

In exculpation the severity of the charges contained in the Preface, and if he has inadvertently exceeded the bounds of propriety in respect, he much regrets it, as no such purpose has had the counterpart in his intentions. His object has been to present truth in a plain, unvarnished garb, and not to slander, misrepresent or ridicule.

With sincere love and esteem for all sects and parties who are sincerely laboring to establish the beneficent objects of truth and righteousness in our world, the work is respectfully submitted

SPRING PARK,

August 27th, 1879.

BY THE AUTHOR.

the
and
here
publ
priet
to a
posse
cons
publ
said
valid
be a
ulary
selec
disti
trine
sin,
the u
Let i
that
who
punis
expre
in the
that a
rious
most
whom tors i
nal pu