The report of the treasurer was read by Mr. Chipman. The estate of St. John has exceeded its pledge of $150 by a good margin and it is thought most of the other counties will make good showing. The reports of other departments showed much earnest work with gratifying results. The field secretary gave a report of his work. There was much to indicate a stronger interest in many places. The prospect is good for a large convention at Woodstock and it is hoped every school which has not already done so, will have delegates appointed next Sunday. All delegates are asked to go directly to the Reform Baptist church, Main street, for registration and they will meet the executive committee.

Letters had been sent to A. L. Day, general secretary, and Messrs. Tullar and Meredith, expressing appreciation of their work. ## DIVORCED AND MARRIED AGAIN

James A. Garland, New York Millionaire, Starts On a Honeymoon Trip With Former Wife.

Boston, Oct. 4—All summer the smart set have watched with interest the attention which "Jimmie" Garland, the New York millionaire, has been showing the beautiful and aristocratic Marie Tudor Garland, who in Salem, in May, 1903, was granted a divorce from him, while the cross libel which he entered was dismissed by Judge Dr. Courcy.

There was a merry party on board the beautiful steam yacht Baracouta, owned by James A. Garland, when she steamed out of Bristol Bay (B. I.), last Wednesday evening, for a cruise, destination unknown. As quick and span as the sailors could make her, the Baracouta, with every bit of bunting displayed, sailed along majestically while her millionaire owner walked the deck accompanied by one of the most beautiful of women, his bride only a few months, his former wife Marie Tudor Garland, who in the presence of her brother, Frederic Tudor, and her cousin, Henry D. Tudor, had for the second time been made his wife. The ceremony was performed by a Bristol clergyman.

Down in the cabin and about the decks the four little children who, the stars law had once willed, could only see their parents separately, now looked on in child-like glee as the father and mother walked arm in arm on the deck and in the bright moonlight renewed their love.

James A. Garland and Marie Louise Tudor Garland were married in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Brookline, by Rev. L. K. Storrs. The honeymoon was spent on the continent and one year later the happy couple returned to this country and took up their residence in one of the houses which the millionaire had at his command.

For the next few weeks at Chestnut Hill, then they went to Beverly Farms and later took up their residence in Brighton.

This time there was being built near Hamilton, a gift from the elder Garland, a beautiful English country mansion, its 22 rooms filled with every luxury and convenience.

In the meantime the stark mad frequent calls at the Garland house and everything went on merrily until 1896, when Mrs. Garland selected the Garlands for the next four years the houseboys fed on the quarrels and reconciliations of the Garlands, who finally in 1900 decided to live apart, and the next year the children were to live at Lincoln.

A reconciliation was effected in 1902, but the breach could not be healed and the unhappy couple again separated. Then relatives of the couple were present, which stirred the 400 of Boston, Providence and New York.

Hardly had the yachting season opened this year when the yacht Baracouta, with "Jimmie" Garland aboard, anchored in Marble Harbor. As soon as he made shore he directed himself to the home of his divorced wife, and again lived with her. For both the young millionaire and his beautiful wife realized they had made a mistake, and, like all sensible people, they have decided to forget the past and once more make that place in the world which is theirs.

PRESBYTERIANS IN SESSION AT PICTOU

Much Business Transacted by the Maritime Synod.

Pictou, Oct. 4—The Presbyterian synod of the maritime provinces met here on Tuesday evening. About two hundred and fifty members were present. Dr. Grant, the retiring moderator, being in Trinidad, the chair was occupied by Dr. Cunningham, who opened the meeting with prayer and read Dr. Grant's address.

Dr. Edwin Smith, of Middle Musquodoboit, was unanimously elected moderator, and addressed the synod, thanking them for the honor conferred upon him. He urged the claims of Dalhousie and the Presbyterian College, and mentioned the question of an increase in the minimum paid to ministers. He considered that increased demands on the funds from various directions necessitated such an increase.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring moderator and also Dr. Cunningham for performing the former's duties in his absence.

The first business before the synod this morning was the petition of D. Small against the action of the Presbytery in connection with the session of St. James' church, Charlottetown, where all papers connected with the matter had been read. It was agreed that the moderator should appoint a committee to deal with it.

The past term had been one of the most successful in its history. Five hundred students were in attendance. The income was $28,538.68, and the expenditure $28,503.07.

Dr. McMillan gave the report of the college board in connection with the resolution of the last synod of the feasibility of another professor in Dalhousie. The resolution submitted by the board is that $5,000 be appropriated for a professor in the department of education, who would be in charge of the department of education in the college.

The wedding took place in St. David's Presbyterian church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Wm. Ferrie.

Twelve children were born, eight of whom are dead. Those living are Mrs. John Lowery, of this city; Mrs. Howard Young, of Boston; Mrs. Harry Bartlett, whose husband was drowned in the Prince of Wales disaster; and G. C. M. Farren, who is living at home.

In 1874 Mr. Farren was appointed tide-water in the customs. This position he held for twenty-six years, and in 1900 he was appointed warehouse keeper, which position he now holds. He was a member of the old volunteer fire department, and was in the 62nd Fusiliers, retiring with the rank of captain and $178.75 pension.
