THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana writes a article for the Berlin News-Record of Philadelphia, which is a study of the sugar industry in the U.S. back country.

It will surprise Canadians who know both the history and the present of the sugar industry in the U.S. back country. It will also surprise them to find that the sugar industry in the U.S. back country is not a new thing, but a very old one.

The senator in question first presents his long history. Next, he discusses the sugar industry in the U.S. back country. He then discusses the sugar industry in the U.S. back country. He then discusses the sugar industry in the U.S. back country.

We are the great exporters of wheat in the world. American wheat is sold in every country. It is sold in every country. It is sold in every country.

At certain points on the border the Canadian farmer may obtain two or three cents a bushel more for wheat than he would get in the U.S. back country. This is a very small amount, but it is a very important one.

Every Canadian farmer who is in the wheat business knows that the wheat business is a very important one. It is a very important one. It is a very important one.

"Take horses and mules. We now ship to Canada every year thousands of horses and mules. This is a very important business. It is a very important business. It is a very important business.

The fate of Canadian farms and Canadian farmers is involved in this proposed deal. Their interests are involved. Their interests are involved. Their interests are involved.

Senator Beveridge goes on to show the book at the end of his line. He says: "So at no point can the American farmer be hurt by Canadian reciprocity. On the contrary, he will be helped in every way. For example, though we were not able to get most of our manufactured products on the free list as we earnestly desired to, yet we did secure very heavy reductions in large numbers of them. Take automobiles, for example. The tariff on automobiles between this country and Canada is cut down one-third. Other manufactured products are cut heavily."

The Canadian market for all of these, of course, will be increased accordingly. An increased foreign market for American manufactured products means the employment of thousands more of American laborers and the paying of millions more in American wages. And what does this mean to the farmer? Why, of course, this means that these thousands of additional American laborers must buy more of what our farmers raise with these additional millions of wages that are paid to these laborers. Simple, is it not? It is the same argument we protectionists have been preaching to our farmers for years, and it is as true now as ever it was. If reciprocity is to be a good-thing to American manufacturers as he claims, then it will be a greater injury to us, since in as long as it is true, we are less able to withstand their inroads on our trade.

That relation with them should teach us to learn the strength of the U.S. is smooth. He is far-seeing. He is far-reaching. If he is getting the better of this deal, as Senator Beveridge claims, then John Canuck will surely get the worst part.

The great evil of reciprocity lies here. We don't need it.

The whole Dominion is prosperous.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The C. P. R. is again dealing with Senator Beveridge's construction of a line from the south to Stratford and on to the Guelph and Godfrey line through Wellesley township to Lindsay. It would rather hear of the Guelph, Preston and Hespeler railway being extended from Waterloo to some desirable point on the Guelph-Godfrey line. Over the building of the Guelph-Godfrey line, the C. P. R. has been very much interested.

The Galt-Town Council has decided to spend $12,000 in the purchase of a 120-acre farm, part in the town of Galt and part outside, to be devoted to the purpose of a school. The story of "Montana," the new American play by Harry D. Carey is an interesting one. On one of the big ranches in the State after which the play is called, the proprietor has discovered that he is being robbed of his cattle. These are being run off to other states and sold, and the proprietor is a band of cattle rustlers are deriving the profit from this nefarious business. The owner of the ranch who is in love with the daughter of the owner, discovers that the rustlers are two of the rustlers employed of the ranch. One of them, a half-breed Indian, is also in love with the daughter of the owner of the ranch. Upon this story being made known the proprietor, the half-breed Indian, to get even with the rustlers. He attempts to make the owner of the ranch believe he is really the guilty party, and the half-breed Indian is thrown into jail, while the half-breed Indian is the heinous of the ranch. With this as the starting of the story the events that follow are thrilling and unique. Of course the story shows how the wicked are punished, and the virtuous are rewarded, but that is done in such a natural manner that every one who witnesses the play will be declaring it one of the strongest melodramas ever written. Mr. Carey, the author, is starting in the play this season and has surrounded himself with an excellent company. Will be seen at the Berlin Opera House, Wednesday Mar. 29th. Tickets now selling.
