The first duty of the mission was to study the conditions existing in Great Britain and Europe, in order to ascertain how far Canadian industry might be utilized to meet the to send back to the Canadian people pressing needs of the moment. The much interesting news resp signing of the armistice, after more than four years of war, found all Europe in chaos. Pre-war trade with all its connections, was absolutely shattered, and the establishment of new connections presented on every hand difficulties which were almost insuperable.

Canadian Credits. Representing the spirit of the people of Canada, the mission came London and Europe prepared to offer Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Two brothers, one to the almost helpless countries of Europe such assistance as Canada could offer. It is perhaps remarkable that in the establishment of credits for European countries Canada actually led the way. The governments of Rumania, Greece, Belgium and France accepted the offer of the Canadian people to supply Canadian products to the amount of $25,000,-000 each, in payment for which Canada agreed to accept a nominal low rate of interest. As early as May 11 last ship were on their way from Canada laden with Canadian cargoes for the relief of these countries and these shipments will continue for many months. These credits do not by any means represent the total volume of Canada's effort, as she is supplying to Europe a large number of products in addition to the St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 2. foundland will tomorrow hold its first general election in six years, the ordinary four-year term for the legis lature having been extended from 1917 because of the war. Interest in the election is high.

A vigorous campaign has been waged and a close vote is expected, but, as delays are considered tnevitable in receiving returns from distant coast districts, some days probably elapse before the result will be definitely known. Both the government and the fishermen's parties have full tickets in the 18 constituencies, and in addition there are several independent opposi-tion candidates. The government party is led by Sir Michael Cashin. The opposition is led by R. A. To you who content yourself with casting your votes on the first day of the year, and who never darken the doors of the city hall and, therefore, are not able to see the gentry whom you elect at work, it might be surprising to know just what the Of course there is the usual round battle lies in the preliminary canters which begin about two months advance.

If the would-be member is not at the present time in the city council circle, then he never fails to attend meetings of the board of control and also of the council. He sits in full view of the press and smiles, with one of those sickly, tolerant twistings of the face, which mean so much in different spheres of life. Besides that he shakes hands with everyone whom he meets, or can, and generally makes himself a very severe nuisance.

If he is in the council he does the hand-shaking act, but with less partiality, that is he clasps the fist of every man, woman and child within range. He trots down deputations to the city hall, and even goes so fast as to fight for their rights.

If the person seeking election happens to be a mayor, he is particularly friendly with representations of attentions.
