

make similar terms with those fifty men that he had done with the former settlers. He then came to the colonial department to ascertain whether he could receive any facilities ; for if the expenses of transport and food could be defrayed for him during the passage, he should be very glad to take out five hundred individuals upon the same terms. The government gave Mr. Ingram no assistance with respect to the fifty that he intended to take out for himself ; but with a view of encouraging a partial emigration from the south of Ireland, in combination with the other emigration which it was intended to encourage to the province of Upper Canada, they consented to allow 14l. per head for the transport and food of the three hundred and fifty individuals, who were to be subject to the same treatment which Mr. Ingram had engaged to apply to the fifty individuals who accompanied him on his own account ; all those individuals are under articles of indenture to Mr. Ingram, and those articles fully explain the nature of the terms entered into. This emigration evidently has not the least of the character of the emigration to Canada, being founded merely on the demand for labourers at the Cape ; and there is no doubt, after the experiment has been made, that individuals, finding the terms upon which they can obtain labourers, will be induced on their own account to advance the money necessary for effecting any second emigration of the same character,
