GIRL OF 17 TAKES POISON IN COURT

Boston, June 23 —Despondent because she had been surrendered by the police to the probation officials and was about to be sentenced to the industrial school in Lancaster as a stubborn child, Esther D. Thompson, 17 years old, of 10 Cliff street, Roxbury, took some poisonous pills in the detention room of the superior criminal court, and is dying in the Relief Hospital.

Several months ago, she was arrested at the request of her parents, who said she was incorrigible. Instead of remaining at home evenings, it is alleged that she tramped the streets and kept company with people whose character was not good. She was arraigned in the Roxbury court and sentenced to the industrial school at Lancaster.

Appealing, she was held for the superior court. Between the time that she was tried in the Roxbury court and her case came before the higher tribunal, her parents believed that she had mended her ways. Probation officer Keefe was appealed to, and after a consultation it was agreed to give her a chance on probation.

But when she went back to the street her conduct, it is said, was even worse than it was before. The probation officers heard of her conduct and they asked the police to arrest her and surrendered her in the superior court, so she was taken into custody.

She was brought to the courthouse about an hour before her suicidal attempt. She was placed in the women's detention room by the policeman. From the time of her commitment until she swallowed the poison the girl brooded, ignoring those who were trying to console her.

Miss Booth will be accompanied by Col. and Mrs. Gifford, commanders of the New England forces; Col. William Peart, chief secretary for the United States; Lieut.-Col. Damon, field secretary; Major R. Griffith, private secretary; Staff Capt. Welsh and a number of other prominent Salvation Army officers.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McElwaine of Bellevue avenue yesterday celebrated the 14th anniversary of their wedding. With a party of friends they went up river yesterday morning to the home of Thomas Lunney at Swift Point and a very pleasant day was spent. In the evening dancing was enjoyed and the party returned to the city early this morning. Many handsome presents were received, among them being a set of china dishes from Mrs. Bridget Lunney of Green Head.

LATE POLICE COURT

A short session of the police court was held this afternoon, Judge Ritchie presiding. Sarah Moran, Archibald Quinn and George Brown were each fined $8 or thirty days in jail on the charge of drunkenness. James Crowley arrested on a charge of being drunk and stealing a pair of boots from a house in Pond street, was fined $8 or two months in jail. The three Odells who were arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house in Exmouth street were brought before the court and further remanded.

FOUR PRISONERS

Four holiday prisoners faced Judge Ritchie in the police court this morning—William Foley, George Cripps, William Lane and James McDonald—all on drunkenness charge. All were fined $4 or thirty days in jail, but the fine was allowed to stand. Foley was sent into jail to receive medical attendance, as his face and head were cut. The charge of fighting in Hazen street was also recorded against him.

MRS. HAZEN CROZIER.

The death of Mrs. Hazen Crozier, aged sixty-one years, occurred at Olinville, on June 17. Burial took place from her late residence on Monday, the 19th instant. Mrs. Crozier, who was the daughter of the late Thomas Godfrey, of Welsford, is survived by her husband and five children, also by four brothers and two sisters. Her eldest son Charles is employed by the St. John Railway Company.

BURIED TODAY.

The funeral of Mrs. Isabella C. Lee, wife of W. G. Lee of the Eastern Steamship Company took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from her late home, Paradise Row. Services were conducted in the Mission Church by Rev. Father Convers and interment was in Fernhill.

THE ANKLET.

(Kingston Standard.)

The anklet is the latest craze in jewelry. Mrs. Howard F. McCormick of Chicago has introduced the fad and a curio dealer in Atlantic City is offering anklets for sale, his circular reading:

"The anklet will be the correct thing with all well dressed bathers this season. Call and see those of filigree silver, with or without extra ornamentation and made to fit any person."

As the anklet was originally simply a badge of servitude, this is certainly a curious revival of a custom fallen into disuse for centuries.

CONSUMPTION HELPS KEEP UP LIVING COST

Edward F. McSweeney Presents Anti White Plague Fight In a New Form — Astounding Figures

Denver, June 23—"The large factors in the increase of the cost of living, with the serious consequences it entails on the American people, are not the tariff nor the trusts, nor the illegal actions of monopoly although they have a tremendous influence on the increased cost of prices generally in the United States. The chief cause of the increase in the cost of living is waste The largest item is that of waste from unnecessary disease and death, in which tuberculosis is the principal facetor."

