through the almost universal use of imperfectly constituted food, which is fatally incapable of nourishing and sustaining the brain under severe pressure.

"If further proof were needed for these conclusions of the physical bankruptcy of the people, look at the thin, pale, careworn faces, the small necks out of all proportion—the flat chests, the pinched up and ill-developed bodies and legs met with not only in the streets of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, but in all parts of America.

"I will go so far as to predict that unless there is a revolution in the bread eating custom of this country the physical and mental condition of the people will get worse, and the children that are brought into the world will be inferior in type, weight and physique, by reason of the deficiency of lime and silex in the food, which are absolutely essential to the normal growth of the bones, skulls and teeth of the rising generation.

"If people are to be rendered healthy, first of all they must eat bread made from the whole grain of wheat, the same as was eaten by the Apostles and which chiefly sustained them in their arduous work—the only kind that was capable of sustaining their bodies and brains in their task of impressing the multitudes of the truthfulness of their righteous cause.

Bread made from the whole wheat was the kind of bread eaten by the Romans, Greeks, Gauls and Britons. Without this kind of bread the greatest men that have lived before or since the Christian era could not have accomplished what they did.

"The proper kind of bread should contain all the properties of the wheat, including the lime, iron and silex absolutely necessary to make pure, healthy blood, and for want of which the American people employ thousands of dentists to supply imperfect teeth, which would grow to perfection if nature were not handicapped by the ignorance of the natural laws of dietetics.

The great poet Shakespeare ate the whole meal bread, for it is put on record by himself that he used to take the wheat grain to Lucy's mill to be ground for family use, and it would be well for the civilized communities of the world that all families discard at once and forever the sophisticated and adulterated white, spongy starch, so-called bread of the present generation, and partake of only that kind on which the nations of the world chiefly relied for their strength, and which produced the greatest architects, poets, artists and generals, the strongest and most handsome men and the most beautiful and accomplished women."

THE BACHELOR.

A bachelor, old and cranky,
Was sitting alone in his room:
His toes with gout were aching,
And his face was o'erspread with gloom.

No little ones' shouts disturbed him,
From noises the house was free:
In fact, from the attic to cellar,
Was quiet as quiet could be.

No medical aid was lacking:
The servants answered his ring,
Respectfully heard his orders,
And supplied him with everything.

But still there was something wanting,
Something he couldn't command:
The kindly words of compassion,
The touch of a gentle hand,

And he said, as his brow grew darker,
And he rang for the hireling nurse,
"Well, marriage may be a failure,
But this is a blamed sight worse!"
