

Devaney v. Brownlee, 8 Ont. App. Reports, 355 ; not an authority for defendant, as it differs from LeJeune v. Sparrow in (1) plaintiff knew defendant was an accommodation indorser. (2) Plaintiff gave time to principal after security sued on was due. (3.) No consideration. (4.) No debt owing plaintiffs except the one sued on.

Can. Bank of Commerce v. Woodward, 8 Ont. Appl. Repts. 347. Strong authority for plaintiffs inasmuch as H. A. S. indorsed the note sued on as security for the debt owing by Lafferty & Sparrow, not for the particular pieces of paper representing that amount.

- 10 See also Quebec Bank v. Bryant, Powis, et al. 17 Que. L. Repts. 98. "Abuses of power or betrayal of trust by an agent (T. B. L. & A. C. S.) who indorses a bill for his principal does not affect the recourse against the principal by a holder bona fide for value without knowledge of such abuse or betrayal.