Such was the declaration of Edward F. McSweeney, chairman of the board of trustees of the Boston Consumptives hospital who addressed the national association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis. The speaker continued.

"The four great wastes of today, more lamentable because they are unnecessary, are preventable deaths, preventable sickness, preventable conditions of low physical and mental efficiency, and preventable ignorance, all of which are playing their part in a cruel devastating destruction almost incredible to human minds.

"They operate to bring about an advance in commodity prices by affecting the supply of the necessaries of life, restricting supply by taking persons out of productive enterprise, thus making production more expensive. At the same time, while restricting production by the amount of persons it has taken out of industry, this extends demand by increasing the consumption of goods. As a rule the victims of tuberculosis are all confined to the productive period of life.

"The total annual tariff revenue of the Payne-Aldrich bill to the United States government is 20 per cent less than the actual loss of wages and actual cost of sickness and death from tuberculosis alone in the United States. A greater number of persons are taken out of productive industry by tuberculosis every year in the United States than there are wage-earners in the state of Massachusetts.

"The researches of the Sage foundation and similar bodies have demonstrated that the average family income in the United States is less than $800. On this basis the entire family income of 562,500 householders would be required to pay the nation's yearly tuberculosis bill alone.

"Two years' loss from preventable disease in the United States, including tuberculosis, would purchase all the wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat and potatoes, hay and tobacco produced last year in the United States.

"One year's loss from preventable disease, including tuberculosis, in the United States would pay the national debt. It is equal to the combined stock and bond issues of the railroads of the United States. It would provide for the capitalization of all the national banks in the nation and leave enough money over to build the Panama canal."

PHILANTHROPIC TRICKSTERS.

It is the poor, generally the aged working man and woman, whose savings are easily snatched away. The old who can no longer add to the little hoard accumulated in years of thrift, and see the "balance brought forward" on their savings-bank books decrease week after week, are apt to become reckless plungers. The terror of outliving their little reserve and then falling back upon what they dread more than death, public charity, causes them to entrust the few dollars that stand between them and hunger to a glib philanthropist bent on making their old years a golden age of comfort.

And very often their faith in the philanthropist survives the final exposure. After the arrest of a well-known swindler a poor old woman wrote to the investigators: "I don't wish for the bad news to get out. Please don't let it go to the newspapers. It will hurt us all. I don't think he is guilty. . . . I deeply sympathize with him . . . . he has been a nice business friend and partner so long."

And thereupon followed a page-long quotation from the Bible.

Women, especially old maids and widows yield easily to the lure of "quick returns." Some firms deal almost exclusively with women. Their office furniture and personnel, their stationary, their representatives are selected according to the principles which obtain in high-grade department or jewelry stores.

While the majority of "suckers" are drawn from the illiterate working class, no other class of men furnishes a larger percentage of victims than ministers and priests. They are not infrequently approached by or reached through other ministers. They do not bother much about examining the proposition itself; they wish to know about the promoter as a man; they assume that a good man could not be associated with a wicked enterprise.

Therefore circulars destined to impress ministers and priests into partiug with their savings dilate upon the fact that the president of the company is a regular churchgoer, has been active in prohibition campaigns, does not smoke, or has donated a memorial church-window.—Andre Tridon, in Harper's Weekly.

WHEN WE ARE GOING TO BE BRILLIANT.

The accepted theory that civilization is a straight path up from barbarism is upset by Flinders Petrie in his book The Revolutions of Civilization, published this week in Harper's Library of Living Thought. He claims that it is rather an intermittent phenomenon. In the seven thousand years of Egypt's civilization and a prehistoric period behind that of perhaps ten thousand years, it is possible, he says, to discern right successive periods of civilization, each separated by an age of barbarism and decay. In The Revolutions of Civilization the author shows that the time may come when it will be as possible to predict with accuracy the occurrence of a brilliant period in any given country —as easy as it now is to announce the next appearance of Halley's comet.
