

into insignificance among nations, through the neglect or want of firmness in the politicians of the present day, should they not attempt a measure of such infinite importance to both countries, which is earnestly desired by a great majority of the Colonists themselves.

F I N I S.