MONCTON LABOR DAY CELEBRATION PROVED HUMMER

Thousand Men Were in Line for Big Parade—Athletic Sports, Horse Racing and Band Music Contribute to Day's Entertainment.

Special to The Standard. Moncton, N. B., Sept. 1.—Ideal weather favored the Moncton Labor Unions for their Labor Day celebration, which was a great success from every standpoint. Thousands of visitors from towns and cities and the surrounding country within a radius of one hundred miles flocked into Moncton and the day was a gala one for organized labor who staged the demonstration. About a thousand men, representing practically every branch of organized labor, participated in the parade which took place this morning, and fully eight thousand people this afternoon divided their patronage between the athletic sports on the M. A. A. field and the horse races on the Speedway in the morning parade was a magnificent spectacle, embracing men on foot, on horseback, and on bicycle, and each having a gaily decorated float.

Those participating from outside the city included the St. John Fire Department, accompanied by a band and having a pretty decorated wagon representing "Peace," which won second prize for the most artistic float, and the Sackville troupe, also accompanied by a band, The C. N. R. machinists were awarded first prize for the best float in the parade. Seven bands, including two from St. John, St. Mary's and the Pipers, Salisbury, Sackville and two Moncton bands, furnished music for the demonstration. ### Prince Lays Corner Stone Of Peace Tower of New Parliament Buildings

(Continued from page 1) Robert, have served you well, and I congratulate both the city of Ottawa and the Dominion parliament on the noble edifice in which the parliament and work of the country will soon be carried on. Parliamentary government, Sir Robert, was challenged and severely tested by the great war, but it has emerged stronger than it ever was before. The merits of parliamentary government are almost universally acknowledged, but it is the development of the British race. I am proud to remember that it was in this city that the first summoned Knights and Burgesses from all parts of his kingdom, requesting that each should have power to be named as Edward, who laid the foundations of representative government. This parliament is now in the hands of the great parliamentary tradition which has gradually developed since the time of Edward I. Your parliamentary procedure is the pride of your parliamentary methods and manners are the same, and your parliamentary officers are the same. I will not attempt to equal the words of the great Sir Robert, but I can say that the splendid past, but also of the inspiring future which these buildings represent. No one can stand more fittingly for Canada's achievements in the war than Sir Robert Borden—the only Prime Minister in the Empire who was Prime Minister before the war. Prime Minister throughout the war, and Prime Minister still at the signature of peace. Wise as were the founders of this great confederation, they could never have dreamed that the jubilee of their achievements would be celebrated in the midst of a worldwide conflict in which Canada has had a prominent part to play. The day of the fraternal of nations. I am proud that one of the first items of your business in the session which has just opened is to give effect to the peace of Versailles. That will constitute a new and momentous precedent for it marks the important day in the history of the world policy which the Dominion has chosen to follow. It is the first opportunity which I have had of meeting representatives from Paris to the peace conference. I can, therefore, let it pass without expressing again my deep appreciation of the opportunity which has been given me for seeing and meeting myself, and of the wonderful reception which I have received. I shall look forward to returning here after my trip to the peace conference. My experience with the members of this parliament.

Canada has grown rapidly in the past few years, and has accomplished so much that no one can see limits to her future power and development. The day will come, and it may come soon, when this parliament will wield a real and material power as potent in the destinies of the Empire as that of the British parliament itself. I know that British freedom and British unity are safe in your keeping, and I am, therefore, more than proud to lay the corner stone of this tower, which will mark a momentous epoch in the history, not only of Canada, but of British institutions throughout the world.

His Royal Highness then called for the Duke of Devonshire, the King, Highness to return on his way to the front of the platform and called for three cheers for the Prince of Wales, which were lustily given. Unwieldy waves flag.

Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, then stepped to the front and asked His Royal Highness to unveil the honor flag for the forthcoming Victory Loan.

After unfurling the flag, His Royal Highness replied briefly, saying he considered it an honor to be called to take part in the Victory Loan organization, which would "finish the thing up" in the proper way after the series of allied nations had won the victory.

Inspects War Veterans. The inspection of War Veterans and the march past of the Veterans wound up the proceedings on Parliament Hill and His Royal Highness, accompanied by the Duke of Devonshire, entered the carriage and drove in state to Government House where he was entertained to luncheon at one o'clock. The Allied and Associated governments represented at the Peace Conference.

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—Andrew Carnegie was inducted "the master manipulator of the telegraph key in his day" by Colonel Joseph Green, eighty-six years old, Philadelphia's veteran telegraph operator.

"I first met Mr. Carnegie," said Colonel Green, in 1857. I was at that time an operator for the Pennsylvania Railroad in this city and frequently held conversations over the wire with him as private operator of Colonel Thomas A. Scott, president of the road. We all knew him as Andy and recognized him as a master of the key.

A New Start. When the present board took over the scheme they found that many applications for loans that had been made to the city council. Many of these applications were from citizens of some means, and the board, in order to be benefited by the scheme, promptly turned down the applications and prepared a new list of names, which included many of the same people who had had little means. In the meantime, the board had been questioning each member of the board as to the amount of his own financial position and domestic status. It is disclosed that the applicant has available any money or land of a value in excess of $15 per cent of the proposed house, his application is refused. The board holds for example that if a person has a sufficient money to purchase a building lot and make a start with building, he can finance the balance with regular mortgage companies.

How Lack of Iron Weakens The Blood

Saps The Vitality and Strength and Makes Physical and Mental Weaklings. Nuxated Iron The Red Blood Food

By helping to supply the Iron Deficiency in the Blood Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Weak, Nervous, Run-Down Folks in Two Weeks' Time.

To every man and woman who lacks physical strength and energy there comes a longing at times to possess the power and endurance of an athlete, yet they go on struggling through life weak, nervous and run-down simply because they fail to realize that their trouble is nothing more than lack of sufficient iron in the blood.

Once the needed iron is supplied to enrich the blood and create new red blood cells, signs of weakness disappear and the body quickly gains in strength and vigor. If people would keep their blood filled with strength-giving iron by taking a true Nuxated Iron when they feel weak, nervous and generally "out of sorts" they might readily find that the whole system is the opinion of Dr. Ferdinand King, New York City, and the body of a Physician and Medical Author who says: "Many a man and woman who ought still to be young in feeling is made life worth living simply because their blood is starving for iron. Iron is absolutely essential to enable the blood to change food into muscular, nerve and brain tissue. Without iron you don't get the strength out of your food. Your blood becomes weak, thin and pale and as a consequence you feel irritable, run-down and constantly worn-out."

"Nuxated Iron by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues, and helps to instill life into the whole system. It is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were alling all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.
